Favor Reactionary Congress in Line With Red Strategy, TWUA Charges

By Robert C. Albright
Post Reporter

The United Textile Workers Union of America, CIO, yesterday offered what it termed "proof" that Henry Wallace's new party is trying to defeat liberal candidates for Congress "and it was planned that way by the Communists."

In a pamphlet entitled "Third Party: Red Ally of Reaction," the TWUA analyzed 83 congressional races in 12 States to support its charge that the so-called Progressives are carrying out a Communist-conceived plan to bring about a reactionary victory in November.

Summarizing the voting history of congressional districts in which Wallace Progressives are running for office, the TWUA found:

That in 17 cases, incumbents with "fair to perfect liberal records" are in danger of defeat because the third party will draw off part of their support.

21 "Reactionaries" Aided

That in 21 cases, "bright prospects of replacing reactionary incumbents have been dimmed by the injection of third party candidates."

That in 13 cases, "reviving liberal hopes have been completely crushed by the third-party division."

In a foreword to the pamphlet, Emil Rieve, general president of the union, said three questions must be asked about any party: Who runs it? What does it stand for? What does it do?

He said the first two questions already have been answered: that the party is "tightly in the grip of the Communists." As for what it stands for, he said its foreign affairs plank "is a direct parallel of the Communist platform."

Pamphlet Offers "Proof"

"Now this pamphlet undertakes to show what the third party does," said Rieve. "The facts set forth . . . are more than charges. They are proof that the third party is serving only the enemies of liberalism and of democracy itself. Coupled with earlier revelation, they are conclusive."

The TWUA asserted the third party isn't really concerned about the Presidency, but with electing reactionary Congressmen by entering third party candidates to split the liberal vote, explaining:

"The third party will divide the liberals in just those areas where a big vote might otherwise mean victory."

It charged "a scheme to divide and confuse American liberals in such a way that they will bring defeat upon themselves."

"Communism cannot win in the United States, by ballot or by force, while our political freedom endures and our economy holds the promise of prosperity," the pamphlet concluded. "Communism can only win if blind reaction

Election Bureau Gives Johnson 162 Victory in Texas

Dallas, Tex., Sept. 5 (U.P.).—The Texas election bureau indirectly conceded today that Lyndon Johnson, outspoken United States Representative from Austin, had captured the junior United States Senator's post.

The bureau, which kept track of returns from the 254 counties during the State's wildest Democratic primary, announced no more reports would be issued unless a major change should occur.

Johnson announced last night that he had won his fight for the Senate seat of Senator W. Lee O'Daniel over former Gov. Coke R. Stevenson.

The final return from the election bureau gave Johnson a 162-vote margin over Stevenson. Official and unofficial returns combined gave Johnson 494,158 votes to 493,996 for Stevenson.

Food Crisis Looms

Truck Strike Spreads, Hits New Jersey

New York, Monday, Sept. 6 (U.P.).—Some 3500 New Jersey truck drivers went on strike today, joining more than 10,000 drivers whose 6-day walkout has curtailed seriously shipment of food and other commodities in the metropolitan area.

Involved in the New Jersey strike are 3500 of the 4700 members of Local 478 of the International Brotherhood of Teamsters (AFL) at Newark, whose employers have not signed contracts.

Their walkout tended to worsen the outlook in the metropolitan area, where many industries have been virtually paralyzed. It also pointed to a possible general trucking tie-up in the area.

The New Jersey drivers voted to strike at a membership meeting in Newark yesterday. The full effect of the two-State walkout was not expected to be felt until Tuesday, however, because of today's holiday.

Many groceries in the New York area have indicated they might not open their doors tomorrow because of a lack of merchandise.

Before the New Jersey drivers voted yesterday, Leo F. Carlin, president of Local 478, told them: "It might take four, five or six weeks to get this thing straightened out. I point this out to you so you will be fully aware of what this thing (the strike vote) means."

Truman Off To Start Drive In Michigan

President to Make Major Labor Day Speech in Detroit

By Edward T. Folliard
Post Reporter

Aboard Presidential Special, Sept. 5.—President Truman is on the way to Michigan tonight to open his campaign for a full, four-year term in the White House.

Tomorrow at 1:30 p. m., Washington time, he will make a full-dress Labor Day speech in Detroit's Cadillac Square under the auspices of the American Federation of Labor and the Congress of Industrial Organizations.

Actually, this "opening gun" of the 1948 campaign will be part of an oratorical fusillade, for Mr. Truman will make five speeches in all during the day.

Onslaught on GOP Expected

The word tonight was that the Chief Executive will not limit himself to a denunciation of the Taft-Hartley Act, but will loose a general onslaught against the Republican Party.

Mr. Truman, still retaining the tan he got on his nine-day vacation cruise, was in a jaunty mood when he arrived at Union Station this afternoon. With him was Miss Margaret Truman, who had just completed her vacation at the family home in Independence, Mo.

"Let's face the music," he said to Margaret as he spotted a battery of cameramen ahead.

The train started for Michigan—the State in which his chief rival, Gov. Thomas E. Dewey of New York, was born—at 3:30 p. m.

This evening, with Miss Truman acting as hostess, the President had seven for dinner aboard his private car, the Ferdinand Magellan. They were White House Secretaries Matthew J. Connelly and Charles G. Ross; Clark W. Clifford counsel; William Boyle, assistant to Senator J. Howard McGrath of Rhode Island, chairman of the Democratic National Committee; Charles Murphy, administrative

Jet Ship Does 670, Fails To Set Mark

Old Record Stands Because Camera Missed 1 Run at Cleveland Races

Cleveland, Sept. 5 (U.P.).—Maj. Richard L. Johnson flew an Air Force jet fighter 670 miles an hour today but failed to set a new world speed record because official timers did not film one of the four required passes over the speed course.

The 670 mph figure, an Air Force estimate based on results of timing with electronic devices, unofficially shattered the present official world record of 650.796 mph, held by Marine Lieut. Col. Marion E. Carl in a Navy Douglas Skystreak.

But the speed could not be submitted to the Federation Aeronautique Internationale governing body of sporting aviation, for approval as a world record because of a mishap in photographing the speed runs.

New Attempt Planned

The Air Force announced that another attempt to break the record will be made tomorrow.

What happened today, according to the Air Force, was this:

To qualify as a record, a speed must be the average of four passes over a 1.86-mile course at an altitude of no more than 328 feet. Johnson made six passes but the camera jammed on one, a Navy jet plane was mistakenly pictured on another and Johnson flew his F-86 jet ship too close to the camera on a third. The 670 mph figure is the most expert estimate of the average of the other three passes.

Ironically, Johnson had told reporters when he stepped down from his sleek fighter after the speed runs that "I knew I was setting a record if the cameras were working all right."

He actually had not flown his plane to its maximum speed because of turbulence and limited visibility. But he shoved it well into the trans-sonic speed zone, which extends from 80 to 120 per cent of the speed of sound. Sound travels 763 mph at sea level. On one pass, timers with electronic aids estimated that Johnson did 689 mph.

Most of the crowd had left the airport in the belief a new world record had been set and that precise figures would be announced tomorrow after the high-speed camera film had been analyzed at Wright-Patterson Air Force Base, Dayton, Ohio.

Johnson's speed runs, successful or not from the official standpoint, were a dramatic highlight on a day featured otherwise by a new National Air Races woman's closed-course record of 234.962 mph set by Mrs. Grace Harris, a 41-year-old aviatrix from Kansas City, Mo.; a fast Navy jet 259-mile dash from Indianapolis and a renewal of handicap racing in the Sohio trophy event.

Spectators also got a look at the Navy's huge Caroline Mars flying boat which flew here from Patuxent River, Md., carrying 68,283 pounds, the heaviest pay-

6 Badly Burned In Yacht Blast Near Annapolis

Annapolis, Sept. 5 (A.P.).—Six Baltimoreans were seriously burned today when a 35-foot cabin cruiser exploded on Cypress Creek in Anne Arundel County, State police reported.

The boat was the Cornelia Jane, owned by Harold Boreman, 51. The boat's home port is on the Magothy River.

The injured, all taken to Emergency Hospital at Annapolis, were:

Boreman, burned on the entire body; Mrs. Cornelia Boreman, 55, his wife, on face, arms and chest; Arthur Steiner, 49, heads, arms and face; his wife, Cora, 47, entire body; their son, John, 28, entire body, and Kenneth Weaver, 34, face, head, arms and chest.

Five Contestants in Race

Georgia Voters Will Settle Governorship Row Wednesday

Atlanta, Ga., Sept. 5 (U.P.).—Georgia voters will decide Wednesday whether they want the son of the late Eugene Talmadge to be Governor.

Ballots will settle what 18 months of argument between political factions of the State failed to answer conclusively.

Herman Talmadge claimed the governorship in January, 1947, shortly after the death of "Ole Gene." He took over the Governor's office to enforce the contention and served 67 hectic days before the State Supreme Court ruled that Lieut. Gov. M. E. Thompson was the rightful holder of the office until the next election.

Thompson and Talmadge are now both in the race for the governorship, along with three other candidates.

Talmadge has centered his campaigning on the line used often and successfully by his late father—white supremacy and States' rights. He bitterly attacked President Truman's civil rights program.

Thompson, who knew this battle was coming and thus conducted what he thought was a careful "interim" administration, has stuck to his record in office.

Other candidates in the Governor's race are Hoke O'Kelley, planter, lawyer and wartime Army captain; Hoke Willis, a railroad man, and Joe Rabun, who was fired as pastor of Eugene Talmadge's church because of his outspoken views on white supremacy.

New Regime Gives French HCL Bonus

Millions to Receive 2500-Franc Plum; 5 Socialists in New Centrist Cabinet

Paris, Sept. 5 (A.P.).—The new French government of Premier Robert Schuman held its first meeting tonight. It ordered the immediate payment of a cost-of-living bonus of 2500 francs (about $8.33) to millions of French workers.

The action came soon after Schuman formed his new cabinet of France's three middle parties and presented it today to President Vincent Auriol.

Formation of the government ended a period of 8 days in which France has been without a governing body.

1500-Franc Raise Studied

The bonus was ordered paid to virtually all categories of workers. Exceptions were agricultural workers and employes of the state. The bonus voted today was understood to be a sum to be paid retroactively for the months of July and August. It also was understood that the government was considering establishing a monthly wage increase of 1500 francs, starting with September.

Thus, within 12 hours of its formation, the cabinet took steps to meet the demands of labor unions and left-wing political parties for cost-of-living wage increases.

Five members of the Socialist Party are among the 14 ministers and nine secretaries of state selected by Schuman. Withdrawal of support by the Socialists had caused the downfall of Schuman's first coalition government July 19 and the cabinet of his successor, Radical Socialist Andre Marie, August 28.

Schuman, a leader of the Popular Republican Movement (MRP), showed little optimism over the outlook. After he and his colleague had conferred with President Auriol for half an hour, he said:

"The birth of this government has been arduous. Let us hope that the energy put in action for its constitution will be maintained for the pursuit of its acts."

Radical Socialists, MRP members and the Socialists make up the cabinet, along with one independent, Reconstruction Minister Rene Coty.

The cabinet was completed at 7:20 a. m. after all-night consultations.

Discouraged by the outlook, Schuman once gave up his attempt to form a second government, resigning as Premier-designate. However, he withdrew his resignation yesterday in the face of the threat of widening economic conflict and unwholesome repercussions on the European recovery program.

The Socialists, who abandoned the two previous governments because of disagreement with them over wage and price control policies, hold several key posts dealing with fiscal and labor matters. These include the ministries of finance, labor and commerce and the secretaryship of civil service. These appointments may indicate the Socialists were induced to participate by giving them the policy-making roles on matters upon which they have been in opposition.

Schuman will hold the Foreign Ministry in addition to the premiership. Since he held the Foreign Ministry under Marie, no major change in France's foreign policies are indicated.

Marie was named vice premier and head of the French delegation to the United Nations General As-

Polish Reds Split, Oust Chief; Moscow Reports Russia Asks Big 4 Talks on Italian Colonies

State Department Has No Comment Pending Receipt Of Formal Request

London (Monday), Sept. 6 (U.P.).—Russia has formally asked the United States, Britain and France to convene a Big Four Foreign Ministers' Conference on Italy's prewar colonies before September 15, Radio Moscow reported early today.

The broadcast said that Soviet Ambassadors in Washington, London and Paris delivered notes to the three governments Saturday, saying that:

"The Soviet government deems it necessary, prior to the expiration of the term envisaged in the (Italian) peace treaty—September 15—to consider in the Foreign Ministers' Council the question of former Italian colonies in the order established by the peace treaty."

Request Not Yet Received

(In Washington, the State Department said Sunday night it has not yet received a formal Russian request for a Big Four Foreign Ministers' meeting on Italy's African colonies.

(Press Officer Michael J. McDermott said the Department "will have no comment" until the Soviet invitation is received officially.)

Unless the colonies question has been decided by the Big Four by mid-September, the treaty requires that the issue he referred to the United Nations General Assembly, which meets in Paris September 21.

Deputies of the Big Four Council were unable to agree on disposition of Italy's African territories. After months of conferences, the deputies submitted a divided report to their respective governments August 31.

At the final meeting of the deputies, Soviet representative Georgi N. Zarubin proposed a Big Four meeting to debate the issue. However, the proposal was not considered a formal call for a meeting.

Territories Involved

The principal territories at issue are Libya, in North Africa, and Italian Somaliland and Eritrea, bordering Ethiopia to the north and south near Africa's eastern tip.

Britain is responsible for maintaining order in the colonies until their fate is decided. The report of the deputies was kept secret, reportedly because Britain feared its publication might cause widespread rioting among colonial natives.

Russia and France have publicly advocated return of the colonies to Italian control, while Britain opposes such a step. The United States has not taken a public stand, but is believed to side with Britain.

Both the United States and Britain have strategic bases in Libya, which they presumably would be reluctant to surrender.

During the war, Britain promised the powerful Senussi Arab tribes of eastern Libya that they would never again fall under Italian domination. There reportedly is a strong anti-Italian independence movement in all three colonies.

Many American experts say that anti-Italian sentiment is so strong in the Italian territories that Italy's limited army would be unable to maintain peace in the col-

Czechs Declared 'in Despair' At Benes' Death, May Resist

Thousands Stand In Line for Hours

Sezimovo Usti, Czechoslovakia, Sept. 5 (U.P.).—Thousands of silent Czechs stood in line for hours today for a last glimpse of former president Eduard Benes, who died Thursday.

The mourners moved slowly in a line which stretched four abreast for 2 miles from Benes' guarded country home on the edge of Sezimovo Usti, 60 miles south of Prague.

Benes died at his villa here after a long illness. Tomorrow and Tuesday his body will lie in state in Prague. The Communist government has arranged a state funeral for Wednesday and Benes will be buried in the garden of his home here on Friday.

People came by train, bus, motorcycle and automobile to view the body. Many wore black clothes or black mourning bands. They started arriving shortly after midnight, although the wooden gates were not thrown open until 8 a. m. One group of 43 mourners arrived

Ex-Ambassador Airs Views Here

The death of the former Czechoslovakian President, Dr. Eduard Benes, will throw the people "into despair" and may cause an upsurge in "resistance to the Communist usurper" in Czechoslovakia.

This was the prediction yesterday of Dr. Juraj Slavik, former Czech Ambassador, in an interview on the Ed Hart radio program, "Is Congress Doing Its Job?" over station WINX.

Dr. Slavik also stated that Benes had acceded to the Communist coup last February in order to prevent "fratricidal fighting." He said he has been getting information regularly from the Czechoslovakian underground, and added, "What I am revealing has never been published. I cannot say more about my sources."

Asked by Hart what he thought the effect of Benes' death would be on the Czech people, Dr. Slavik replied:

"All the hopes and desires of the people have been centered on

Pope Warns Germans Face Religious War

Cites Marxist Threat In Saying Church Must Fight for Independence

Vatican City, Sept. 5 (A.P.).—Pope Pius XII told German Catholics today they may have to fight "to the last drop of blood" for the independence of the Roman Catholic Church.

It was the Pope's first speech to Germans since the end of the war. Delivered in German, it was broadcast by the Vatican radio on the occasion of a Catholic celebration in Mainz.

The Pope did not say specifically against whom the German Catholics may have to fight. It seemed clear, however, he wished to emphasize anew the peril of "atheistic communism," against which he has repeatedly rallied Catholics in the past.

Refers to Marx Manifesto

He told his German listeners that "your destroyed cities are speaking symbols" of the "slogan of violent overthrow of every social order, published 100 years ago." This was a reference to the basis of modern communism—the Communist manifesto of Karl Marx and Friedrich Engels issued in 1848.

Ninety minutes after his German broadcast, the Pope stood in the rain on the steps of St. Peter's

Britain Launches Rearmament; To Enlist 100,000

London, Sept. 5 (NYHT).—The British government has launched a limited rearmament program, it was reported today.

The cabinet was said to have ordered rearmament because it believes there is or was danger of war over the Berlin blockade, and enmity between east and west is certain to continue for a long time.

Britain will recruit 100,000 men for the territorial army. The cabinet is believed to have decided to slow down demobilization, and to increase service for conscripts from 12 to 18 months.

'Framed' U. S. Vice Consul Quits Sofia

State Department Calls 'Spy' Charge Obvious Fabrication

By the United Press

The State Department disclosed yesterday that U. S. Vice Consul Donald F. Ewing has left his post in Sofia as a result of a Bulgarian spy charge which the department denounced as "a transparently fabricated maneuver."

The disclosure came shortly after Sofia newspapers published what it called an official Bulgarian announcement of Ewing's "recall."

The Bulgarian version was that the diplomat had been trapped on a Sofia street while getting "important espionage information from two Bulgarians." United States Minister Donald Read Heath, it was added, was told of Ewing's activities and had him recalled.

Michael J. McDermott, State Department press officer, gave the following version to newsmen here in Washington:

On July 16, Ewing agreed to meet two Bulgarian acquaintances outside the United States Legation in Sofia. He had known the men in connection with visa work of the legation, but had not seen them for several months.

Bulgarian secret police arrived almost immediately and arrested the Bulgarians in the American vice consul's presence.

The Bulgarian government declared Ewing "persona non grata" and requested his recall.

McDermott said the action was based on "documents of which the contents are unknown" and "allegedly" found in the pocket of one of the men, and the "alleged subsequent 'confessions'" by the two men that they had been "engaging in 'espionage' for the United States through Ewing."

McDermott said Heath protested to the Bulgarian government the "arbitrary nature of that government's action on the basis of a transparently fabricated maneuver

75-Million-Bushel Argument

Sawyer's Price-Cut Aim Splits Cabinet on Grain Export Plans

By John W. Ball
Post Reporter

A sharp division has developed in President Truman's Cabinet over grain export allocations for the crop year ending next June 30.

The row has resulted in a two-months' delay in the report on grain shipments last year and the allocations for the present year, usually put out by the White House soon after the crop year closes on June 30.

The stumbling block to a unanimous decision on the year's export plans is Secretary of Commerce Charles Sawyer. Sawyer, with Secretary of State George C. Marshall and Secretary of Agriculture Charles F. Brannan make up the Cabinet Food Committee.

Brannan and Marshall, supported by Dr. Dennis A. FitzGerald, food chief of the Economic Cooperation Administration, had tentatively agreed upon a program for the export of about 475 million bushels of grain next year. This is more than 100 million bushels less than was exported last year, in spite of the fact that this year's crop of the six chief grains totals 1350 million bushels more than the 1947 crop.

But Sawyer refuses to agree to that figure. Sawyer insists that the program be cut to 400 million bushels. His argument, which he made public in an extraordinary news release about a month ago, was that if the grain was kept in this country it would have the effect of beating down the cost of living.

"It is time," he said, "to think

Potomac Canoe Tragedy

6 Washingtonians Meet Death In Holiday Drowning, Crashes

The holiday weekend death toll of Washington residents rose to six yesterday with the drowning of a 22-year-old youth in the Potomac River.

Five Washingtonians lost their lives during the weekend in traffic accidents. None of the traffic deaths occurred in the District.

The drowning victim was Augustine Lufriu of 1410 16th st. nw., an employe of the Washington Terminal Co. He was drowned in the Potomac about 300 yards above Three Sisters Island at 4:30 p. m.

Police said Lufriu and two companions, Miss Frances Spencer, 25, a decorator at the Hecht Co., and Lieut. (j.g.) Donald Miller, 25, of the Navy Department's photo division, were in a canoe rented from Dempsey's boat house. They also live at 1410 16th st. nw.

The canoe rocked and the two men were pitched into the water. Lufriu could not swim. Miller tried to save him, he told police, but had to abandon the attempt when Lufriu became hysterical. Miller swam to shore and Miss Spencer, who had remained in the half-filled canoe, paddled it to the bank.

Harbor police recovered Lufriu's body about an hour after the drowning, and it was removed to the morgue.

The two survivors told police they had finished a picnic lunch on Three Sisters Island shortly before the accident, and were paddling upstream when the two men fell into the river.

Soviet-Dominated Leader Installed As Party Faces Major Breakup

Warsaw, Sept. 5 (A.P.).—Poland's Communist Workers' Party split wide open tonight over the issue of whether to follow the Moscow Communist line or remain a nationalist group.

The party's executive committee announced it had dismissed Vice Premier Wladyslaw Gomulka, who backed Premier-Marshal Tito of Yugoslavia against the Moscow-led Cominform, as secretary general.

Poland's President, Boleslaw Bierut, a firm supporter of Moscow and the Cominform, was named to succeed Gomulka as party leader.

Party Break-Up Faced

The pro-Cominform executive committee, in a statement of several thousand words, admitted tacitly by its announcement of the switch in leadership that the Communist organization is facing a possibility of a break-up. Reliable reports say a large part of the party's membership is in open revolt against dictation by the Cominform and Moscow.

It is clear that the Communist Workers Party now is facing the most serious crisis in its history.

Bierut's new assignment will give him the task of settling disputes within the party ranks. These disputes are said to involve about one-half of the party's one million members.

Charges Against Gomulka

The executive committee's statement, which denounced the "rightist and nationalist deviation" within the party, accused Gomulka of:

1. Agreeing with the stand of the Yugoslav Communist Party against the Cominform. Also expressing a desire for "conciliatory relations" with Yugoslav Communists.

2. Failing to keep secret his opposition vote to the executive committee's decision to back the Cominform against Tito.

3. Failing to agree with Communist plans for socializing production on peasant farms and in peasant villages.

Gomulka long has been known as a man who is a Pole before he is a Communist. He is popular and commands a large following throughout the nation.

"Unceasing Battle" Urged

The committee's statement called for an unceasing battle against imperialism, nationalism, capitalism and all principles opposed to Marxism.

It said deviations in the party were discovered as early as June and that tonight's action was the result of "false ideological concepts" in the party as to what Marxism constitutes.

The statement, adopted as a resolution, admitted that elements opposed to the Moscow brand of communism had infiltrated the Workers Party during its mush-

Stambolic Named Chief of Serbia in Tito Reshuffling

Belgrade, Yugoslavia, Sept. 5 (A.P.).—Peter Stambolic, head of the Yugoslav Peoples Front, has been made President of Serbia in a further reshuffling of the Communist leaders.

His appointment as head of the nation's biggest republic was made today at an extraordinary session of the Serbian Parliament.

Stambolic, a stanch Tito Communist who joined the Partisans in 1941, has been federal Minister of agriculture. Stambolic was made President of Serbia in place of Blagoje Neshkovic, who has become a Vice Premier. The recent changes have resulted in the topmost lieutenants of Premier Marshal Tito being promoted and placed more directly in complete control of the nation's administration.

Gen. Feng Victim Of Red Ship Fire

Moscow, Sept. 5 (AP).—The death of Gen. Feng Yu-hsiang, China's fabulous "Christian general," aboard a Russian ship in the Black Sea was announced in the Moscow press today. He was 67.

The newspapers Pravda and Izvestia said the chunky former war lord and a daughter perished in an accidental fire aboard the Russian motor ship Pobeda near the end of a voyage from New York to Odessa. The news of Feng's death came when the ship docked at Odessa.

The newspapers said the blaze resulted from careless handling of motion picture film. They said there were other victims of the fire, but gave no details other than to note that Feng's daughter was killed.

Feng started back for China last month, saying he planned "to help overthrow" the government of Chiang Kai-shek. He was understood to be going first to north China to start rallying Communist and non-Communist foes of the Nanking regime.

Feng, who had come to the United States in 1946 to study water conservation after his relations with Generalissimo Chiang Kai-shek had become strained, was the object of a bitter attack by Representative Walter H. Judd (R., Minn.) while in Washington last December.

Judd said Feng was violating the hospitality of the United States by making attacks on the Chinese Nationalist government and said he was "a professional renegade" who was collaborating with the Chinese Communists in the hope of regaining the power he once held as a warlord.

Associated Press WIREPHOTO
GEN. FENG YU-HSIANG
Dies in Russian Ship Fire

Judd likened Feng's tour of the United States making speeches attacking Chiang's government to that of former Vice President Henry Wallace's criticism of American foreign policies while overseas.

Feng said the comparison to Wallace was "an honor." Feng said that for the United States to give supplies to Chiang's government was useless and dangerous. Relief supplies, he said, would fall into the black market, and arms would be captured by the Communists and used against the Nationalist government.

Ostracized as "Traitor"

After being ordered home and refusing to go, Feng was expelled January 7, 1948, by the Kuomintang advisory committee for "disloyalty."

The general told New York reporters at the time that his recall was typical of a dictatorship and he felt honor-bound to ignore the order.

The general maintained that peace could be restored in China in four months if a coalition government representing all the parties—including the Communists—was formed.

Persons familiar with the Chinese political situation expected Feng eventually to link up with Marshal Li Chi-shen, once Chiang's chief of staff and now one of his bitter opponents. Li is reported to be in Hong Kong and it was felt that the two generals might lay the actual groundwork for the new government there to avoid meeting in Communist-held territory and giving the whole project too reddish a tinge.

The State Department withheld official comment on the death report.

A spokesman said it was unlikely the department would have any public statement on the subject, since Feng had been purged from the Chinese government for disloyalty last January by Generalissimo Chiang Kai-shek.

This official said that he had not heard that Feng planned to return to China by way of Russia. He said the latest report he had seen was a published account that the marshal would go to British-controlled Hongkong, where he would not be subject to seizure by the Chinese government.

In Berkeley, Calif., the general's daughter-in-law raised the possibility that he may have been the victim of his own motion picture hobby.

She said he had taken with him some personal movies and a quantity of films of the American hydroelectric and reclamation projects he had been studying.

Natified of the death report by the Associated Press, she said she and her husband had last heard from the general in a letter postmarked in Egypt (apparently when the ship stopped there), saying merely that he would be unable to write again for some time.

The general's son, Feng Hung-chi, is a mechanical engineering student at the University of California. He was so overcome by grief that his wife spoke for him.

She said they had not know what route the general was taking to China, but that all the rest of the family was with him.

This included General Feng's wife, a second son, Paul Feng; two young daughters, Mildred and Dora; and an elder daughter, Lita, with her husband, Robert Lo.

Daughter Wed in New York

Lita was a premedical student at the College of the Pacific, Stockton, Calif., until last January, when she went to New York and was married to Lo.

The Soviet report did not make clear which of the three daughters was killed.

The general's widow is the former Li Teh-chuan, who once was a Y. W. C. A. secretary in Peiping. She was known to many Americans there and in Chungking as a brilliant woman, greatly interested in her husband's stormy career.

Feng was dubbed the "Christian general" because he once baptized his troops with a hose. After his own baptism into the Methodist faith in 1913, he converted all his soldiers. His troops soon were marching to battle singing "Onward Christian Soldiers."

Smoking, gambling and all forms of loose living were forbidden and daily attendance at prayer meetings was part of the army routine.

Follower of Sun Yat-sen

Later, however, Feng organized the "people's army" and found himself commanding devout Mohammedans and Buddhists. He quickly dropped the religious element from his military training.

Reports Received With 'Reserve' in China

Nanking, Sept. 5 (AP).—Moscow reports of the death of Gen. Feng Yu-hsiang, China's "Christian general," were received with reserve by Chinese government officials today. Official spokesman Hollington Tong said there would be no immediate comment on the report.

Fist Fights Threatened in Berlin Council

Berlin, Sept. 5 (AP).—Danger loomed today of actual fist swinging between Communists and anti-Communists in their struggle for control of Berlin's city government.

The threat arose as Berlin's city council prepared to hold a scheduled meeting at noon tomorrow in defiance of Communist vows to storm the city hall.

The Soviet press said the anti-Communists had organized "commando groups" to protect the city hall. Socialist leaders denied this, but added they had strengthened door guards and taken "certain other measures" for protection. Ernst Reuter, Social Democrat council member, said he expected trouble at the meeting.

The anti-Communists sought to guard against a repetition of riotous Communist invasions which broke up two council meetings 10 days ago. The city hall is in the Soviet sector of Berlin. Appeals to Soviet authorities for protection against rioters have been ignored.

Six American soldiers were back with their units today after their arrest and brief detention last night by Russians in the Soviet sector of Berlin.

[Meanwhile, four more Americans, apparently civilians, were reported by United States military police to have been missing in the Russian zone of Germany for more than 12 hours, according to a United Press report. Russian officials were reported as saying they had no information about the four, who left Berlin in two automobiles.]

Amid the tension, the four allied occupying powers continued their negotiations to settle the crisis precipitated by the 74-day Soviet blockade of Berlin.

The United States, British, French and Russian military governors rested today, but special Sunday sessions were held by three committees of experts working on technical issues related to lifting of the blockade, introduction of a single currency in Berlin and resumption of trade.

The governors had a day off after five days of successive meetings. They will meet again tomorrow to resume work on the directives sent to them from the East-West talks in Moscow. Strict secrecy was maintained on all the discussions.

Non-Communist leaders in Berlin renewed their demands that the Big Four take a hand in the local political crisis and force a halt to Communist pressure tactics.

Silent Czechs File by Body

at 3 a. m. in a chartered bus after driving all night from northeast Bohemia.

Police said at least 25,000 persons had arrived by mid-morning. All highway traffic was stopped and the mourners had to walk the last 3 miles to Benes' villa.

Benes' body was brought to his home from the Tabor hospital at 7:45 a. m. in a black hearse with glass sides. Uniformed soldiers were posted at 100-yard intervals along the route. The hearse bumped along slowly on a flat tire. Mourners could see Benes plainly and many began to cry.

There were men carrying children and women bearing flowers. There were red-faced farmers, city workers and kerchiefed peasant women. Many walked with canes. One gray-haired woman sat on a bicycle while two men pushed her along.

Benes was laid in a glass-topped, plain black metal coffin on an open porch of his home. The glass was removed to give the mourners a better view.

Those with flowers dropped them at the foot of the casket. Some of the women knelt as they left their bouquets. At least half broke into tears.

"You can't understand what this means, if you're not a Czech," said a perspiring old man in his black Sunday best.

At 6 p. m., police estimated an average of 3500 persons an hour had viewed the body and the line still stretched for more than a mile.

load ever lifted over a substantial distance.

A week ago the Caroline Mars flew 4748 miles from Honolulu to Chicago with a 14,000-pound payload to set an unofficial long-distance land-carrying record. The ship is commanded by Lieut. Cmdr. James G. Lang commander of Navy Air Transport Squadron Two.

The $7500 Sohio, for F-51s, F-38s and F-63s was won by Robert I. Eucker, Cleveland former Air Force instructor, who spun around the low pylons at 320.220 mph to take first prize of $3150 in the 105-mile race.

Trailing Eucker's F-63 King Cobra to take second place and $1750 was John E. Saum, Baltimore, former Air Force pilot who had 50 missions over Europe. His speed in an F-38 Lightning was 318.198 mph.

Other Entries

Third place was won by H. S. Gidovlenko, Alhambra, Calif., former RAF and Air Force pilot, whose speed in an F-38 was 317.952 mph and prize money $1050.

Charles E. Walling, jr., Houston, Tex., a veteran flyer and former "Hump" pilot, copped fourth place and $700, flying an F-51 Mustang, 316.877 mph.

Bruce E. Raymond, Hammond, Ind., took fifth place and $350, racing his F-51 at 315.623 mph.

Charles W. Bing, Lynchburg, Va., finished sixth and out of the place money but won a $500 prize for the fastest lap—395.546 mph.

Mrs. Harris set her new woman's closed-course record while winning the 75-mile Kendall Trophy race for AT-6 trainers, with a take of $2750. Of this, $500 was for the fastest lap time—238.221 mph. She did the 5 laps of a 15-mile course in 19 minutes, 9.12 seconds.

Mrs. Harris was hard pressed on the first lap by Mrs. Ruth Johnson, pretty Upland, Calif., racing pilot who won the event last year when it was known as the Halle Trophy. But Mrs. Johnson had to pull out on the second lap because of a broken oil line. Mrs. Johnson's 1947 speed was 223.290 mph.

Behind the winner were: Katherine Landry, Coral Gables, Fla., former Wasp, who won $1250 and second place with a speed of 218.758 mph.

Mrs. Dot Lemon, 41, and a grandmother, took third place, barely nosed out by Miss Landry, for winnings of $750. The red-haired Mrs. Lemon has homes in New York and Houston.

"Buzz Betty" Clark, Denver, Colo., former Wasp and former X-ray technician, was fourth with a speed of 215.593 mph. Her take was $500.

Last in the money was Nancy Corrigan, Columbia, Mo., former Powers model, whose speed was 214.262 mph. She won $250.

Finishing out of the money was Helen McBride, Apopka, Fla., who flew the course at 206.844 mph.

Allison Jet Race

Lieut. L. E. Thompson, jr., San Diego, Calif., won the Allison Indianapolis-to-Cleveland Navy jet race at a speed of 490.703 mph. Thompson's elapsed time for the 259.950-mile course was 31 minutes 43.1 seconds.

Second in the Allsion was Lieut. A. E. Nauman, Boston, Mass., with a speed of 461.814 mph. and elapsed time of 33:46.4. Lieut. Comdr. A. B. Conner, jr., Coronado, Calif., was third with a speed of 458.938 mph. and elapsed time of 33:59.1. The Squadron 51 trio flew jet FJ-1 Furies.

Thompson said the air was rough and there were some clouds along the course. Asked whether his plane performed all right, he replied that "that's the only way that plane flies."

In the Allison, contenders had to rise to 30,000 feet from take-off and dive toward Cleveland to cross the finish line at 500 feet in a simulated interception of enemy formations.

Jet Speedster Misses Plane by 10 Feet

Cleveland, Sept. 5 (AP).—Maj. Richard L. Johnson, new apparent winner of the world speed record, missed a small plane by 10 feet in one of his six passes today.

"I don't think the pilot saw me," grinned the major. "He had every right to be there. He was about five miles west of the field. The plane was an Aeronca."

room growth, despite a far-reaching purge that has been pushed particularly during recent months.

The outcome of Bierut's leadership will depend on whether the Communists are determined to hold their grip on power in Poland and, also, whether an agreed merger with the left-wing Socialist Party is carried out.

The committee attacked Stanislaw Mikolajczyk, former leader of the opposition Polish Peasant Party, who has fled Poland and is now in Washington. In the same section it blasted the "country-offensive of American imperialism and reaction," which it said was aimed at shattering a united workers' front.

The executive committee's communique said the action of removing Gomulka was taken after Beirut and another member of the Politburo, Hilary Minc, Minister of Industry and Commerce, outlined their views on what should be done to liquidate "rightist and nationalist" elements in plans for socializing peasants' villages.

Beirut mentioned specifically that "rightist and nationalist" elements exist in the party's leadership.

The committee also announced the election of Gen. Witold Jozwaik to membership on the Politburo. He is the head of Poland's militia.

Many Poles declared that as high as 50 per cent of the party's membership is dissatisfied with the Cominform line of action carried out by the workers central committee from Warsaw headquarters.

Gomulka was himself said to be a leading dissenter. It is understood he opposed the Cominform's expulsion of the Yugoslav Communist Party and limitations on nationalistic expression.

Party members said that since Gomulka differed with most of the leadership, the only alternative was to ask Bierut to take the reins and try to iron out differences.

The Communists are eager to absorb the left-wing Socialists, of whom Premier Jozef Cyrankiewicz is secretary-general. The merger was understood to have been agreed upon last spring. Delay in carrying it out was held to indicate that the Socialists want to make sure they will be joining a stable party, without internal struggles.

Death of Benes May Increase 'Resistance to Red Usurper'

Dr. Benes," Slavik said. He added that the people have felt that Benes would "again find the only right solution" to the nation's problems, and that his death will plunge the people "into despair."

"Now the Czechoslovakian people must realize that they cannot rely on Benes any more, and they must rely on themselves."

When they have recovered from the news of Benes' death, Dr. Slavik feels the Czechs may heighten their resistance to the Communists.

He also expects that the Communists "probably will be stronger in their activities and tactics" after Benes' death.

Benes' Stand Explained

In support of his statement that Benes had acceded to Communist demands only to prevent a worse catastrophe, Dr. Slavik said that Benes had called a meeting of Czech Army generals shortly after the Communist coup last February. He told them that he feared people would be arrested, and that concentration camps might be organized, but that he had acted only to "prevent worse consequences." At that time, Dr. Slavik said Benes told the generals he feared a conflict of world powers was "imminent."

Dr. Slavik said President Benes later spoke with representatives of the Soviet Union in Czechoslovakia and told them:

"I am submitting to you only to prevent fratricidal fighting. You are underestimating the moral maturity, loyalty and democratic sense of the Czechoslovakian people."

Dr. Slavik said he felt Dr. Benes' greatest disappointment was his feeling about Josef Stalin and the Communist Party. "He made a wrong judgment about the honor of the Soviet leaders," said Dr. Slavik.

Had Warned Stalin

Explaining further, Dr. Slavik said Benes had felt Stalin was indebted to him because he had warned Stalin against his enemies.

"Benes had visualized Czechoslovakia as the bridge between East and West, said Dr. Slavik. He quoted a statement made by Benes during the war years: "The question on the success of a democracy mainly is the question of the perfection of her leaders and of the condition of political maturity of the masses of people."

Said Dr. Slavik: "Dr. Benes educated his people for maturity and gave a nearly perfect example to the people of a political leader."

Dr. Slavik, who resigned as Czech ambassador early this year after the Communist coup, now lives at 7017 Wilson lane, Bethesda. He told a reporter for The Washington Post that he hopes to get a professorship "to support my family."

Italy Violating Treaty On Ships, Reds Charge

Moscow, Sept. 5 (U.P.).—A Tass dispatch from Rome said today that Italy, "with the connivance of the American, British and French governments," is deliberately violating the Italian peace treaty by refusing to give Russia 45 warships.

The dispatch said the delivery date is long overdue, under terms of the peace treaty, and that Italy even has refused to hand over 3 ships which Russia agreed to take in their present unrepaired condition.

onies even if she got them back.

The issue has been further complicated by United States presidential politics. Gov. Thomas E. Dewey, the Republican candidate, recently urged return of the colonies to Italy under trusteeship. President Truman replied that he didn't think the matter was properly one for domestic political discussion.

Possible solutions to the problem, other than outright return of the overseas territories to Italy, include a proposal for an independent Arab state in eastern Libya, and the return of the other colonies with the exception of a corridor through Somaliland affording Ethiopia with an outlet to the sea.

Such a plan would disappoint Italy and might touch off a new burst of campaign fireworks. However, it would lay the groundwork for establishment of possible western bases in the proposed Arab state, from which the United States and Britain could guard the cold war communication lines to Greece, Turkey, the Mideastern oil fields, and other pressure points.

Communism Tract Sought By Million

On Vital Question

N. Y. Statute Suggests Way To Foil Reds

By the United Press

House espionage investigators yesterday studied a New York law as a possible weapon to force Government employes to answer their "are-you-a-Communist" question.

The refusal of witnesses to answer that question, on grounds a reply might be self-incriminating, has been a big stumbling block in the House Un-American Activities Committee investigation of an alleged Communist spy ring in Washington.

The New York statute prohibits State employes from making such a plea before either a grand jury or a legislative committee when the question involves their jobs.

Morris Ernst Suggests Action

It was called to the committee's attention by Morris Ernst of the American Civil Liberties Union, who suggested that a similar law for Federal employes would prevent them from ducking similar questions.

Representative Nixon (R., Calif.), a committee member, said the proposal is "under study" but emphasized that it could not be invoked against the recalcitrant witnesses who have appeared so far in the present investigation.

"We cannot make the law retroactive," he said. "the witnesses who refused to answer our questions already have left the Government."

But he said such a law would be helpful in the future, and hinted that he favored one that would apply to all persons, not just Government employes alone.

To Test Reds' Strategy

The committee's 12 reluctant witnesses—all but two of them former Government workers—cited the Fifth Amendment to the Constitution as their authority for refusing to answer any question that might be self-incriminating.

Nixon said the committee is determined to test that theory and plans in the case of Alexander Stevens, alias "J. V. Peters," who has been described as America's No. 1 Communist. Now facing deportation Stevens used the "constitutional" defense in refusing to answer questions before a subcommittee sitting in New York.

By Marshall Andrews
Post Reporter

More than one million citizens have written the House Un-American Activities Committee for its booklet on Communism in the United States, it was learned yesterday.

Three weeks after the booklet was published last June 18, according to Robert E. Stripling, the committee's chief investigator, the first printing of 507,000 copies for committee distribution was exhausted. Stripling said the committee now has on hand 500,000 unfilled orders, with new orders arriving at the rate of several hundred daily.

The committee, he said, would be unable to fill orders on hand or any additional until Congress can be asked to authorize new printings after it convenes in January.

At the office of the Superintendent of Documents it was said an original printing of some 23,000 sale copies had been sold out at 10 cents each and an additional 25,000 copies ordered.

The document, titled "100 Things You Should Know About Communism in the USA," was the first of a series of 10 eventually to be published by the committee. Stripling said the second, "100 Things You Should Know About Communism in Religion," would be issued next Friday.

The committee investigator said no special publicity had been given to the "Communism in the USA" document but orders at times reached as many as 5000 in one day. He said the demand for the publication "shows pretty well what the people think of our work."

Stripling added that 97 per cent of the general mail the committee has received since opening its "spy ring" inquiries had been favorable. Of the three per cent of mail which he termed critical, he said a considerable amount was from people who wrote more than once.

Byrnes Recommends State Department Jobs

Seattle, Sept. 5 (AP).—James F. Byrnes, former Secretary of State, dodged foreign policy questions today at a news conference and said the State Department now was a place of opportunity for young men.

Byrnes told newsmen, however, he intended to discuss foreign policy tomorrow night in his address before the American Bar Association convention. More than 2500 lawyers were on their way here today for the start tomorrow of the seventy-first annual meeting.

Bridges Hits At Truman as Foe of Labor

Detroit, Sept. 5 (AP).—Harry Bridges, president of the West Coast Longshoreman's Union (CIO), vigorously attacked the Truman Administration in an address before Progressive Party followers here today.

"I and most of the longshoremen cannot find anything in the record for which to be grateful to Harry S. Truman," Bridges declared.

"Any labor man who votes for Truman is voting to cut his own throat," he asserted. "And that goes for Dewey, too."

Referring to President Truman's Labor Day visit to Detroit Monday, Bridges said the President probably would try to point to the social legislation initiated by the Democratic Party.

"But that was the party of Franklin D. Roosevelt, not Truman," the labor leader asserted.

Bridges then took a carefully aimed slap at West Coast shipowners, saying:

"Our union, 20,000 strong, went on strike last Thursday. It's going to be a hard and long fight, but we're going to win. It's going to be a tough fight because the shipowners, through subsidies, are getting the Government to foot their bill."

Over the last 12 years, Bridges declared, "shipowners have received $1,700,000,000 in subsidies."

Dublin Paper Sees Eire Becoming Republic

Dublin, Sept. 5 (AP).—The Dublin Sunday Independent said today that Eire is preparing to scrap her External Relations Act of 1936, thereby severing one of Eire's last ties with the British crown.

"Eire is going formally to be declared a republic," the newspaper said.

assistant to the President; Brig. Gen. Wallace H. Graham, the White House physician, and Raymond M. Foley, Federal Housing administrator.

Mr. Truman's first talk tomorrow will come in the morning at Grand Rapids, Mich., home of Senator Arthur H. Vandenberg, the Republican Party's chief spokesman on foreign policy. It will be delivered in a park near the railroad terminal.

The next will come at Lansing, Mich., where the President will speak from the rear platform of his railroad car.

Mr. Truman is scheduled to arrive in Detroit at 1 p. m. and will drive directly to Cadillac Square.

Walter P. Reuther, president of the United Automobile Workers (CIO), and Frank X. Martel, head of the Detroit Federation of Labor, will speak from the same platform.

From Detroit the Chief Executive will motor to Pontiac, passing through the Hamtramck area on the way. After his speech in Oakland Park at Pontiac, he will board his train and start for Flint, Mich. There he will deliver his fifth speech of the day.

Mr. Truman may also have something to say from the rear platform when his train reaches Toledo, Ohio, tomorrow night at 10:27 o'clock standard time.

When the presidential special reached Harrisburg, Pa., this evening, Col. Philip Mathews, Democratic State chairman in Pennsylvania, came aboard. He brought along a number of labor leaders and introduced them to Mr. Truman.

The Chief Executive is scheduled to return to Washington at 12:55 p. m. Tuesday.

The President will remain in Washington for approximately 10 days before starting another major swing into the West.

Scheduled to start September 17, Mr. Truman's Western trip will take him through the Middle West, the Southwest and the Pacific Coast. He will forgo another trip to the Northwest because he toured that area extensively in an early summer visit.

Mr. Truman was accompanied by his daughter, Margaret, who was a favorite with crowds during her father's most recent Western trip.

The President's immediate staff, except for his Army, Navy and Air Force aides, also were along. The military men stayed behind because of the purely political nature of the trip.

All of the President's speeches will be extemporaneous or from notes.

TWU Executive Board Hits Dewey and Truman

New York, Sept. 5 (AP).—The international executive board of the CIO Transport Workers Union refused today to go along with CIO national policy in supporting the candidacy of President Truman.

At the same time, the board hit at the candidacy of Governor Thomas H. Dewey, Republican presidential nominee. By a 19-to-5 vote, the board adopted a resolution condemning the Truman and Dewey candidacies and criticizing the President for what it termed his "record of strikebreaking and union-busting."

Wallace Plans To Carry Drive Into Texas

By the United Press

Henry A. Wallace will carry his Progressive Party campaign for the Presidency into Texas despite the hostile, egg-and-tomato receptions he received in the South last week, an associate said yesterday.

Wallace is now in New York resting from his strenuous, seven-day stumping trip through Dixie that wound up in Knoxville, Tenn., Saturday night.

Tentative plans for the rest of his campaign include a three-or-four-week trip to the West Coast. Stops are scheduled in Texas and the Midwest going out and in Minnesota, Wisconsin and Illinois coming back.

Wallace will make a Labor Day speech in New York today before the United Electrical Workers (CIO). Thursday night, he and his vice presidential running mate, Glen Taylor of Idaho, speak at a Progressive Party rally in Yankee Stadium.

Managers of the Southern tour estimated crowds totaling 25,000 turned out for him in the 28 cities and towns visited in the 2700 miles covered between Norfolk, Va., and Knoxville.

strikes at freedom and destroys hope.

"The Communists know this. The preliminary triumph of reaction is a part of their classic plan.

"That is why there is a third party today."

In its analysis of the 83 races involving third-party entries the TWUA said it found only seven cases where the new party entry is "the only alternative to reaction."

It said in 21 of the 83 cases the political complexion of the districts is so pronounced the third party will have little impact. In seven it found the situation still unclear.

The pamphlet discussed State by State congressional and senatorial races involving third party entries. Some of these:

New York—

There the American Labor Party operates as the third party. It has entered 17 candidates in the 24 city districts "including its own two-party liners." Eight of these are threatening liberal Democratic incumbents, including Representatives Sol Bloom and Abraham J. Multer. Four more are in marginal districts where liberals may meet defeat as a result. Seven are running in districts now held by "reactionaries," virtually assuring their reelection. In another, the third party oddly indorsed a Democrat who is opposing Representative Jacob J. Javits, "one of the few genuine Republican liberals in Congress."

Minnesota—

Mayor Hubert H. Humphrey, jr., of Minneapolis, leading in public opinion polls, is seeking the Democratic-Farmer-Labor nomination to run against Senator Joseph H. Ball, whom the pamphlet calls "the Senate's leading labor-baiter." The TWUG said "the third party's Kremlin boys" do not want to defeat Ball, so James Shields will run against Ball in the primary. It said Humphrey will beat Shields hands down and then the third party will enter, as a third man in the race to split Humphrey's vote, former Gov. Elmer Benson, national chairman of Wallace's Progressives. In the same State the third party has entered three Congressional races, two of them merely as "insurance against a liberal uprising." In the third race, a Progressive party entry may prevent election of a liberal Congressman.

Maryland—

A Progressive is running against Representative Edward A. Garmatz, "whose record is good." Third-party candidates also are running against Representatives Hugh A. Meade and George H. Fallon, whose records were described as "just so-so." The pamphlet said the result may be the election of their "far worse" Republican opponents.

New Hampshire—

The third party has insured the election of Senator Styles Bridges by making it a three-cornered race. It is also running candidates in both congressional districts wiping out " a faint liberal chance" in one.

New Jersey—

The third party is contesting in all but three districts, two of these controlled by Frank Hague, dimming chances of any liberal comeback in that State.

Illinois—

The TWUA cited the third-party fight to enter a candidate for the Senate against Paul H. Douglas as "a clear-cut case of third-party tactics." Douglas, "an outstanding Progressive," is running against Senator C. Wayland Brooks, "isolationist and reactionary." Since the TWUA analysis the third-party entry has been ruled off the ballot.

Washington—

A third-party entry is opposing Washington's sole Democratic representative, Henry M. Jackson, whose "record was tops."

Wisconsin—

"Progressive" candidates have filed in seven districts. In five Republican districts it will have little effect but in two liberal chances are lowered or blacked out.

Indiana—

Prospects of a Democratic victory in Louis Ludlow's old district dulled by a third-party entry.

California—

Third-party candidates are entered in 22 of the 23 districts, but "thanks to the State's system of cross-filing in elections, the role of the 'Progresives' is not as clear-cut as elsewhere."

on the part of the Bulgarian authorities."

The department said Ewing is now back in this country, but has not yet reported for reassignment to a new post.

A native of Milwaukee, Wis., Ewing was born December 18, 1909. He was graduated from Dartmouth College, N. H., in 1931.

A World War II veteran, he first went to Sofia January 9, 1947, as a foreign service staff officer. He became vice consul there October 4, 1947.

Sofia newspapers carried the announcement under the headline "American diplomat caught in espionage." The statement said the "opposition anti-people's group of Nicholas Petkov" had given Ewing "information of a military, economic and military character representing state secrets."

This was the second incident of an American diplomatic officer being accused of espionage in an "Iron Curtain" country since the United States State Department requested the recall of Jacob M. Lomakin, Soviet consul general in New York, because of his conduct in the case of the "kidnaped" Russian school teacher.

Lieut. Robert Dreher, former Assistant United States Naval Attache in Moscow, was accused of obtaining secret information from a Soviet customs official. Soviet newspapers said he was recalled after being caught "red handed."

Tanjug, the official Yugoslav news agency, reported that Ewing was expelled from Bulgaria in July "for his spy activity," according to dispatches received in Prague, Czechoslovakia.

Tanjug said Ewing "was arrested in the street by security organs at the moment he was receiving written espionage information from two Bulgarian citizens." The dispatch said Ewing was "expelled by the Bulgarian government (in July) for his spy activities."

Sofia newspapers carried the official announcement under the headline: "American diplomat caught in espionage." The statement said the "opposition anti-peoples group of Nikola Petkov" gave Ewing "information of a military, economic and political character representing State secrets."

(Petkov, former leader of the anti-Communist Agrarian Party, was hanged in September, 1947, after he was convicted of conspiring against the Bulgarian government.)

The announcement said Ewing had been receiving secret information from Bulgarian opposition elements "over a period of many months."

115 Guerillas Killed, 35 Taken in Greece

Athens, Sept. 5 (AP).—Greek army forces have killed 115 Communist-led guerillas and captured 35 others in fresh clashes throughout Greece, a general staff communique said today.

Volcano Spills Lava, Burying Five Alive

Manila (Monday), Sept. 6 (AP).—Fiery Mount Hibokhibok erupted with new vigor today, its outpouring of lava and ashes burying five persons alive. It presented an even greater menace—poison gases.

The volcano, dominating the little island of Camiguin in the southern Philippines, was spewing lava, ashes and incandescent clouds from a second crater. Already, nearly 35,000 of Camiguin's 45,000 residents have fled by sea.

Because deadly chlorine gas may spread from the craters, anthropologists in Manila urged that no time be lost in evacuating the remainder of Camiguin's inhabitants.

He is Dr. H. Otley Beyer of the University of the Philippines, who was an eye witness to the great eruption of the Lake Taal Volcano, 30 miles south of Manila, in 1911. He recalled that chlorine gas killed 1300 persons then—many more than perished in the lava.

Old-timers Stay

The Philippines naval patrol reported those remaining on Camiguin were being removed as rapidly as possible. However, a handful of old-timers refused to leave.

Frantic appeals for food and medical supplies were beng met as fast as the government could send them along.

An epidemic of dysentery broke out in evacuee camps.

Camiguin is in the Mindanao Sea only 12 miles north of the coast of Mindanao, to which most of the refugees have been taken.

Its dominant volcano, long believed to be extinct, has been in violent eruption since the morning of September 1.

Lava, streaming the mountain's northern and eastern flanks had engulfed the deserted inland villages of Abu and Esperanza, and was threatening five more towns on the north and east coasts, observers reported by radio.

They said the lava had poured more than 10 miles and was within a mile and a half of the sea. The threatened towns all were abandoned. The main one was Mambajao, which last Wednesday had 10,000 population.

Some coconut plantations on the upper slopes were buried 30 feet deep. Observers said the 5620-foot mountain now was several hundred feet lower, having contributed much of its top to the belching inferno.

The fertile farms which had attracted so large a population to the tiny island were covered with several inches of gravel and clinging white ashes.

Iraq Troops Fire Upon Truce Team

Tel Aviv, Sept. 5 (NYHT).—A United Nations truce team had a narrow escape today when Iraqi troops fired on its ten members at a point ten miles from Tel Aviv where they had gone to try to set up a frontline "buffer zone."

The head of the team, Col. Gerard De Geer, a retired Swedish army officer, said afterward: "I am absolutely certain they were not trying to frighten us. I am equally certain they were trying to kill us."

Accompanied by three drivers, four neutral officers and two Israeli liaison officers, Colonel De Geer went this morning to a point in the no man's land between Jewish-held Ras El-Ain and Arab-held Kfar Kasin where they waited for truce observers from the Arab held Kfar Kasin where they waited for truce observers from the Arab side to join them.

The meeting had been arranged well in advanced to establish a neutral area in that sector, where Arab forces are closest to the Jewish capital. Iraqi troops had been ordered to withdraw from an orange grove which they occupied after the present truce began and had agreed last week to do so.

The Arab observers were not on hand at the time set, 10 a. m., but word was brought that they would arrive soon. Meanwhile, the U. N. group, with its white-painted vehicles and blue flags, waited on a road in view of both sides.

"We had been there a few minutes when one or two shots came from the orange grove," Colonel De Geer told reporters later. "The bullets hit a fence just in front of us and ricocheted dangerously close. I dropped down on the roadside and they kept shooting at us for fifteen minutes."

Two American officers in the party sprinted for a cornfield and begun digging in.

From their prone positions, the members of the U. N. group began to wave white flags. Before the Arab truce party approached, the firing subsided and the U. N. team eventually returned to Tel Aviv safely.

Representative Andrew L. Somers (D., N. J.), who is visiting Israel, said today shots were fired at him in Jerusalem and when he went to the Jewish settlement of Negba, in the south.

Somers said the economy of the state of Israel was liable to collapse within the next three or four weeks, under the present truce conditions, unless there was financial assistance from the United States.

Alexandria Man Shot Three Times

General A. Johnson, age unknown, of 837 N. Columbus st., Alexandria, was in Alexandria Hospital in critical condition last night after being shot three times Saturday.

According to the police report, Theodore McCray, who was running a market at the same address, admitted shooting Johnson about 9 p. m. when he took a 5-cent bag of "pork skins" without paying for them.

Johnson was hit in the stomach, lower left side and right leg, the hospital said. Police held McCray on a charge of investigation of felonious assault, pending a change in John's condition.

Swank Estate In N. Y. Becomes Russian Retreat

Monroe, N. Y., Sept. 5 (AP).—A year-round resort for Russians and Americans of Russian descent was opened today on a 600-acre wooded and lake-dotted estate adjacent to Tuxedo Park, exclusive Orange County residential district. An estimated 6000 persons from 12 States attended the day-long festivities.

The estate is to be operated by the Arow Farm Association, Inc. Its president, Nicolas Koleshko, a coal dealer of Newark, N. J., described the resort as "a place where Russian Americans can get a good rest and enjoy cultural recreation."

Arow is a synthetic word formed from the initials of four Russian words meaning American-Russian fraternal society.

The latter organization is a section of the International Workers Order, which was included on Attorney General Clark's list of subversive groups.

Snake Tiring as Area Bout With Spider Enters 4th Day

A local version of the currently popular snake vs. spider bouts went into its fourth day yesterday in an Arlington basement, with the snake apparently tiring.

Contestants were a medium-sized spider and a 10-inch snake. Zoo Director William M. Mann, with only an amateur's description to go on, said it sounded like a ring neck or a worm snake.

Army Sergt. Robert H. Anderson found the two going at it Thursday in a basement corner of his new story-and-a-half brick-house at 2400 N. 4th st. This constitutes a time record among recently publicized contests.

The snake was caught head first, and has been hoisted up into the web, which is anchored on the cinderblock floor. Strands of the web extend two or three inches down over its body.

Biggest mystery was how the snake ever got into such a fix. Dr. Mann brushed aside the suggestion that the temperature went low enough Wednesday to make the snake sluggish and unable to escape when the spider went to work on it.

The Andersons have been scrupulous not to interfere in the struggle, but photographers in their scramblings for new shots have broken some of the guy line-like strands of the web which extend out from the wall to the cellar floor.

Still, the snake appeared to be losing out. Watchful observers said the snake had been thrashing about almost continuously until Saturday night. Yesterday, however, it hung limp as a dish rag until it was prodded into action for the photographer.

Through it all, the smug spider sat high in his web just watching.

Other such contests have been recently recorded in York Center, Ill.; Fort Washington, Pa.; and Cumberland, Md. One snake got away; another was killed by onlookers; and the third bout was still in doubt at last report.

ECA Loans Lag as Gifts Rise Rapidly

By The Associated Press

The recovery program enters its sixth month with foreign gifts rising rapidly and repayable loans lagging far behind schedule, an Economic Cooperation Administration report showed yesterday.

The report listed $1,379,856,688 in approved recovery grants for Europe and China. The half-year program calls for dollar grants of two billion dollars for Europe alone, plus 500 million dollars in loans.

If the recent rate of approvals—about 19 million dollars a day, seven days a week—is stepped up slightly, ECA might hit its half-year target for grants.

In the last few days shipments approved but not shown on the new weekly report have boosted the total of outright grants above $1,400,000,000.

Officials say September will be a "heavy month." However, unless the log-jam in lending is broken, there seems small chance that ECA can hit its half-billion dollar target for loans.

Only one loan has been approved. It is a $2,300,000 fisheries credit to Iceland. This is less than ½ of 1 per cent of the funds earmarked to finance industrial recovery projects overseas in the first six months of the Marshall Plan.

When the Iceland credit was announced seven weeks ago, ECA Administrator Paul G. Hoffman reported that negotiations were under way with eight other countries on loans totaling 700 million dollars.

None of these has been completed. Officials have hinted that the European governments are resisting the 3 per cent interest rate and the repayment terms proposed by ECA. They are represented as believing that more liberal terms, like those granted in the $3,750,000,000 British loan of 1945, would be appropriate to their financial condition.

The British loan called for no payments for the first 5 years, a 50-year repayment schedule, and the waiving of the 2 per cent interest in years of "adverse conditions."

$134 Million in Aid Authorized in Week

By the United Press

More than $134,057,000 in Marshall Plan aid was authorized last week with more than half of it earmarked for purchasing outside the United States.

The commitments, bringing total aid to $1,409,542,562, gave the Economic Cooperation Administration its second biggest week since it opened shop last April. The busiest week was in mid-June when ECA authorized purchases worth $215,071,075.

Local 478 demands were almost an exact copy of those submitted by the New York Local 807. They called for a 15 cent hourly wage boost plus anything above that figure that Local 807 receives; sickness and accident insurance of $25 a week for 26 weeks, and a clause requiring that only Local 478 drivers may pick up and deliver within a 35-mile radius of Newark.

Carlin said the local would take no action against employers who have signed contracts with Local 478 or who have contracts with any of the other six IBT locals.

He also revealed the union will not wait for a master contract with the Associated Express and Truck Owners of New Jersey, 43 members of which employ about 75 per cent of the union's membership. He said the union would be willing to sign individual contracts with the truck owners.

The largest members of this employers group, however, have pledged they will not sign individual contracts until after a joint meeting Tuesday.

California Eyes Fuel For Farm Transport

Sacramento, Calif., Sept. 5 (AP).—Gov. Earl Warren moved quickly today to protect California's multi-million-dollar fruit and farm crops during the oil refinery strike.

He issued special Sunday orders to the Public Utilities Commission to make an immediate survey of the threatened fuel shortage, to insure a supply for farm products transportation.

Increases in Steel Prices Held Likely in Near Future

Cleveland, Sept. 5 (AP).—Additional steel price increases are probable if production costs continue to rise, the magazine Steel predicted yesterday.

Reporting that "consumers will have to scratch vigorously to support operations" during the fourth quarter of this year, the trade magazine declared continued shortages would affect the price picture.

"Talk is heard of likely steel price increases in event production costs continue to mount," said the magazine.

"That there is some substance to this talk is seen in the fact some upward price adjustments directly tied to the fluctuations in production costs were effected over the past week or so. For example, galvanized pipe was $3 to $5 per ton, reflecting recent increases in the price of zinc.

"Last week, one leading producer belatedly announced upward adjustments in stainless steel prices in line with those of other interests."

The publication reported its finished steel price composite last week was increased to $93.86, compared with $75.41 for the closing week of August, 1947.

to do so to avoid indicating a division in the Cabinet.

Sawyer also argues that better harvests in Europe have made the need of continuing exports on the scale of last year unnecessary. Crops in Europe are expected to be vastly better than in 1947—which, incidentally, was the poorest yield in more than a century. However, Europe's grain production will still be about 10 per cent below prewar, and the population of western Europe, in spite of the war, has increased about 10 million since 1939.

Record Exports Reported

In May the Agriculture Department indicated that exports for the crop year ended June 30 would total about 577 million bushels of all grains. This would even excel the record-breaking exports for the year before.

However, the final figure has not yet been made public, although the crop year ended two months ago. It was being held up to add newsvalue to the statement that normally is put out by the White House on the year's achievements.

Unofficially, it is known that the figure reached the astounding total of 581 million bushels—the greatest record for food exports ever established by any nation at any time in the world's history.

Saturday the Department of Agriculture called back a number of its employes in late afternoon to get out a release on grain export allocations for the last quarter of this year—the second quarter of the 1948-49 crop year.

The release was scheduled to be put out Friday, but was agreed on so late it was postponed. The Inter-Agency Advisory Committee on Requirements of the Commerce Department, however, called Brannan Saturday afternoon and demanded that the figures be released at once.

Commerce officials gloated over the figures showing the allocations for the October-December quarter. They had been cut to 145 million bushels—10 per cent below what the other members of the cabinet Food Committee had planned.

Sawyer has declared that ECA purchases for Europe should be increased for materials to raise Western Europe's industrial production. That, he argues, would meet the requirements of the Marshall Plan better than continued large shipments of grain.

Brannan and Fitzgerald argue that betterment in the European diets would bring more rapid rehabilitation—that the dietary standards in Europe are still far below normal and that improvement in them would increase per capita production.

Indications are that the row is still far from being resolved. Until it is settled, the White House probably won't be able to issue its usual statement, not only on last year's achievements, but on plans for the present year.

Labor Urged To Use Ballot

By The Associated Press

Labor was urged yesterday to use the ballot to regain ground some claimed it lost under the Taft-Hartley Act.

Senator Thomas (D., Utah) said in a Labor-Day interview that labor "will be learning for many years what was done to them under that law." He added:

"Now the question is: will labor unite sufficiently to support the type of men for office who will win back the position which labor has lost?"

Thomas, ranking Democratic member of the Labor and Public Welfare Committee and its chairman from 1935 to 1944, said that this year, for the first time in many Labor Days, spokesmen for the workingman must report a loss in labor's effort to arrive at a place where it stands in equality with industry in bargaining.

"Labor's struggle to stand on equal terms in a bargaining position with management is one which, in the beginning, found itself bound by the legal theory of conspiracy," he said.

"Labor had to fight for the right to organize. No one was opposed to doctors, lawyers or professional people organizing; no one objected to business organizations until they got to a place of advantage-taking and used their combined powers for dishonest ends.

Capper Warns Farmers of 'Goat' Role

By the United Press

Senator Arthur Capper (R., Kans.) warned farmers last night that a move is afoot to make them the "goats" for inflation.

He predicted that "there will be a drive in the next Congress" to lower the Government support level for farm prices.

Support prices now are scheduled to remain at the high wartime level of 90 per cent of parity until 1950. But Capper said in a radio broadcast (WIBW, Topeka) that "some very strong arguments are being made for reducing the support price levels for 1949 instead of waiting until 1950."

The 86-year-old Kansan, who is chairman of the Senate Agriculture Committee, pointed out that most farm prices, aside from meat and dairy products, already are down to or below parity levels.

"Farm prices, on the whole are coming down," he said. "Farmers are going to be pinched more and more in the coming months between falling commodity prices and rising production costs."

Capper said he believed that "in all fairness to crop farmers," the support price levels should be maintained at 90 per cent of parity through the 1949 crop season.

Drive Revives War Policies Of 12 Billions

The Government's 15-month drive to get war veterans to reinstate lapsed life insurance brought back more than 1,900,000 policyholders and revived almost 12 billion dollars' worth of insurance.

But there are still an estimated 10 million policies, worth in the neighborhood of 10 billion dollars, that have lapsed since national service life insurance first was offered in 1940.

Hundreds of thousands of veterans let policies lapse even while the reinstatement campaign was on, the Veterans' Administration said yesterday. A spokesman added:

"We don't have figures on lapses during the 15-month drive ending July 31, but we are confident the lapses did not approach in number the 1,900,000 reinstatements. There definitely was a net gain."

30% War II Policies

The spokesman added that about 30 per cent of World War II veterans are keeping their policies in force. In World War I, only about 10 per cent of veterans retained their Government life insurance.

The Veterans' Administration's most recent count shows national serice life insurance policies still in force totaling $37,675,000,000, of which $6,600,000,000 has been converted into permanent insurance.

The VA is encouraging veterans to convert the remainder from the "term" policies which do not gain accruals, lack loan value, and are subject to higher permanent rates (for increasing age) the longer the conversion is delayed.

Congress in June authorized five-year renewals of term policies that were issued before 1948, for those veterans not yet ready to convert. The renewals do not involve medical examinations.

River Man Shoots Whirlpool Rapids In Niagara Again

Niagara Falls, Ontario, Sept. 5 (AP).—William Hill, jr., shot the whirlpool rapids in Niagara Gorge in a steel-plated barrel today for the second time in his daredevil career.

The 47-year-old river man ran into trouble half way through his strange excursion when his huge barrel got caught in the whirlpool and spun dizzily for some time.

He was towed out of the whirlpool by his two brothers, who pulled him into calmer waters. Some 75,000 persons lined the banks to watch the stunt.

Plaques Will Mark Homes Of Justices

Plaques marking the Washington homes of five chief justices will be unveiled with ceremonies in which Chief Justice Fred M. Vinson will participate at 4 p. m. on October 4 at Longfellow Square, Connecticut and Rhode Island aves. nw.

Erection of the markers at the five homes, where separate ceremonies will be held after those at Longfellow Square, will complete a Columbia Historical Society program to identify all places where chief justices lived.

The ceremony and the unveiling of the new markers at the five sites, which are in the general vicinity of the square, will be conducted by F. Regis Noel, president of the historical society.

These former homes will be marked: Justices Melville Weston Fuller, 1801 F st. nw.; Edward Douglass White, 1717 Rhode Island ave. nw.; William Howard Taft, 2215 Wyoming ave. nw.; Charles Evans Hughes, 2223 R st. nw., and Harlan Fiske Stone, 2240 Wyoming ave. nw.

Draftees In Area To Be Guests on Moonlight Sail

Peacetime draftees stationed at nearby Army, Navy and Marine bases will be guests of a newly formed Teen Age Parents committee on a cruise aboard the S. S. Potomac tonight and Tuesday night.

Purpose of the committee, according to Rabbi Arthur Bonger, temporary chairman of the group, is to provide social and recreational activities for the new servicemen.

Washington government girls and students will be on hand to welcome the men aboard. The boat will leave the 7th st. wharves at 8:30 p. m. Visiting servicemen and members of the D. C. National Guard may obtain tickets for the cruise by calling CO. 0735.

Immaculate Conception Novena Starts Tuesday

A solemn novena preceding the Feast of the Seven Dolors of the Blessed Mother will be held at the Church of the Immaculate Conception, 8th and N sts. nw., beginning Tuesday at 7:45 p. m. The service will be held each evening until the day of the feast, September 15. The Rev. Lawrence Calkins of the Servite Fathers, Chicago, will conduct and preach at the service.

D. C. Loafs Along In Quiet Holiday

The long Labor Day weekend eased along at a snail's pace yesterday as most District residents idled away the time doing practically nothing.

Except for out-of-town sightseers, downtown streets would have been virtually deserted. But it was a good day for sightseers and loafers, as the sun shone most of the time and the mercury hovered around a comfortable high of 86.

Holiday spirits for millions in the Southeastern part of the country, however, were slightly dampened by rain.

As for today, the District forecast is "rather warm and humid—with some chance of scattered showers."

Hundreds of lawn squatters dotted the city yesterday, other scores frolicked in Rock Creek Park—and more than a few just snoozed in their backyard hammocks.

Mrs. Ruth Gold, of 6101 14th st. nw., for example, sat on her lawn in a beach chair, chatting with relatives and playing with her small grandson, Larry Tor, 15 months.

Stephen Moore, 17, of 1351 Kalmia rd. nw., trimmed the evergreens on his lawn and cut the grass. Mr. and Mrs. Walter E. Bullard, of 6642 Wells Parkway, Riverdale, Md., took their two sons, Edward, 1, and James, 5, into Rock Creek Park for a picnic. Others waded in the creek there.

About 24,000 persons, chiefly out-of-towners, visited the Lincoln Memorial, most popular spot hereabouts. Heavy tourist crowds also turned up for a ride on the Washington Monument's elevator.

accidents during the weekend were:

Charles Alfred Binford, 31, of 1823 16th st. nw., killed Friday night when his motorcycle rammed into the rear of a truck on U. S. 1, a mile south of Stafford, Va.

John and Ruth Rivers, husband and wife, of the 1100 block of 2d st. se., who were fatally injured early Saturday when an auto crashed into their parked motorcycle on Indian Head rd. in Prince Georges County.

Ivor Jones, 22, of 2150 Florida ave. nw., killed in a truck-auto crash Saturday on Route 12 in Virginia near the Page County-Warren County line.

Mrs. Mattie Johnson, 74, of 2314 Naylor rd. se., killed in an automobile crash Saturday at Upper Darby, Pa.

Hurt in Traffic

In a traffic accident here early yesterday, Jose Adrianzen, 34, assistant commercial attache at the Peruvian Embassy, suffered severe injuries when he was struck by an automobile at about 1:30 a. m. when walking at 6th st. and Pennsylvania ave. nw.

At Emergency Hospital it was reported Adrianzin suffered fractures of both legs, a brain concussion and a probable ruptured kidney. Placed at first on the critical list, Adrianzin was reported "out of danger" late yesterday.

Police said the driver of the car that struck Adrianzen was Oscar R. Cutting, 22, an airman stationed at Bolling Field. He was charged with leaving after colliding, and reckless driving.

Walter E. King, 25, of 1537 25th st. se., suffered a lacerated nose and possible fractured right ankle when his car ran into a telephone pole at 2:20 a. m. in the 2500 block of Naylor rd. se. He was admitted to Casualty Hospital.

Also admitted to Casualty Hospital was William A. Newhouse, jr., 21, of 1502 52d ave., Coral Hills, Md., whose motorcycle collided with the rear end of a Capital Transit Co. bus, operated by George R. Munroe, 24, of 2806 Channing st. ne.

The accident occurred late Saturday night at Potomac ave. and Pennsylvania ave. se. Newhouse suffered multiple contusions and a possible fractured right foot.

Two persons were treated for minor injuries at Gallinger Hospital following the collision of an auto and a streetcar at 12:20 p. m. at Kenilworth ave. and Benning rd. ne.

Injured were Jack Wade, 31, of 4607 Sheriff rd. ne., driver of the auto, and a passenger in his car, Willie Hackett, 27, of 4809 Fitch pl. ne. Police said the streetcar was operated by Henry J. Jones, 22, of 2101 3d st. ne. Wade was charged with failing to give right of way.

160 Holiday Fatalities Reported From Nation

Pope Fears Religious War

basilica to address a multitude of Catholic Action girls.

Both the 72-year-old Pontiff, who was reported two days ago to be slightly ill, and his audience numbering more than 200,000, were wet by the rain.

Earlier the Pope had passed among the girls on his portable throne and bestowed his papal blessing on them.

In the speech to the Germans he said:

"In some regions this may even come to a fight to the last drop of blood."

Recalls Past Battles

The Pope told his listeners to face 'the problems of the church and country, which often seem insoluble, with unlimited faith in God."

He said that in the past 100 years "many long and sometimes lively battles have been fought for the liberty of the church" in Germany and for equality of rights for Catholics in public life. These battles, he said, were all fought successfully.

The Pontiff told the Germans that "twice in the last century a ruthless war by an overwhelming state power and enemy of the church was directed against you."

In a reference to movements for unification of Christian faiths, the Pope said:

"We know how insistent is the desire in many, both Catholics and non-Catholics, for unity of faith.

"The (Catholic) church surrounds dissenters in the faith with 'sincere love' and prayer for return to her, their mother, from which God knows how many are separated without any fault of their own.

"If the church is inflexible toward what have even only the appearance of compromise, or an arrangement of the Catholic faith with other confessions or its mingling or confusion with them, it is because she knows there has always been one rock, infallible and sure of all truth and of fullness of grace, coming from Christ."

New Military Attache

Moscow, Sept. 5 (U.P.).—Maj. Gen. John W. O'Daniel, former commandant of the U. S. Army Infantry School at Fort Benning, Ga., arrived today to succeed Maj. Gen. Robert S. Macon as American military attache in Moscow.

Poher, MRP, budget; Pierre Abelin, MRP, secretary of state to the Premier; Francois Mitterand, UDSR (ex-servicemen and war victims), secretary of state to the Vice Premier and in charge of information; Yvon Coude du Foresto, MRP, economy and food, and Fily Dabo Sissoko, secretary of state for commerce.

Sissoko is a bearded Negro who is a deputy to the National Assembly from the French Sudan.

New York State Employe Found Trussed, Slain

Albany, N. Y., Sept. 5 (AP).—A State employe was found slain in a hotel room here today, trussed by a bedsheet in what police described as a "Japanese knot."

The slain man was identified as Theodore E. Allen, 51, an employe of the radio section of the division of publicity of the State Commerce Department. Department officials said he was formerly employed by the National Broadcasting Co.

Police Chief Philip G. Coffey who is in charge of the investigation, said he considered robbery a possible motive.

Britain Again Reduces Prices Of Raw Cotton

Manchester, England, Sept. 5 (AP).—The Raw Cotton Commission has notified British spinners raw cotton prices will be reduced tomorrow.

Cuts of between one penny (1.6 cents) and sixpence (10 cents) per pound were announced for the more expensive types of Egyptian cotton.

There have been five downward revisions in nine weeks. Mill owners reported foreign buyers are increasingly reluctant to buy. British yarn and cloth because of uncertainty as to future price levels.

Wife's Shot Ends Life of Husband Out With Sister

Philadelphia, Sept. 5 (U.P.).—A 26-year-old mother of two children, fearing that her teen-age sister had been molested by her husband, shot and killed him when he arrived home early today.

"I guess I should have given him a chance to explain, but at the time I thought only of what had happened to my sister," Mrs. Dorothy E. Reeves told detectives. "I'm sorry I killed him."

Her husband, Chief Pharmacist's Mate Leslie Reeves, 29, was shot through the chest with a pistol as he and his wife's sister, 18-year-old Peggy Mills, arrived at his home at dawn.

The girl was taken to St. Agnes Hospital, where an examination revealed, detectives said, that Mrs. Reeves' fears were unfounded.

Curtain Ends Smoke, Jap Trainmen Happy

Tokyo, Sept. 5 (AP).—Not an iron curtain, but a curtain for the iron horse is making railroad men happier on the Osaka-Nagoya run.

Train crews long have complained that a draft through a tunnel just outside Osaka blew smoke ahead of the engine, nearly suffocating them. Some unidentified genius of the line figured that a large canvas curtain would break the draft. Now a man stands at the Osaka end and draws the curtain every time a train enters en route to Nagoya.

Railroaders say it works, too.

One on the Aisle—

Have YOU Heard Of Reno Browne?

By Richard L. Coe

THOUGH MY RESOURCEFULNESS at reviewing Westerns has been strained to the breaking point, F street doesn't begin to show a fraction of these epics which appear to be goldmines the world over.

This was eloquently brought home to me the other evening by a bright looking 21-year-old lass who's visiting our town after looking in on several of her fan clubs abroad. Her name is Reno Browne and I'm chagrined to confess I'd never heard of her.

Miss Browne is evidently lucratively employed by Monogram to play opposite Johnny Mack Brown, one of the ranking ten Western stars of the decade, a profession the Alabama football star took up after some years of leading-man chores in the more gilded studios. Miss Browne has been respectfully pursued by the No-E Brown in such Westerns as "Under Arizona Skies," "The Gentleman From Texas," "Thunder on the Range" and other bang-bang whinnies which don't seem to have hit downtown Washington, from the depths of which I rarely crawl.

There is one other reason for my ignorance. After clawing through the dust of records, clippings, cast sheets and studio handouts (a vast clutter which I protect with the frenzy of a tiger from our building superintendent), I find that Miss Browne seems to have been called Reno Blair.

But No Eggs!

Before that she was more prosaically known as Josephine Ruth Clarke of Reno, Nev., where her father is a lawyer and her mother runs one of those snappy motels, the like of which we effete Easterners know not. Fortunately, the Clarkes proved well-heeled and doting parents for their only child, and J. Ruth (as some of her mail is addressed) got an early start toward make-believe. At 3 she began her dancing lessons, which would be continuing right this minute is it weren't for that occupational hazard of horse opera prima donnas—a horse.

Despite this cantankerous beast, Reno, as from henceforth our heroine shall be called, is mad about horses. She has her own palomino, of whom she has written, and what's more published, a song, a tune which, I might add, salutes her on the dance floors of the Wardman and Carlton.

Besides dancing, riding, composing, flying her own plane, managing a weekly horse show, running a magazine for her fan clubs, going to night school and designing her own clothes, Reno also is a whiz at physics—knows all about neutrons and that sort of thing.

She does not, I am pleased to report, have the faintest conception of how to cook an egg. She cannily figures that the man she marries either will be able to afford servants or to cook himself.

The Wardman's Bulging

Such a step seems far in the future, for Miss Browne's starry blue eyes see beyond her pristine present as a lady of the sagebrush. She hopes the time will come when she will be able to deck herself in fashionable clothes and wallow in misery like the most Super-A screen sirens. To this end she's studying at the famed Pasadena Playhouse after Monogram's 5 o'clock whistle blows; that culture has eddied round her became clear with a reunion at Olney with Brian Aherne, who'd been in a posh short she'd made at Columbia. She, too, had played Farquhar's "Beaux' Stratagem"—last year at Pasadena.

Of her far-flung fan clubs, Reno and her mother wax ecstatic. Their luggage bulges a three-room suite at the Wardman, replete with heather from the Scottish highlands. Everything from a royal garden party, a suite at the right bank's George V and moonlight on the Riviera has filled her recent days. The Divine Sarah, in all her years, probably never traveled so sumptuously as this 21-year-old queen of the Monogram stables.

But what dazzles me most is the fact that I'd never heard of Reno Browne.

HOLIDAY TODAY and matinees are all over the map . . . In particular, the Warner folk would like you to realize that their neighborhood houses which generally give evening performances only will, like the rest of the Warner chain, be having matinees: the Apollo, Avalon, Avenue Grand, Colony, Home, MacArthur, Savoy, Seco, Takoma and York . . . The Lust theaters, too, are matineeing: Milo, Bethesda, Hyattsville, Cheverly, Kaywood and Cameo . . . And you might take note that Peggy Lee's doing five stage shows today at the Capitol, the last beginning at 10:55.

Labor Day

President Truman took occasion, in his extremely partisan Labor Day message published in the American Federationist, to point to the good fortune of workingmen in this third year after the war. Union membership, he said, exceeds 15,500,000 and is the highest in our history. Employment is at a new peak. Average weekly earnings of workers in manufacturing industries have more than trebled in the last 15 years, although this is as much a measure of our current inflation as it is of the improved status of wage earners. Along with higher incomes, better working conditions and more extensive organization has come, of course, an enormous increase in labor's influence and power. Labor is indeed in its heyday.

Organized labor is thus certain to have a tremendous influence upon the future policies of the United States. The big unions could, for example, keep the price-wage spiral moving upward by continuous hard fighting for wage increases beyond the ability or the willingness of industry to pay without further hiking prices. By concerted effort they could at any time paralyze the Nation by a general strike. Labor has already learned, however, that power must be exercised with restraint and judgment to avoid disaster. The future of western civilization will be profoundly influenced by the extent to which this lesson is impressed upon the men who guide the American labor movement.

When any group within our economic system suddenly acquires great power, it is under constant temptation to abuse it. That is what happened in the case of many industrialists in the so-called gilded age of the last century. And it continues to happen in the case of some great corporations today. The power of government had to be invoked to eliminate or at least to minimize those abuses and to protect the rights and interests of the people as a whole. Labor has been a tower of strength in mobilizing public opinion against exploitation of this kind and in obtaining legislation to restrain it. American labor has accepted and helped to maintain the capitalistic system, but it has never believed in laissez faire policies. It has consistently stood for the use of governmental powers to prevent the strong from gobbling up the weak or even trampling upon the rights of individuals unable to protect themselves.

For that reason we cannot believe that the great body of workingmen are now in revolt against the use of governmental powers to correct abuses on the part of labor unions. They know that the Government must step in to curb the misuse of power no matter who the offender may be. They approve the use of governmental authority to hold a rational balance between contending economic groups so that our system may function without ruthless exploitation on one side or self-defeating obstruction on the other. They are sufficiently fair-minded to see that, once organized labor has attained its maturity as a great and powerful factor in our national life, the Government cannot consistently uphold the rights of labor against the unfair practices of employers without also upholding the rights of employers against the unfair practices of unions.

Some labor leaders as well as President Truman persist in advocating regulation for employers and laissez faire for unions—a policy no less reactionary than it is inconsistent. In our opinion, the best interests of labor and of the Nation of which it is so important a part will be served when that untenable position is abandoned in favor of efforts to correct specific defects in the Taft-Hartley Act in line with the realities of 1948.

Apprentice Abuses

Because of the importance of its complaint about an apprenticeship racket in Washington, it is difficult to understand why the District Apprenticeship Council waited to air its findings in its annual report. A prompt special report would seem to have been more in order. In any event, the conditions disclosed call for prompt remedial measures on the part of the District Commissioners. The city has an acute shortage of apprentices in many trades and therefore has a double interest in seeing that they are properly trained as well as fairly treated.

A few District employers, the council found, are hiring boys and young men ostensibly to learn a trade but actually using them for work that has little or no relation to the trade they are supposed to learn. Veterans taking "on-the-job training" under the so-called GI Bill of Rights are similarly exploited. The result is to turn out "jack-leg" mechanics, plumbers and so forth as well as to give employers a cheap source of labor at the expense of the apprentices. It will not be easy to stop this practice. If anything more than words and good intentions are to be directed against it, we suspect that the Apprenticeship Council will have to be given the two field workers for which it has requested funds in next year's budget.

Unwarranted Hush-Up

The Ferguson Committee has now spelled out in careful detail its demand for further information as to the handling of the William W. Remington case. Having brought out in its recent hearings that Remington was allowed to hold several important Government positions between December, 1945, and June, 1948, while the Department of Justice had substantial information allegedly connecting him with Soviet espionage activities, the committee wants to know how it came about. In our opinion, the committee is entitled to a candid answer.

The committee's preliminary report properly differentiates its request from any attempt to obtain confidential loyalty files. "We are not requesting," the report says, "nor do we desire to be furnished with the loyalty files, or any other information such as names of informants, sources of information or investigative techniques, which might in any way impair the loyalty program." It recognizes also that the question of Remington's loyalty or disloyalty is a question for the loyalty board. What the committee wishes to know is whether the Government agencies employing Remington were notified of his alleged espionage activities, the manner in which and to whom such notice was given, and what action, if any, was taken by his superiors.

These are essentially questions as to how the Government operates. They are questions which an investigating committee of Congress has a right to ask. The committee disposes of the assumption that the Department of Justice might have been watching Remington secretly so as to obtain a more thorough knowledge of his activities and sources of information. All possibility of secret observation disappeared when the FBI questioned Remington as an espionage suspect in April, 1947, and five months later had him testify in the same matter before a Federal grand jury. Nor can it be said that his position was unimportant from the security point of view. While with the Council of Economic Advisers, he was loaned to the Harriman Committee which did the spade work for the Marshall Plan. Then he became chairman of the Ad Hoc Committee of the Office of International Trade in the Department of Commerce which was handling confidential data on our exports to and imports from Russia in a period when trade between the countries was virtually on a basis of economic warfare.

The committee has a good deal to say about the failure of the loyalty program to give priority or special treatment to the cases of employes in sensitive positions and about other apparent inadequacies. For the moment, however, interest is likely to be centered in its challenge to the cover-up policy which the Attorney General is pursuing. "Good legislation," the report correctly says, "and ignorance of the facts are incompatible." Or as President Truman put it when he was still in the Senate, "An uninformed Congress surely will forfeit a large portion of the . . . confidence of the people." There can be no more excuse for denying Congress knowledge of the blunders that kept William Remington in sensitive governmental positions, after his record was known, than there was for Attorney General Daugherty's hush-up policies when Congress was exposing the Teapot Dome scandal in the twenties.

Mr. Wallace's Deviation

Mr. Henry Wallace must have caused his Communist playmates no little grief and embarrassment last Saturday in Mississippi, where he confessed a certain skepticism concerning the genetic theories of the Bolshevik biologist, Prof. Trophim Denisovich Lysenko, head of the Lenin All-Union Academy of Agricultural Sciences. Comrade Lysenko's doctrine concerning the hereditary transmission of acquired characteristics has been made de fide for all Communists, and therefore to cast doubt upon it amounts to a form of Red-baiting.

Mr. Wallace's deviationism in this important matter became known through an interview with Mr. Edward T. Folliard of this newspaper. Mr. Folliard's questions put Mr. Wallace in something of a box. As a politician Mr. Wallace needs, or thinks he needs, the favor of the Communists, but as a scientist he has a reputation to preserve. Mr. Wallace, as you know, is famous among other things as a breeder of hybrid corn. Now the art of agricultural hybridization, as practiced outside of Russia, has been very largely derived from counter-revolutionary principles, purported to have been discovered more than 80 years ago by the Austrian clerical-reactionary, Gregor Mendel. It was for refusing to recant his devotion to the Mendelian principles that Comrade Lysenko's predecessor, Prof. N. I. Vavilov, a celebrated experimenter in hybrids, was declared an enemy of the state and sent to Siberia where he perished. Incidentally, it was Comrade Lysenko who exposed Professor Vavilov's heresy, showing that his doctrines were an implicit denial of the possibility of a classless society in which no professor would ever be tempted to betray the state in either thought or deed, because there would be no state to betray.

By one basis of reasoning Prof. Lysenko was quite right. To say that acquired characteristics are not transmissible through the genes is practically the same as saying that if the MVD were disbanded and if the members of the Politburo should resign and devote the rest of their lives to esthetic dancing, the Russian people would presently revert into mere human beings. This would mean that the whole twentieth century world has been turned topsy turvy for nothing and millions upon millions have perished to no purpose. But in this country we approach such questions, not on the basis of political theory, but pragmatically. We accept the Mendelian principles because they have given us better things to eat, like Mr. Wallace's corn. And that, of course, is why Professor Lysenko, though a great scientist by Marxist standards, is no better than a quack by ours.

The tactful Mr. Wallace, of course, did not put it so coarsely. He merely said that while he still considered Mendelism a sound "basic structure" he was still hopeful about the possibility of educating the genes, although he hadn't yet seen anything to prove it could be done. Meanwhile, a most difficult problem has been raised for young Communist students in the biology classes, confronted as they are with a choice between making heretics of themselves or being flunked. How are they to answer the questions in genetics propounded in their examination papers?

Perhaps a way out of the dilemma would be for the student to write something like this: "Standing on my constitutional rights under the first and fifth amendments, and in protest against the witch-hunting tactics of this inquisition, I refuse to say categorically whether characteristics acquired as the result of environmental influences are or are not biologically transmissible from parent to offspring."

Totalitarianism

Revolutionary government is the regime of fear par excellence; its terrible fate is that the more it seeks to protect itself the more it becomes frightened by real and imaginary dangers that threaten it. If it suppresses the lawful opposition of the press, does it rest in peace for that? Far from it: it is more frightened than ever of the latent opposition in people's minds. It knows that the people are grumbling, but since it has broken the barometer of popular discontent, it can no longer measure it, constantly thinks about it, becomes obsessed with it, and ends by thinking it greater than it is. It detects, glimpses, and thinks to discover signs of hostility everywhere: between lines of newspapers submitted to censorship; in discussions held in cafes; in private conversations, within the intimacy of every family. The slightest whisper of popular grumbling takes on the shape of an unfailing prelude to general revolt. It would like to be a gigantic ear to eavesdrop on everything said in every hovel and palace; it would like to read every letter, look into every mind, know every secret—those of the confessional as well as those of the parlor. It multiplies its spies and its censors, it increases its surveillance; it establishes a huge police force to watch everyone, rich and poor, wise and ignorant, humble and mighty; it creates a superpolice to watch the police. It trusts no one or nothing. The censorship, at first confined to the opposition press, little by little spreads to include all manifestations of thought. The mischief may be hiding anywhere—in literature, in art, in philosophy, in mathematics, in the schools, in the universities, in the churches, in banks, in farms, and in factories. And to defend itself, it sees but one solution: increase its powers, increase them further, increase them ever more. Even full powers do not satisfy it; it must have still more. At first it obtains a monopoly over every branch of the government; after a while it must extend its controls over industry, over agriculture, over commerce. But even then it is not satisfied but needs to direct the family, manners, social life, hygiene, cooking, artistic tastes; as a crowning instance, it wishes to determine what is beautiful and what is ugly, to dominate every step in intellectual life from school to the French Academy. It becomes totalitarian. Totalitarianism is merely the most complete outward form of the fear that gnaws revolutionary government.—From The Principles of Power, by Guglielmo Ferrero.

Why They Serve

It is encouraging that the Army will continue its efforts at education. Indeed, General Bradley's remark that "the Army has too long ignored the insides of its men" could well set the tempo for the new Army which at least some enlightened military men are trying to shape. General Bradley's words in a speech before the Veterans of Foreign Wars encampment at St. Louis are worth noting for the recognition they give to the fact that the soldier's needs are more than merely food, clothing and housing. He said:

> Despite the opportunities for free education that exist in these United States, too many young men come into the Army appallingly ill-informed on the issues and crises that warrant their service. American education has failed to give many young men an alert appreciation of their liberties and a consequent explanation of their obligations. We have too long concentrated on how to make good, how to get ahead. We have taught our young people how to plunder our resources, how to get jobs and how to get rich. We have neglected to tell them that democracy is a two-way street—that with its benefits comes the necessity for also giving service.

But the job is not wholly the Army's. Implicit in General Bradley's remarks is a rebuke to the educators, and, indeed, to the products of the educational system, the mothers and fathers of the men soon to be serving. For General Bradley notes well that "many of the Army's difficulties today can be traced to the hasty and hysterical demobilization of the American forces at the end of the war," demobilization forced by a public opinion conditioned more by emotion than political awareness. Here is a challenge to educators to prepare young minds to grapple with the great issues that determine American destiny beyond the realm of mere football games and class proms.

Pan American Art

It is interesting to learn that the Pan American Union has an exhibit of work by the art faculty of American University, but it is more interesting to learn that this show will eventually tour certain Latin-American cities.

Remembering the unjustified hue and cry that was raised over a previous State Department tour of so-called "modern" American art, I question the method used to select the Pan American show and especially the arbitrary decision to confine this exhibit to works from only one art school in the District of Columbia.

Such an exhibit cannot be representative of either the Washington area artists' work or art currently produced in America. The selection is unfortunate, since the choice should have been made by open competition with an outside jury to avoid any danger of favoritism to a small esoteric group that at its best produces only a feeble imitation of prewar European modernism, and at its worst produces some of the most degenerate daubs and abstractions we have ever seen.

The fact such art derives from the campus of an American university merely adds insult to injury. South America may have to take it, but she won't have to like it. JOHN C. ROGERS.

Out Of The Rain

Ever since the ancient Phoenicians invented money, the rule has been accepted that, if you cannot sell a commodity at a certain price, you lower the price.

The validity of this axiom is being challenged by the Capital Transit Co. It claims that it cannot sell its weekly pass at $1.50, so it wishes to raise the price to $1.85.

The company may have been encouraged in this audacious attempt by a recent experiment to overcome the laws of nature. Within the last few weeks—during the period of alleged financial insecurity—the company erected a shelter to accommodate the patrons of the Brookland streetcar and the Green Meadows bus lines at 12th and Quincy sts. ne. The shelter is a quite imposing structure of brick, steel and glass blocks, with copper gutters and downspouts, indirect ceiling lighting, etc. The main feature is the seating facilities which are located outside. You have the choice of standing on aching feet, protected from rain, wind and sun, or resting while being drenched or toasted.

The Washingtonians and suburbanites passing this point accept the open-air shelter with accustomed meekness. The bewildered face expression of the many out-of-town visitors on their way to the adjacent Franciscan Monastery seems to ask: "Haven't they sense enough in Washington to come out of the rain?" H. E. OSANN.

Paige's Fame

One of the most sportsmanlike actions the big leagues could take this year would be to create a special niche in baseball's Hall of Fame for Satchel Paige, who for years was barred from major league competition by color alone. Pitching this year in the twilight of his career, the veteran pitcher has lived up to the praises heaped upon him over the years by major league managers and ball players.

Atheist Strength

I am amazed at the audacity of Charles Smith, president of the American Association for the Advancement of Atheism, who said there are 50 million atheists in this country. If this is true, which I doubt very much it is, we are following in the footsteps of Russia, where to believe in God would leave one open to being accused of deviating from the Stalin line.

Now, more than ever, we need the support and guidance that faith in God brings. All that the atheists are doing is denying the existence of the better part of themselves, the divine spark that is within each of us. Where there is a creation, there has to be a creator.

Mitchum's "Mishap"

I consider Robert Mitchum a talented young actor and while his mishap is too bad, I see no reason why he should be "ruined" in his career by what happened. He is not wrecked, he is just a guy who made a misstep a long time ago and got caught by a bad habit. He has my disinterested sympathy and as far as his career is concerned, I'll enjoy good acting on his part whether he smokes "reefers" or not. That is his business, his life—not my concern. I don't believe he will be as "ruined" as he fears, especially as it is his first offense legally. He has an excellent chance of recovery, in my belief.

Wallace Egged

The recent belting of Mr. Wallace with eggs by audiences in North Carolina is a direct infringement of one of the basic rights of the American people—freedom of speech. Whatever Mr. Wallace said couldn't have been as injurious to the well-being of our Nation as were the remarks of the late Senator Bilbo or those of some of the present-day congressional leaders whom this minority cheered with great enthusiasm.

To other countries this outrageous outburst of emotional instability reflects on the intelligence and principles of our peoples. Such action is highly incompatible with the underlying foundations of our democratic institutions which were established and have been perpetuated by the blood of Americans of all creeds and colors.

It is almost inconceivable that a powerful minority in the South, in spite of our tremendous advancement in knowledge and accumulative wealth, should continue to be permitted to hamper our success in foreign affairs because of its retrogressive ideology. Our potentiality can never be fully realized and recognized until such undemocratic practices are discontinued.

Oak Hill

It is not at all surprising to find certain reporters emphasizing the untidy appearance of Mr. Frank Littleton, owner of stately Oak Hill, rather than his sacrificial efforts to make of Monroe's former home a national shrine. With so little stress now laid on the importance of American history, the answer to the foregoing is understandable. It is refreshing to know that there are in this materialistic world still a few people to whom money does not mean everything.

Maturing Process

I imagine that Miss Bentley and most of those she is accusing must have all started out as idealists in their youth. They probably were able to see that competition, in one sense of the word, is wrong and can cause nothing but trouble, and therefore, some form of cooperation must take its place.

Thinking people know that no good can come from the kind of competition which says "I will get all I can for myself regardless of what I do to anybody else." We all know that we must work together for the good of the whole, in order for everybody to benefit, in the long run. That is the reason so many have been interested in socialism, or communism, or some system of working together instead of pulling apart. The fundamental idea is good.

The trouble with these idealists has come in their method of putting that idea into operation. As persons of this type grew older, they decided to formulate laws, a system, a plan, something that would make everybody conform to these ideals.

Then, these same people the thinkers and idealists, when they had lived a little longer and grown a little more mature, saw that laws were not adequate and were not managing the situation at all. Then they could think of nothing else but to change those laws, or those systems, make more and more, or different and more forceful laws. By that time they were able to see the faults in each system, in the socialism or the communism and also in the capitalism—so they just gave up completely, forgetting or outgrowing their interest in political systems.

At that stage, when they are asked "Were you ever a Communist?" the answer is "No, emphatically, No." All of which is probably true—either they never did actually belong to the party, or only for so short a time as to discover its faults and drop it very promptly. After all, people do change their minds and their ideas as they live longer—all progress and all evolution really depend upon our being able to change, if we can only change in the right direction.

My own experience has been this—I used to be much interested in socialism and made quite a study of it (but never became a party member). I found myself, as I grew older, much more interested in the human beings concerned, whatever the kind of system they might be living under—and discovered that that system was never any better than the people of which it was made.

So it is people who need to change, not government systems. The change in government will follow. We have made the mistake of putting the cart before the horse by trying to put the system with its laws first. Gradually we are beginning to see that it cannot be done that way. Education in a much broader sense than we have ever used it, can do it, and it can be done in no other way. Not only by the schools but by churches, by movies, by radio, by newspapers—by every possible approach to young and old, to all the people. That is where cooperation can come in to good advantage.

The War Within

This extraordinary novel has a kind of agonized incoherence like the dreams of a man who is sick of a fever. The effect appears to have been deliberately and somewhat laboriously contrived, for Signor Alvaro is attempting to reproduce the psychological atmosphere of a modern police state and the processes it employs toward the destruction of personality. Some of the eccentricities of the book, perhaps, are to be explained by the fact that it was written in Italy under the Fascist dispensation. Its publication was permitted by the censors there when the author agreed to the insertion of a preface explaining that the locale of the story is meant to be Soviet Russia.

At any rate, it is some country which has experienced a tremendous social revolution and has fallen into the clutch of a cunning and remorseless fanaticism, although on one of the frontiers a conflict is still raging with some remnant of a counterrevolutionary army. The protagonist is a native to whom Signor Alvaro gives the denationalized name of Nicholas Dirck. This Dirck, it appears, left the country as a child and so escaped the experience of the revolution and the more horrible phases of the civil war. However, he has now grown disgusted with the sterility and decadence of bourgeois society. Inspired partly by a piece of sculpture representing the new spirit of his own country, and partly by the memory of a girl with whom he has somehow maintained a correspondence, he returns to offer his services to the revolutionary regime, for he has, it seems, been educated as an engineer. Arrived at the capital, he becomes aware of its climate of repression and furtive terror. He discovers that the terror arises from sense of sin, which the regime has cleverly managed to associate with almost every manifestation of personality. The supreme crime is privacy, whether of thought or of action or desire; anything that serves to distinguish the individual from the mass or his purposes from those of the collectivity. In such an atmosphere actions that elsewhere would be innocent or even trivial, and of no concern to others, acquire the most sinister significance. It soon becomes evident that the inhabitants are under the contradictory compulsions. They feel the need to assert themselves as human beings: that is to talk, to confide, to love, to pity, to meditate, to have secrets and private possessions—in short to nourish at all costs some sense of personal value, and at the same time to exculpate themselves of it. From this conflict results a torment of conscience, which seems to parody that of the Christian struggling with his evil impulses. It is evidently upon this ubiquitous sense of guilt, and of the need to confess it, even more than on its police and its executioners, that the regime relies for its power.

In this political Geneva, Dirck, with his foreign airs, his well-fitting clothes and the luxurious trifles he has brought with him, becomes an unwitting occasion of sin, awakening in those with whom he has contact a forbidden and nostalgic memory of the pre-revolutionary world. This seems to explain why he remains long unmolested by the police; he becomes their instrument for detecting dangerous thoughts and affections. He pursues his love affair with the girl, Barbara, tempting her not only with gifts, but also with the possibility of realizing herself as a human being. The guilt of their relationship consists, apparently, not in its overt sexual manifestations, but merely in the private character of their emotions. In seeking to shield her, he becomes, against his will, accessory to the arrest and execution of three young men who have questioned him with an unholy curiosity about the manner of living in foreign places. For, as the police agent explains, it is necessary to extirpate not only crime against the state but the very impulse to crime.

From that point the story becomes pretty delirious. Apparently in accord with some diabolical calculation of the police, Dirck kills his official chief, an old revolutionary with some resemblance to the late Comrade Lunacharsky, who has outlived his usefulness to the state, and is therefore an enemy to it. This is the signal for a fantastic series of purges, much like the historical purges which followed the killing of Comrade Kirov. For reasons not clear, Dirck is not liquidated at once, but is taken to the frontier where the war with the counterrevolutionairies is still raging. An otherwise friendly and philosophic soldier is appointed his executioner and carries out his orders by firing a pistol bullet into Dirck's head. Somewhat incredibly, the bullet fails to kill him. Left for dead, he is discovered by another band of soldiers who mistake him for a victim of the counterrevolutionists and tenderly nurse him back to consciousness. As the story closes he is making feverish but probably futile plans to escape.

Signor Alvaro's book, I believe, made a considerable stir in Europe, but has been rather coldly received in the United States, possibly because the state of mind it strives to depict is still happily unfamiliar here. Much fault has been found with the shadowy characterizations and the ambiguity of the symbolism. Some appear to suppose that this schizophrenic quality was necessary to conceal from the Italian censors the true import of the book; but I am almost satisfied that they arise from Signor Alvaro's artistic purpose. It seems to me that the moral of his novel is much the same as that of Max Picard's treatise on Hitler in Ourselves, namely, that the totalitarian psychology is the end product of all the disjunction and irrelevance of modern life.

Matter Of Fact

By Joseph And Stewart Alsop

The Story Of Peter–1

EVERYONE KNOWS that there are millions of people—certainly as many as 12 milion—in the forced labor camps of the Soviet Union. Yet the very magnitude of this vast system of human slavery makes it somehow difficult for the mind to grasp. For this reason it is worth telling the story of one of these millions (call him, for convenience, "Peter"), who has lived the strange life-in-death of a slave laborer in Siberia for the last nine years. Peter's story is entirely authentic, although for obvious reasons it has been necessary to alter certain details.

The story of Peter, who is now out of reach of the dread MVD, begins in the spring of 1939. That was when he was arrested in Moscow by the secret police. Peter was just 21, and he had emigrated to the Soviet Union with his family. He did not like what he saw, and since he was not a Soviet citizen, he naively decided to go back to his native land. For this purpose, he visited his country's embassy to ask for the proper papers. He was arrested, without his family's knowledge, and thrown into Moscow's grim Lubyanka Prison.

The prison was crowded, so crowded that the prisoners had barely room to stand erect. Under constant grilling by the secret police, Peter stoutly protested that he had no interest in politics, and had only wanted to go home. After three months in the prison, he was bundled into a railway wagon on a Moscow siding. To his dismay, the other occupants of the crowded wagon told him that it was bound for Siberia.

FOR SIX WEEKS the closed wagon with its human cargo moved east by fits and starts. Never during this time were its occupants allowed to leave it. Inevitably, dysentery soon took hold in the stinking wagon. By the time they reached Magadon, in the Bay of Tausk, half the prisoners had died.

At Magadon, Peter first heard the charge against him—"political crimes against the state." He was put to work in the Kolima gold mines, worked entirely by slave labor. He soon realized that a political prisoner in the Kolima gold mines could look forward only to one end—death: death by freezing, death by starvation, or death by a combination of both.

Peter shared a shelf—wooden planks nailed together—with three other prisoners. Toward the beginning of his imprisonment, one of them died of starvation and cold during the night. Peter wanted to notify the guards, so that the corpse could be disposed of, but the other prisoners angrily prevented him. They hid the dead man, and eagerly divided the extra rations among them, until the corpse was at last discovered.

DEATH CAME more frequently by day, in the terrible Siberian cold. Indeed, death by freezing was so predictable an occurence that a regular burial squad was detailed to dispose of the frozen corpses. The burial detail methodically dug a mass grave in the morning, and filled it in again at night, covering with earth the cadavers which had been collected during the day. The burial squad was also charged with a peculiarly gruesome ceremony.

During most of the year, the cold was so intense that when a man died his corpse became hard as stone in a matter of minutes. In this condition it was difficult or impossible to take the dead man's fingerprints to complete the official records of the secret police.

Therefore it was part of the duty of the burial squad to cut the hands from each cadaver, and take them to a special hut in which a fire was kept permanently lit. The hands were made soft and pliable over the fire, and a complete set of fingerprints was taken for the ecord. The hands were then tied together with cord, and looped around the corpse's neck before it was consigned to that day's mass grave. Peter, less than a year out of Siberia, still has a recurrent nightmare. He dreams of an endless succession of dead men marching with their hands tied around their necks.

FOOD WAS THE ONLY means of averting or delaying the coming of this terrible end, for with enough food it was possible to endure the Siberian cold. One way to obtain the needed food was to become a spy, for spies were recruited by the secret police with offers of extra rations. There were so many spies in the Kolima camp, that even after many years no prisoner dared speak openly to another.

Peter did not become a spy, but he found a way of obtaining the food which meant the difference between life and death. He had been for a short time, an art student in Moscow. It is part of the strangeness of Peter's strange story that his rather rudimentary art training enabled him to survive.

How this happened will be described in a forthcoming report in this space. For although Peter's is not a pleasant story, it is unusual only in that he survived his years in Siberia. And the story of Peter has a grim meaning in these times, when the long western tradition of political freedom and personal dignity is so closely menaced by the rival concept of the ant-hill state.

Reuther Urges 'Labor Unity' As Means to Bar Depression

By The Associated Press

An appeal for "national labor unity" to avoid depression, fight domestic reaction and inspire free people abroad came yesterday from Walter P. Reuther, leader of the CIO-United Auto Workers.

He said the goal could be attained in a year.

"Nothing would do more to pull us out of our current state of anxiety and uncertainty than the coming together of the great segments of American labor in a united movement for economic and political action," he reasoned in a Labor Day statement.

Reuther did not use the word "merger." He said that American labor "has learned enough lessons in the eminent value of unity and the time is ripe for putting that learning into practical use." And he added:

"A determined raising of our sights and one big push could achieve national labor unity before another Labor Day."

From Other Leaders

Other union leaders urged their followers to get out and vote, to help repeal the Taft-Hartley labor law which they all contended was destructive of unions.

AFL President William Green, appealing to members to vote, said:

"To keep strong, our country must remain politically free and economically healthy. The policies instituted by the Eightieth Congress are sapping the economic strength of our Nation and depriving millions of citizens organized in the trade union movement of basic freedoms. These policies must be reversed."

Green's fellow-AFL officer, Secretary-Treasurer George Meany, said that "Big Business" had been having a field day in Congress and State legislatures for three years. He said this could lead to a destructive class struggle.

CIO President Philip Murray, in his message, hit at "those who foster monopoly and charge extortionate prices." He blamed them for the Taft-Hartley Act and the "premature death of price control."

He said he was doing more than complain about those who "are doing everything they can to place strong hobbles on the trade union movement."

"I'm pointing out that these hobbles may trip up our entire economy and damage, if not eventually destroy, the democratic system of which trade unions are a major bulwark," Murray said.

Columbus' Purported Logbook Scrutinized

Vancouver, B. C., Sept. 5 (U.P.).—Historians here today studied a 22-page document, purporting to be Christopher Columbus' personal log book kept on the voyage that led to the discovery of America.

Charles P. Smith of Gibsons Landing, north of here, said he found the book in the library of his deceased brother in Devonshire, England. He said it had gathered dust there since its repored discovery in a lead-lined cask off the Welsh coast 58 years ago.

Bulgaria Again Seeks Admission to U. N.

Sofia, Bulgaria, Sept. 5 (AP).—Foreign Minister Vassil Kolarov has renewed Bulgaria's demands for admissnion to the United Nations.

He told the closing session of the Grand National Assembly yesterday that "Bulgaria leads a consistent peace policy" and "gave and continues to give undeniable proof that she is worthy to take a place in the midst of nations."

$800 Millions Left in 'Kitty' For Veterans

By The Associated Press

World War II vets still have a big leave-bond and bonus "kitty" despite big drains on these resources over the last 12 months.

Some officials estimate there's more than 800 million dollars left.

That takes into account over 500 million dollars in as yet uncashed terminal leave bonds and at least 300 million dollars in payments expected to be made in nine States that have enacted bonus programs.

It doesn't take into account bonus proposals being put up to the voters in six States in November, which could open up around a quarter billion dollars more to former servicemen.

These proposals and amounts involved: Indiana, 120 million dollars; Iowa, 85 million dollars; Minnesota, $100,000; Missouri, 150 to 200 million dollars; South Dakota, 50 million dollars, and Wisconsin, 200 million dollars. Pennsylvania voters are to pass next year on a 500-million-dollar bonus proposal.

No matter how the bonus referenda fare, there's over 500 million dollars left for veterans in all States in terminal leave bonds despite heavy cash cuts since the "gold rush" in cashing began just a year ago.

The first bonuses for World War II vets were provided by five New England States, Michigan, Illinois, New York and Ohio. They came close to $1,500,000,000 altogether, and officials here figure at least 300 million dollars of that remains to be paid out.

Amvets Name Florida Man

Chicago, Sept. 5 (AP).—Harold A. Keats, 35-year-old Fort Lauderdale, Fla., business executive, today was elected national commander of the American Veterans of World War II by a margin of one vote.

Keats, president of the Keats Construction Co., defeated Frank McCaslin of Bedford, Ohio, 185 to 184, at the concluding session of the AMVETS fourth annual national convention.

The convention adopted a number of resolutions on housing, including one which urged the Government to construct 125,000 dwelling units annually for the next five years.

Others requested extension of rent controls for one year; a Government requirement that veterans' houses purchased with GI loans conform to average costs of the community, and a five-year extension of public preferences for veterans and their families.

Also adopted was a proposal that President Truman call a conference of labor leaders, bankers, building and loan officials, builders, material dealers and manufacturers to seek means of providing housing at lower cost.

Other officers elected by the convention includes seven vice commanders. They are: District 1—Victor Naples, Buffalo, N. Y.; District 2—Herbert U. Shears, Parkersburg, W. Va.; District 3—Harry Steinberg, Eldorado, Ark.; District 4—Stephen Cheske, Racine, Wisc.; District 5—Sam Hammond, Wichita, Kans.; District 6—Dr. Frank Jonas, Salt Lake City, Utah, and Vice Commander at Large—Miss Anne White, Jersey City.

The new national chaplain is the Rev. Father Francis Wallace of La Crosse, Wis.; Surgeon General—David Hoffman, D. D. S., of Milwaukee, Wis.; Judge Advocate—Marvin Goldberger, Chicago; Provost Marshal—Thad Males, Santa Barbara, Calif., and Finance Officer—Schell S. Hoye, Washington, D. C.

CIO Charges Shipowners Cause Lockout

San Francisco, Sept. 5 (AP).—Shipowners were accused by a CIO seafaring union today of turning the four-day-old West Coast maritime strike into a lockout.

The charge, by the marine engineers, followed withdrawal by shipowners and waterfront employers of all offers until officers of all disputing unions "sign the non-Communist affidavit as any real American should be proud to do."

Officers of the Marine Engineers and the Independent Marine Firemen have signed such affidavits. Officers of Harry Bridges' CIO longshoremen and Hugh Bryson's CIO marine cooks and stewards have not.

Revokes Agreement

R. Meriwether, business manager of the Marine Engineers Beneficial Association, said the withdrawal action revoked a tentative agreement MEBA had reached with the Pacific American Shipowners Association.

Asserting that such an action amounted to a lockout, Meriwether wrote J. B. Bryan, PASA president, that the shipowners appear to be "seeking to destroy the West Coast maritime unions."

"The discussion of lockout is purely academic," an employer spokesman replied. "The industry has been struck in every port on the coast. We couldn't run ships if we wanted to. We have withdrawn all offers from all unions for the time being."

Quiet Pervades Ports

The quiet of Sunday and the Labor Day weekend pervaded Pacific ports where the walkout over wages and hiring conditions idled 160 ships and 28,000 men.

But there were indications of possible trouble when San Francisco clerical employes return to their positions in waterfront offices after the holiday. A committee representing the unions asked the Waterfront Employers' Association for a list of office help so they could be given passes through picket lines. A WEA spokesman indicated the request would be ignored and that police protection might be requested.

U. S. Declares Free Press Is Self-Censor

By Peter Kihss

Lake Success, Sept. 5 (NYHT).—In a report noting that the American people possess a variety of news "unsurpassed in any other country of the world," the United States has warned the United Nations against seeking government censorships in its campaign against international slanders, it became known here today.

The American viewpoint was presented in what might be called one of the "peace reports," submitted by U. N. member nations in response to a General Assembly resolution asking how they comply with U. N. recommendations. The 32-page American document was first submitted in Geneva last month, and has now been made available here.

Truth Will Triumph

One Assembly resolution last fall had invited governments "to study such measures as might with advantage be taken on the national plane to combat, within the limits of constitutional procedures, the diffusion of false or distorted reports likely to injure friendly relations between states."

The United States replied that it was "vigilantly aware of the danger of monopoly in the communications field," and had long combatted it. At present, it said, there are more than 1000 daily newspapers in the United States, almost 10,000 weekly newspapers, scores of magazines and periodicals, some 2200 radio stations and 27 television stations.

"Through this extensive network for the collection and dissemination of news and information," the State Department wrote, "the multiplicity of sources of news and information available to the people of the United States is unsurpassed in any other country of the world. The probability that false or distorted reports will be corrected by true reports is correspondingly great."

How to Correct Abuses

This diversity of information sources was viewed as the major answer to false reports. Secondary measures for correcting abuses, the department suggested, include encouraging nonofficial organizations or information agencies in moral responsibility; training and exchange of journalists to promote competency and integrity; cooperation with citizens' groups; action on a projected convention to promote an international right of correction, although without compulsion; and establishment of U. N. machinery for continuing investigation of obstacles to the free flow of information.

"In the view of this Government," the State Department said, "a free people cannot go beyond such measures as those described above without destroying the most fundamental of all their freedoms, freedom of information.

The use of governmental power to combat false or distorted reporting likely to injure friendly relations between states through censorship or suppression would constitute a dangerous infringement of freedom of information . . . "

2 RAF Men Die In War Games

London, Sept. 5 (AP).—Two RAF pilots in a Mosquito night fighter crashed to death last night while hunting bombers in the joint British-American mock aerial warfare over the British Isles.

The accident brought to four the number of fatalities in the air exercises, the most extensive since the defeat of Germany.

United States Sergt. Walter Doyle-Roquet of Tucson, Ariz., died Friday after bailing out of a burning B-29. The plane was one of 90 United States B-29s taking part. A British flier was killed the same day.

The Mosquito crashed near an air field at Maidenstone, Kent.

The games continued today with planes darting over southern England as American and British fliers fought sham battles in the maneuvers between "Northland" and "Southland."

Forces of the Southland—the mythical aggressor state situated on the continent—scored notable successes.

The sky was spotted with clouds and bombers crossing the Channel slipped by the defenders in considerable numbers.

Defending fighters were alert and there were many chases through the clouds. Ground crews manning detector devices said they spotted all the invaders.

Dewey Urged To Publicize Russia Stand

Frederick J. Libby, executive secretary of the national council for prevention of war, yesterday urged Republican presidential candidate Thomas E. Dewey to encourage public debate on United States policy toward Russia.

In an open letter to the New York governor, Libby wrote:

"Let those who believe that President Truman and (Secretary of State George C. Marshall) are right and that Russia will back down under our military and economic pressure, say so to their audiences.

"Let those who believe that this policy will ruin our country and lead inevitably to a war that will complete the destruction of Europe be equally free to state their case."

He said it would give rise to discussion "more momentous even than the Lincoln-Douglas debate" over the slavery issue in the campaign of 1860.

"And if you are elected president," he urged Dewey, "be guided by the outcome."

Many members of the GOP-controlled Eightieth Congress were opposed to the "tough" cold war policy toward Russia but were "muzzled" by the bi-partisan backing of both Republican and Democratic leaders, Libby said.

France Atom Board Denied Information

Paris, Sept. 5 (NYHT.).—Because the director of the French atomic energy commission is a Communist, this country has been denied access to information concerning American progress in peacetime atomic science, and even has been refused the non-military radioactive isotopes which America has been distributing abroad freely for the last year.

Although this reason for the refusal exists nowhere on paper, physicists in Europe are certain that France has been put in this unhappy position almost entirely because Frederic Joliot-Curie, one of the world's great physicists and the man around whom science in France centers, is an avowed Communist.

France is trying desperately to achieve some progress in atomic science. According to French announcements, the work is being aimed entirely at peactime uses, such as the development of useful power from the atom. But unlike Great Britain and Canada, which share to some extent American know-how in matters unrelated to the bomb itself, France has been completely cut off from vital information.

Denial Confirmed

The fact that France has been denied radioactive isotopes was confirmed yesterday in Washington. These isotopes, according to the announcement, when they were made available to foreign scientists, have no military value and are useful primarily in medicine and in biological research.

The inability of France to get isotopes, which are made in the chain-reacting piles in the United States, is particularly ironical because this branch of physics was, in the past, almost a French monopoly. Almost all the basic knowledge of radioactivity is owed to the French scientists Henri Becquerel, Pierre Curie, Madam Curie and Frederic Joliot-Curie.

French Physicists Bitter

French physicists are more than a little bitter about this development. Had Joliot-Curie been less patriotic, they say, he would have fled to America when the war started and would certainly have been a major figure in the American development of the atomic bomb. Instead, he chose to work for the underground in France.

This Morning

With Shirley Povich

BALTIMORE, Sept. 5.—For $100 you can become an owner of the Baltimore Colts, who are communal property this season, with the stockholders offered a large share of civic pride and the opportunity to buy season tickets for exactly what it costs nonowners.

POVICH

The Colts become pretty close to being civic enterprise. The Mayor rounded up 20 of the city's businessmen last fall after Bob Rodenberg's group dropped $166,000 in their first year of promotion of pro football in the town, and told 'em to put up or kiss pro football goodby. They dug up $200,000 and kept the Colts in town.

All winter they sold shares in the Colts at one buck a share with 100-share minimums. They raised another $100,000 as operating expenses, and at this point there are approximately 150 owners of the Colts. Businessmen are running the club with businesslike methods and are not anticipating any deficit.

Already they've cut down the operation expenses by $93,000 in player and coaching salaries, curtailment of entertainment items and other outlays, and they say they need average only 24,000 fans per game to break even.

AND THE LEAGUE came through for them nicely. Commissioner Jonas Ingram grabbed the big clubs—the New York Yankees and Cleveland Browns—by the ear and told 'em the whole business of the league would collapse if they didn't cut loose some good players to such as Baltimore and Brooklyn. The Yankees sent the Colts Dick Barwegan, their good guard from Purdue, and today they were wondering if they weren't too magnanimous.

For instance, with the Yankees on the move in the first quarter today trying to wipe out a 14-0 lead of the Colts, Spec Sanders smashed into Barwegan in the line and vice versa, and was thrown for a loss. On the next play, Buddy Young was sent into the Colts' line and got nothing, with Barwegan not only making the tackle, but fracturing one of Young's much-needed ribs to put him out of action for the day.

The Colts played like an enthusiastic ball team to beat the Yankees in a big upset. In A. Y. Tittle they had a guy who could make them move, and when his passes weren't hitting them in the eye, they were making incredible catches. Rarely did one man stop Sanders or Young; the Colts were making gang tackles.

THE CLEVELAND BROWNS, who are defending their league championship and have already been knocked off by the Colts in an exhibition game, are probably thinking by this time that they, too, have been too magnanimous toward the Baltimore entry. It was the Browns who, in a spirit of generosity, gave up their rights to Tittle, the quarterback from Louisiana State.

Down in the Southeastern Conference Tittle didn't rate the headlines last season that fell to Charley Conorly of Mississippi, but most of the coaches in that sector privately rated him the best passer in the South. The Cleveland club wined and dined him and paid his expenses to Cleveland to get his name on a Browns' contract, but somehow felt no great sense of loss in givihg nim up.

Red Patterson of the Yankees' staff, a press box visitor, today was unimpressed with the Yankees' pass defense in the first quarter. "They are looking bad on defense," said Patterson after Tittle pitched his first touchdown pass. After Tittle threw two more touchdown passes, Patterson ventured, "This Tittle is going to make a lot of pass defenses look bad in this league."

JIM TATUM, the Maryland coach, was another press box visitor, and watched with interest as Bus Mertes of the Colts ripped 24 yards through the Yankees' line before a lone tackler felled him. "Nice run," said Tatum, "but Lu Gambino would have gone all the way if only one tackler was in front of him."

Gambino is ineligible to play for Maryland under Southern Conference rules, but the Colts are viewing him as extremely eligible to play with the Colts. With the likes of him to team with Tittle's passing game, Coach Cecil Isbell thinks the Colts could take it all in the All-American Conference this year, at least in the Eastern division.

By way of interesting Gambino, the Colts' general manager, Walter Driskill, has already delivered a Packard convertible to the big halfback's dormitory door at College Park. It is already equipped with license tags made out in Gambino's name, and is his for the taking—if he takes a Colt contract along with it.

Moses' Hit Drives In Williams For 4-3 Win

Philadelphia, Sept 5 (AP).—Ted Williams' double and a single by Wally Moses in the tenth inning carried the league leading Boston Red Sox to their third straight victory over the Philadelphia Athletics by a 4 to 3 score today.

The setback was the seventh straight for the Athletics.

Relief Pitcher Dave Ferris, who took over for Starter Denny Galehouse and held the A's to one hit in the last two and two-thirds innings was credited with the win. Dick Fowler went the route for the Athletics and was beatened for the first time this season by Boston.

Bosox Score Three

Boston staged a three-run uprising against Fowler in the fourth inning with Vern Stephens' double, following hits by Johnny Pesky and Ted Williams, accounting for one of the tallies. Bill Goodman's single drove home the other two.

Williams' tenth-inning double was his fourth hit of the game.

Hank Majeski accounted for all three Philadelphia runs. He singled home Eddie Joost in the fifth and then belted his twelfth homer of the season with Barney McCosky on base in the seventh.

A ground rule prevented the Athletics from winning in regulation time. Pete Suder's long drive in the eighth was ruled only a double when the ball hit high on a screen alongside the left-field foul line pole and bounced back onto the playing field.

Appling's Hit Beats Tigers

Chicago, Sept. 5 (AP).—Luke Appling's single with the bases full and two out in the ninth inning gave the Chicago White Sox a 4-3 victory over the Detroit Tigers before 7253 persons here today.

The victory, Allen Gettel's fifth of the season, was Chicago's only decision of the three-game set.

The victory snapped a four-game losing streak.

The White Sox had just scored the tying run on Pitcher Art Houtteman's throwing error when Appling stepped up with the bases full and two out.

Two home runs by Catcher Tim Smith, one with the bases loaded, paced the Northwest All-Stars to a double-header victory yesterday at Sherrydale. The Ballston Indians suffered the double loss, 10-4, and 9-0.

Hogan Leads By 3 Strokes

Reno, Nev. Sept. 5 (AP).—Little Ben Hogan, the triple golf champion, put on the pressure today to draw away from the field in the $25,000 Reno Open. He shot a seven under par 65 to post a 54-hole total of 201, three strokes ahead of his nearest rival.

The final round will be played tomorrow and, barring a complete flop of his straight hitting and accurate putting, the man from Hershey, Pa., figures to walk off with top money of $3500.

Hogan's great round, added to previous efforts of 67 and 69, enabled him to forge ahead of his closest rivals. Former National Open Champion Lloyd Mangrum of Niles, Ill., came in with a 68 today for a three-round total of 204. Mangrum, along with Dick Metz of Virginia Beach, Va., had tied with Hogan at the halfway mark with 136.

Metz also fell back today, however, with a 69 and total 205.

Ellsworth Vines of Iowa City, Iowa, carded a third round 70 for a total 206 and George Fazio of Conshohocken, Pa., was a stroke in back with 207. Fazio went around in 68 blows.

4 Touchdown Passes

Luckman, Layne, Lujack Carry Bears to 42-7 Win Over Yanks

Chicago, Sept. 5 (AP).—Rookies Bobby Layne and Johnny Lujack and veteran Sid Luckman totaled four touchdown passes today as the Chicago Bears smashed the Boston Yanks, 42-7, in a National Football League exhibition game.

Layne, the Texas pass-master, thrilled a crowd of 27,569 with a 68-yard touchdown pass to Frank Minini in the third quarter and one for 66 yards to Jim Keane in the fourth.

Luckman opened the scoring in the first period with a 22-yard payoff to Ken Kavanaugh. Later, Lujack's 32-yard aerial to J. R. Boone of Tulsa set up Jim Canady's 3-yard plunge.

In the second quarter after the Bears had stopped the Yanks on the eighth, George McAfee ran back Frank Dancewicz's pass for 61 yards and another Bears score. Lujack, making his pro debut despite an ankle injury, gave the Bears a 28-0 halftime margin by hitting Max Bumgardner with a 21-yard scoring heave.

The Bears, pegging their third exhibition triumph, gave the Yanks their only marker in the fourth period. Leroy Zimmerman passed 15 yards to Joe Duckworth, then hit Bob Hazelhurst for 24 to move the ball to the 1-yard line. Bill Paschal rammed over and Zimmerman added the point.

Gambino Expected to Sign With Colts Today

BALTIMORE, Sept. 5—Lu Gambino, Maryland University's ineligible halfback, was the guest of the Baltimore Colts at the game with the Yankees today, and tomorrow they expect to measure him for a Colt uniform.

General Manager Walter Driskill of the Colts was in conference with Gambino and Maryland Coach Jim Tatum after the game, and an announcement concerning Gambino's football future is due tomorrow.

The Chicago Bears are also bidding for Gambino, but the touchdown-minded halfback has said he would be guided by the advice of Coach Tatum in accepting any pro offers. Tatum is known to be favoring the Colts if Gambino's last appeal to be restored to Southern Conference eligibility is lost.

Hope is fading at Maryland that Gambino will be restored to eligibility by a rules amendment. There is no certainty that two thirds of the conference schools, the majority needed to act, even will accept Maryland's invitation to be present at a special meeting at College Park.

The Bears have made no specific offer to Gambino, in contrast to the Colt's offer that is reported to be a $9000 salary and $2000 bonus for signing. Gambino has tentatively suggested he should receive more.

Driskill, who last year worked with Tatum in the Maryland athletic set-up, retains high confidence that Gambino will be a member of the Colts. He has brought to bear what he believes is a winning argument.

"With the Bears, Gambino would be just another football player," Driskill said. . . . "With us he would be a personality and a home-State favorite, and with Baltimore businessmen holding the majority of the Colts' stock, a future would open up for Gambino after his football days are ended."

Maryland Fears Appeal Lost

Maryland's appeal to its Southern Conference members to hold a special meeting to amend the constitution and rule Lu Gambino eligible appears lost.

A Maryland official last night said: "We have received a few replies, most of them unfavorable. It looks like we're beat."

Tittle Stars

Colts Trounce Yanks, 48-25, Before 31,800

By Shirley Povich
Post Reporter

Baltimore, Sept. 5.—A new star burst on the pro football scene today and in the radiant brilliance of Rookie Y. A. Tittle's forward-passing feats, the Baltimore Colts dealt the New York Yankees a staggering 48-25 defeat.

The Baltimore team that won only two All-American Conference games last year, laid waste the highly favored Yankees with the constant aerial stabs of Tittle, the freshman quarterback from Louisiana State.

Before 31,800 noisy and jubilant Baltimore fans who at the finish piled on the field to mob the Colts in glee, young Tittle calmly pitched the Baltimore entry to two touchdowns in the first six minutes of play and then went on to a conference passing record.

Four times Tittle threw touchdown passes—to Billy Hillenbrand, Lamar Davis and Johnny North. A fifth he set up with a wide handoff to Hillenbrand, and the sixth Colt touchdown he scored personally on a quarterback sneak.

At the day's end, yesterday Abraham Tittle, in his first game in a pro league, emerged as the holder of the conference's record for yardage gained on completed passes in a single game. His 346 yards passing topped the previous mark of 325 held by Otto Graham of Cleveland.

To make complete the ignominy of the Yankees, the Colts called on Rex Grossman, rookie fullback from Indiana, to kick a 53-yard field goal in the waning minutes, and he did.

Yanks Tie It, 21-21

The blond, 190-pound Tittle showed his mettle midway in the third quarter after the Yankees surged to a 21-21 tie on two quick touchdowns. Russell set up one of those with an intercepted pass and Spec Sanders scored the tying goal on line smashes after a Baltimore punt was blocked.

Then it was that Tittle pitched a pass to North from his 20-yard line and North went all the way to put the Colts in front again, 28-21. Tittle's passes took the Colts down field again, two minutes later and from the 5-yard line he flipped a lateral to Hillenbrand for a touchdown. Midway in the fourth quarter he found a receiver in Hillenbrand again and a 48-yard touchdown play clinched the game.

The new Colts, apparently owning no inferiority complex despite last year's sorry record of the team, moved out in front, 7-0, in the first four minutes. Tittle pitched a 24-yard pass to Hillenbrand and two plays later it was touchdown, with Hillenbrand taking a Tittle heave the last 12 yards.

Lamar Davis intercepted a pass by Specs Sanders of the Yankees to set up the Colt's second touchdown of the first quarter. From the Yankees' 36-yard line, Tittle made good a 35-yard pass to Stormy Pfohl, and on the next play he sneaked center to the goal.

Tittle Does It Again

Tittle reserved the thrill play for four seconds before the end of the first half when he passed to Davis for 60 yards and a touchdown, to improve the Colts' lead 21-7 at that point. The half-time gun went off as the ball settled in Davis' arms on the Yankees' 20, and he was never caught.

The Yankees were without the services of Buddy Young, five minutes after the game started. He was removed to Union Memorial Hospital with a rib fracture believed not serious. Without Young to decoy the Colts' defenses, Spec Sanders, Yankee tailback, was sadly handicapped and could mount only one sustained drive to a touchdown.

Old Dominion Retains Title

By Jack Walsh
Post Reporter

Alexandria's Old Dominion Boat Club retained its championship in impressive fashion by amassing 116 points to win the fifty-seventh annual Middle States Regatta yesterday on the Potomac.

The charges of Coach Julian S. Whitestone didn't finish worse than second in the eight races they entered on the 22-event program.

Old Dominion won the junior quad, junior four-oared gig and the intermediate eight-oared races, finishing in the runnerup spot in five other events.

Philadelphia Second

Philadelphia's Fairmount Rowing Association, paced by John Kieffer, the regatta's outstanding oarsman, took second place in the team standings with 71½ points.

It was Kieffer who stroked the single quads sculls crew to a victory in the last event to enable Fairmount to pull ahead of New York A. C., third with 66.

Kieffer, 27-year-old crew veteran who won four National championships in 1942, started off by scoring an easy victory in the seinor single sculls quartermile dash over Malta's Harold Finigan and Jack Sulger, New York A. C.

Sulger, well regarded because he won the Canadian championship, in the quartermile sprint last week in the Royal Canadian regatta at St. Catherine's, Ontario, also was beaten in the mile event by Finigan.

Finigan, a lanky 39-year-old Philadelphia businessman, scored easily over Sulgar, 35-year-old New York City policeman.

Barrett's 5-Hitter Subdues Phillies

Boston, Mass., Sept. 5 (AP).—Right-hander Red Barrett pitched his best game of the year today in twirling the National League-leading Boston Braves to a five-hit 5-1 triumph over the Philadelphia Phillies before 16,487 fans.

The Phils' lone score was Johnny Blatnik's fifth homer of the season in the fourth inning.

It was the first pitch to Blatnik and after that Barrett retired the next 15 batters in succession. Del Ennis hit a harmless single after two were out in the ninth.

Only other hits off Barrett, who struck out three, and walked none, were consecutive singles after two were out in the first inning by Bert Haas and Ennis and a hard grounder to short by Ralph Caballero in the second.

Sibby Sisti walked to begin the Boston third, raced to third on the first of three singles by Tommy Holmes, and scored on a plunk into left field by Al Dark.

Holmes hustled across with the Tribe's second score on Bob Elliott's line hit into center.

Brooks Win, 4-3, On Shuba's Double

Brooklyn, Sept. 5 (AP).—Pinch-Hitter George Shuba's double with two out and the bases loaded in the last half of the twelfth inning gave the Brooklyn Dodgers a thrilling, uphill 4-3 victory over the New York Giants today before 35,750 Ebbets Field fans.

Shuba's dramatic blow climaxed a three-run rally after the Giants had gone ahead in the top of the twelfth, 3-1, on Johnny Mize's second home run of the game with one aboard.

Young Monte Kennedy, Giant southpaw, who had pitched six-hit ball for 11 frames, appeared to be getting stronger in the extra innings, having retired the last eight batters without giving up a hit.

Kennedy walked Marv Rackley, first batter to face him in the last of the twelfth. Giants Manager Leo Durocher then replaced Kennedy with another lefty, Dave Koslo.

When Pinch-Hitter Tommy Brown, trying to get out of the way of a pitch hit an accidental single to center, the fans began to buzz. They increased that to a crescendo when Billy Cox singled to left to load the bases with nobody out.

The crowd stilled when Eddie Miksis, who had taken over at second the previous inning when Umpire Larry Goetz ejected Jackie Robinson for arguing over a third called strike, forced Rackley at the plate.

The noise picked up again when Koslo walked Pee Wee Reese to force in Brown with a run. Right-hander Ray Poat replaced Koslo and forced Pinch-Hitter Arky Vaughan to pop up for the second out.

Then Shuba came in to bat for Carl Furillo.

Chicago 7 Point Favorites

'Skins Tackle Powerful Cards In Denver Exhibition Tonight

Denver, Sept. 5.—The Washington Redskins go after their second exhibition victory in five days when they face the National League champion Chicago Cardinals here tomorrow night.

A crowd of 18,000 is expected to see the Cards take the field 7-point favorites despite Washington's decisive 21-10 win over the Los Angeles Rams last Thursday.

Brandishing one of the most versatile attacks in the history of the pro league, the Cards have reason to go after a one-sided triumph.

In their drive toward the championship last year, the Cards were handed a humiliating 45-21 setback by the lowly 'Skins. In fact, since 1937 when the Redskins moved to Washington, the Cards have licked them only once.

The most spectacular feature of the game figures to be the passing duel between Slingin' Sammy Baugh of Washington and Paul Christman of the Cards.

However, the Cards, on paper at least, have all the better of it in the running department with such breakaway threats as Elmer Angsman, Charlie Trippi, Pat Harper, Ventran Yablonski, Corwin Clatt and Bob Hanlon.

With fleet Eddie Saenz sidelined because of a fractured foot, the Redskins will lean on Bobby Nussbaumer and Tommy Mont and rookie Dan Sandifer to supply dash to the attack. Sandifer uncorked an 84-yard touchdown run against the Rams last week.

The game will provide such Redskin linesmen as Fred Boensch, Johnny Sanchez, Johnny Adams and Johnny Steber to prove that their improved showing against the Rams last week was no fluke.

They were the big factor in last week's triumph, giving Baugh the protection he has lacked for many a year.

Proceeds of the game go to the Denver Post charities.

Special Dispatch to Washington Post

New York, Sept. 5.—Luck and a few long hits enabled the pennant-hungry New York Yankees to defeat the Nats, 5-3, today for a sweep of the four-game series at Yankee Stadium before 24,655 fans.

The lucky break came with two out in the sixth inning, when Sid Hudson was breezing along with a 3-3 tie. Pulling away from a pitch, Joe DiMaggio accidentally dropped a two-bagger into short right field.

Yogi Berra then sliced a drive which clung to the left field foul line until it hit the stands on the bounce, scoring Joe. A single by Phil Rizzuto sent Yogi home with the final run of the game.

Hudson, losing his fourteenth game of the year, had all the better of his argument with the Yankees' starter, Allie Reynolds, who yielded eight hits and five walks during his six and two-thirds innings of toil. Except for an intentional pass, Sid's control was flawless, and the Yanks made only six safeties off his sidearm delivery.

DiMaggio Has 4 Hits

But among these bingles was DiMaggio's thirty-third home run, a massive loft off an outside pitch in the second which landed in the far corner of the right field stands, as well as three doubles, and Berra's triple.

The Senators took the lead in their second when Reynolds walked Mickey Vernon, who navigated the bases on Eddie's Yoost's single and Al Evans' fly, after DiMaggio's blast tied the count, consecutive singles by Al Kozar, Sherry Robertson and Ed Stewart gave Washington a one-run edge in their third.

Gus Niarhos started a two-run rally in the Yanks' half, bouncing a single to left, making third on George Stirnweiss' double. Tommy Henrich lined another two-bagger to right, scoring both Yankee baserunners.

Reynolds' generosity set up the tying run in the fifth. He walked Robertson and Vernon, Sherry tallying on Mark Christman's line single to center.

The righthander from Oklahoma dished out a pass to Gil Coan in the sixth. When Kozar singled Manager Bucky Harris flashed an SOS to Joe Page. The southpaw reliefer halted the rally, holding the Senators to one hit the rest of the way. He was credited with the victory.

60 Play Tuesday

Bob Brownell Aims at 4th Amateur Title

A field of 60 will try to balk Bobby Brownell's try for his third straight District Amateur golf crown at Columbia Country Club this week. He's already won the title three times altogether.

Entries doubled yesterday, the last day on which they were open, for the leading local Amateur event which begins with a qualifying round on Tuesday morning. The total represents an increase of 11 over last year's field of 49.

Brownell started winning District titles in 1936, at the age of 17, when he dumped the then reigning amateur, Roger Peacock, at Manor Country Club. He continued with a 4-and-2 triumph over Ralph Bogart in the 1946 finals at Columbia and last year polished off Maury Nee at Woodmont, 10 and 8.

Nee, incidentally, just returned with Brownell from the National Amateur at Memphis and has decided to pass up this year's District Amateur.

Pairings and starting times for the qualifying round Tuesday morning at Columbia Country Club:

10:00—W. B. Mason (Chevy Chase) and C. A. Slater, jr. (Columbia). 12:00—Nathan Lubar (Woodmont) and Douglas Jackson (Indian Spring). 12:05—Capt. Bart Yount (Army & Navy) and George Rita (Columbia). 12:10—Alvin Dulcan (Woodmont) and LeRoy Smith (Manor). 12:15—Lieut. Col. Paul Gifford (A. & N.) and James A. Murphy (Woodmont). 12:20—Karl W. Corby (Columbia) and Jim Gardner (Washington). 12:25—Robert Harmon (Argyle) and Morris Abrams (Indian Spring). 12:30—Walter N. Talkes (Manor) and Eckies (Indian Spring). 12:35—R. H. Mike Oliveri (Indian Spring) and Clark Daniel (Washington). 12:40—Capt. Fred Moseley (Prince Georges) and Dick Schattman (Indian Spring). 12:45—Billy Shannon (Columbia) and W. B. McFerren (Indian Spring).

12:50—Maury Fitzgerald (Kenwood) and J. Tyler Bowie (Columbia). 12:55—Serge Folk (Bethesda) and H. A. Halpin (Prince Georges). 1:00—P. J. Nechoilon (Prince Georges) and Larry Imhoff (Kenwood). 1:05—Robert Brownell (Chevy Chase) and Ralph Bogart (Chevy Chase). 1:10—Joe Wilson (Kenwood) and Phil Donaldson (Bethesda). 1:15—Don Miller (Kenwood) and Francis Donaldson (Bethesda). 1:20—E. R. Ferguson, jr. (Kenwood) and Col. Jesse Auton (Columbia). 1:25—R. N. Cook (Kenwood) and Maj. S. Fletcher (Columbia). 1:30—L. Roy Tuerke (Kenwood) and Ray Swearingen (Columbia).

1:35—T. Ritchie Edmondston (Columbia) and Louis Ordille (Indian Spring). 1:40—Tom Manning (Bethesda) and Arthur Youngquist (Kenwood). 1:45—Buddy Sharley (Indian Spring) and Billy Briggs (Kenwood). 1:50—Robert Morris (Prince Georges) and Joe Wolf (Indian Spring). 1:55—Dennis Hevener (Indian Spring) and Maj. John G. Gross (A. & N.). 2:00—Howard Nordlinger (Woodmont) and J. C. Brantley (Chevy Chase). 2:05—Alan Weisberg (Indian Spring) and Billy Griffin (Prince Georges). 2:10—Beverly G. Edwards (Belle Haven) and Dr. Joe Kenrick (Kenwood). 2:15—M. Parker Nolan (Congressional) and Billy Shea (Congressional). 2:20—Dick Millbourne (Prince Georges) and Merrell Whittlesey (Manor).

PRINCE GEORGES—Charles French and Bob Bowie tied for low net in a sweepstakes yesterday with 76—7—69. Dug Mattison, Joe Balestri and George Voigt all shot 76s to tie for low gross.

All Houghton, club pro, and his assistant, Walter Bogley, beat the three-man team of Billy Griffin, Edgie Johnson and George Voigt, 2 and 1. Houghton bringing in the low card of 71. Match play for the club championship begins next Sunday.

MANOR—Eddie Stevens defeated R. P. Gibson, 2 and 1, and Leroy Smith defeated John Hitch bourne, 2 up, in the semifinal round for the club championship. Smith and Stevens meet today for the title.

BETHESDA—A mixed Scotch foursome yesterday ended in a three-way tie. Mrs. Ray Gaillard and Ray Patterson had 88—22—66; Mrs. V. Osborne and Capt. W. E. Gladding, a 91—25—66, and Mrs. H. Haight and M. N. Smith also finished on top with an 86—20—66. Mrs. R. McNaull and Tom Manning won low gross with 82. The 150-yard seventh hole will be the target today of an all-day hole-in-one contest.

CONGRESSIONAL—W. H. Leslie and H. A. Hand tied for low net in a selected nine-hole match yesterday. Leslie's best nine holes totaled 33—6—27; Hand brought in 42—15—27. A three-way tie for second low net found C. J. Matthews with 38—10—28, T. W. Seay with 39—11—28 and C. T. Quarles with 36—8—28.

In the Breakfast Club tourney, the foursome of R. I. Preuit, Dr. W. J. Evans, J C Outler and W. N. Schoenfelder had the best-ball score of 33, 26—59. W. L. Shea, the club champion, shot the low gross, 71, and T. K. Wheeler had low net with 84—15—69.

Qualifications for the club championship are in progress and will continue until next Sunday. Match play begins on the 16th.

WASHINGTON—The club ace, Jim Gardner, and Mrs. E. J. Murphy scored an 82 to win the low gross in a mixed Scotch foursome yesterday. Mrs. S. Hauser and Lew Swarthout took low net, posting 93—22—71.

Second low gross went to Mrs. Roy Brister and R. H. Rife, six strokes behind the winners, with an 88. The other low net winners were Mrs. F. Gurley and D. R. Monsees, 95—23—72; Mrs. F. H. Duehring and E G Murphy, 96—23—73, and Mrs R. H. Rife and C. M. Featherstone, —91—17—74.

Gardner, Claud Rippy, Ralph Bogart and Bobby Brownell will play an exhibition match on this course this afternoon at 2 p. m.

INDIAN SPRING—The 14th hole, a tricky, well-trapped layout, 129 yards long, was aced twice yesterday. William Rice, playing with J. J. McCarthy, used a nine iron for his hole-in-one, and Ben Kasow swung a seven iron for his. Leonard Rose and William Krakower were playing with Kasow when it happened.

Alan Weisberg, recently crowned Junior Open champ, and Mrs. Ruth Medley, won low net in a mixed Scotch foursome with a 75—10—65. Mrs. George and Arthur Urban tallied 77—1[illegible]6 for second low net. Mrs. Paul Costello and Eddie Fitzgerald carded 39—37—76 for low gross.

Aussies Bow To Yanks In 4 Sets

By Gayle Talbot

New York, Sept. 5 (AP).—Uncle Sam snatched the Davis Cup beyond reach of the Australians again today when this country's national doubles champions, Gardnar Mulloy of Miami and Billy Talbert of New York, completed the rout begun yesterday by Ted Schroeder and Frankie Parker in the singles.

Brilliant in their teamwork, the veteran American pair turned back Colin Long and Billy Sidwell by scores of 8—6, 9—7, 2—6, 7—5, for the defenders' third straight triumph, and so it won't make a particle of difference who wins tomorrow's concluding singles battles.

The United States now has won the international team trophy 14 times, as against 9 times for Britain, second best.

Only 5000 on Hand

Only about 5000 spectators paid to watch the Americans sew it up. They saw flashes of dazzling doubles, and the going was as close as the scores indicate, but there was never any great doubt that Talbert and Mulloy, playing together in their first challenge round, were going to make the most of their opportunity.

Sidwell was a late starter for the Aussies. Capt. Adrian Quist, one of the world's top doubles artists, had first planned to pair with Long, but changed his mind overnight.

He said he made the shift because Sidwell had served and volleyed well in yesterday's singles, whatever the reason, he tossed away any chance his team might have had to pull the matches out of the fire.

It was Sidwell's uncertain service the Americans broke twice to win the opening set, and they cracked Billy's delivery again in the sixteenth game to capture the marathon second set.

Twice more they broke him in the fourth after they had trailed at 2—4, and that was all they needed. Billy from Sidney qualified as the series "goat."

Grays Win Twice, 8-4, 6-1

Yesterday was Buck Leonard Day at Griffith Stadium and the big first baseman celebrated by pacing the Washington Homestead Grays to a double-header victory before 6000 fans.

Leonard collected a double and two singles in three trips to the plate as the Negro National League Grays hammered the Negro American League Indianapolis Clowns, 8-4. He had a double in two trips as they whipped the American League Kansas City Monarchs, 6-1, in the nightcap. Leonard has been a member of the Grays for 15 years.

Leavens, Adair Play Today for Shore Title

Easton, Md., Sept. 5.—Buddy Adair and Donald Leavens of Washington disposed of four Baltimorans between them to gain the singles finals of the Eastern Shore tennis championships here today.

Adair downed G. Thaler, 6—4, 9—7, and Al Kieles, 6—2, 6—4. Leavens' victims were S. Volk, 6—1, 6—2, and Malcolm Pardew, 6—4, 6—1. They'll meet in the singles finals tomorrow and then pair up against Kieles and Pardew in the doubles finals.

Cubs Earn Split With Pirates, Finally Climb Out of Cellar

Pittsburgh, Sept. 5 (AP).—The Chicago Cubs roared back with a vengeance today to take the nightcap, 11 to 3, after dropping the first game of a double-header to the Pittsburgh Pirates, 7 to 3. Doyle Lade held the Pirates in check in the second contest as the Cubs jumped on four Pirate hurlers for 17 hits. The games attracted 26,569 fans.

The split lifted the Cubs out of the National League cellar by two percentage points.

Burnett, Spencer In Finals of Virginia Tourney

Hot Springs, Va., Sept. 5 (AP).—Wynsol Spencer of Newport News and Volney Burnett of Washington, D. C., had easy matches today to reach the finals Monday in the twenty-fourth annual Fairacre golf tournament.

Spencer thrashed H. W. Whiteside, 5 and 4, in his semifinals test today over the tough Cascades Country Club layout.

Burnett downed Harry Harris of Roanoke, 6 and 5.

Burnett and Whiteside played erratic golf. Burnett had a 39 on the first nine and was six up at the turn over Harris, who fired a 45 the first nine holes.

Decorators Split Bill

Rockville, Centre, Long Island, Sept. 5.—Takoma Decorators of Washington today split a doubleheader with the Long Island Clovers in American Girls Softball League games. Takoma lost the first this afternoon at Hempstead, Long Island, 7-1, and won the second, a night game at Rockville Centre, 6-3.

Packers Beat Steelers, 9-7

Green Bay, Wis., Sept. 5 (AP).—The Green Bay Packers defeated Pittsburgh, 9-7, in a National Football League exhibition game before 39,000 fans here today.

Ted Fritsch, Packer fullback, made the first score on a 21-yard field goal in the first quarter.

The clubs battled back and forth in high-80-degree heat until late in the fourth period when Halfback Steve Lach climaxed an 87-yard Steeler drive by pushing over for a touchdown from the 2-yard line. George Glamp converted.

In the final period the Packers drove 83 yards on the ground and Fritsch went over from the 1. His kick for the extra point was blocked.

Each club made only one other serious scoring threat. The Steelers marched to the 17-yard line in the third quarter but lost the ball on a pass interception. In the final period the Packers stalled on Pittsburgh's 5-yard marker.

Sun Boss Still Leads Horse Show

By Harry De Mawby, Jr.

Warrenton, Va., Sept 5.—Robert Fairburn's Morristown, N. J.-owned Sun Boss, handled by Mrs. Raymond Barbin's Stable of Farmington, Va., has impressively increased his lead in the tough competition of the green hunter division, to 6 points, at the end of the third session of the Warrenton Horse Show.

Still the main contender is the Alex Calbert handled Really Rugged, owned by Holiday Hill Farm's of Mentor, Ohio. Moving up close on the heels of Really Rugged is Springsbury's Berryville, Va., owned Lady Bellest, who's improving performances have brought her a win in the middle and heavyweight green class and a second in the $500 green hunter stake event.

Monopoly Wins Ribbon

In the conformation hunter division, Rappanannock Farm's 7-year-old picture-horse, Monopoly, added another blue ribbon to his credit by winning the thoroughbred hunter class to hang to the lead for this championship.

The reserve position remains the same with Mrs. Page Jenning's Icecapade still the challenger with 1½ points separating him from the lead horse. Moving up into threatening position is Barbara Jo Shipley's Flint, who is now only 3½ points behind, by virtue of three place awards under the capable handling of Dicken Hamilton of Warrenton.

Hellzapoppin Leads Jumpers

The jumper race remains the same, as W. H. Sampson's Richmond, Va., entry, Hellzapoppin, was guided by Tyler Kohler to a second in the afternoon's only open class to add up to 10 points for his tally.

Springsbury's Up and Going, ridden by the veteran Joe Green, and Col. and Mrs. Pohl's great little gelding, Fitzrada, are tied for reserve with 7 points each.

Fitzrada, ridden by Jane Pohl Rust of Leesburg, Va., returned to the form he is noted for by having one of the most spectacular performances of the day. He sensationally negotiated the course in continual jump-offs with the final height at 5 foot 6, to win the knock-down-and-out class.

PROFESSIONAL HORSEMEN'S TROPHY (open jumpers)—1, Springbury's Up and Going; 2, George W. Fitzpatrick's Party Miss; 3, Col. and Mrs. H. H. Pohl's Fitzrada; 4, Morton W. Smith's Flamingo.

49ers Win Fourth Straight, 36-20, on Albert's Passing

San Francisco, Sept. 5 (AP).—Left-handed Frankie Albert passed for three touchdowns and ran another across himself to lead the San Francisco 49ers to a 36-20 victory over the Brooklyn Dodgers in All-America Conference pro football game today. Some 32,606 fans saw the 49ers win their fourth straight, against no defeats this season.

The Dodgers scored first, early in the first quarters, recovering a 49er fumble. Bob Chappius went 8 yards through his right guard to score. Hardy Brown placekicked the extra point to give Brooklyn a 7 to 0 lead.

The 49ers came back for three touchdowns and a field goal, to lead 22 to 7 at halftime.

San Francisco's first score came on an 80-yard march in which Albert completed five passes—the last one to End Hal Shoener for the touchdown. Joe Vetrano missed the placekick.

Five minutes later the 49ers scored again, Albert throwing to Schoener in the end zone. Vetrano's place kick was blocked and the locals led, 12-7.

Brooklyn, unable to gain, punted to the 49ers on the Dodger 46-yard line. After the 49ers took a 5-yard penalty for too much time out, Albert on the run, pased 51 yards to Alyn Beals to score. Vetrano's placekick was good, giving the 49ers a 19-7 edge.

Vetrano ended the first-half scoring by placekicking a field goal from the 29-yard line just as the half ended: San Francisco, 22; Brooklyn, 7.

The 49ers scored a touchdown in each of the third and fourth quarters. John Strzykalski, going through center for 4 yards, made the first, and Vetrano converted. Albert scored the final 49er touchdown with a 25-yard dash around his own right end.

Score by periods:

Brooklyn	7	0	7	6—	20
San Francisco	6	16	7	7—	36

Brooklyn scoring—Touchdowns: Colmer (2), Chappuis. Point after touchdown, Brown (2) (placement).

San Francisco—Schoener (2), Beals, Albert, Strzykalski. Point after touchdown—Vetrano (3), (placement). Field goal—Vetrano (placement).

Negro School Facilities Improved In Arlington

Standards Still Below Other Units, However, Asserts Board Chairman

Arlington County School Board said yesterday its Negro school facilities this year will be better than last, although still not up to white standards.

The board's statement came as schools in two Virginia counties—Gloucester and King George—prepared to open under Federal Court orders requiring them to provide equal facilities for both races.

Arlington County itself is awaiting outcome of a court suit similar to the ones which provoked the Gloucester and King George orders.

The Arlington suit was brought on behalf of 16-year-old Constance Carter, who charged she could not obtain courses available at Washington-Lee High School at the county's Negro Hoffman-Boston School. The suit is now awaiting hearing in Federal District Court in Alexandria.

The statement yesterday quoted Board Chairman Barnard Joy as saying the board "is making a sincere effort to provide equal facilities for Negro and white students," but that it is hampered by lack of space in the form of buildings and classrooms.

The facilities for Negroes, Joy was quoted as saying, will be better than they are at present if Arlington County voters approve a proposed school bond issue at a referendum in November.

The proposed bond issue was called "the only solution" to the problem.

The bond issue probably would be around four million dollars although the exact amount and the exact use to which the money would be put have not been definitely determined. A public hearing on the proposal will be held at 8 p. m. September 14 at Thomas Jefferson Junior High School, 816 S. Fillmore st., in Arlington.

Negro School Not Accredited

The county's Hoffman-Boston High School for Negroes has never been accredited. Last year it had a student body of 23 and only one graduate. Most of Arlington Negro students went to Washington high schools where the county paid their tuitions.

The eight-classroom Hoffman-Boston building houses all Negro high and junior high school students in the county as well as some elementary grade children. It has no gymnasium, and until this year no adequate library.

Joy, however, said he hoped the school will be on the accredited list this year.

He listed the following steps taken to provide more equal education at Hoffman-Boston:

1. Hiring of a full-time music supervisor, gym teacher and librarian and a new home economics teacher who holds a master of arts degree;

2. New equipment in the home economics room and library, auditorium redecorated, heating system improved, lockers ordered for students; and

3. Letting of a contract to put up a temporary two-classroom addition to house overflow students.

The board also has stopped tuition payments at high schools out of the county for all except those who will be seniors this year. The purpose of this move, said Joy, was to make the school's high school enrollment large enough to give courses not now taught for lack of a sufficient number of students.

Fire Fighting Course Will Start Tuesday

An intensive 4-day course in fire-fighting, open to volunteer firemen throughout Maryland, starts Tuesday at the University of Maryland.

Dr. H. C. Byrd, president of the university, and L. C. Davies, consultant in the Navy Bureau of Aeronautics and an expert on airplane crash fires, will speak at the first session of the course at 10 a. m. in the Central Auditorium.

Virginia Fight Urged Against Army Worm

Immediate use of insecticidal barriers to prevent the spread of fall army worm in Virginia was urged yesterday by J. O. Rowell of the Agricultural Extension Service.

Rowell said the army worm is now looting Virginia soybean and late corn plantings all along the coast, in the Richmond area and as far west as Charlotte Court House.

Suggested as an insecticide is a narrow band of 3 per cent DDT dust or Benzene hexachloride at the rate of 2 pounds of dust to 100 linear feet of furrow.

D. C. Reports Fewer Fires, Higher Loss

$731,235 Rise Over '47 Fiscal Year Blamed on Increased Costs

Despite a drop in the number of fires in the past fiscal year, fire losses increased by 54.1 per cent, the Fire Department stated yesterday.

The report—covering the department's activities for fiscal 1948, which ended last July 31—points out that the increased loss is reflected nationally, and is due principally to replacement costs of material and labor in this period of spiraling prices.

Altogether, during fiscal '48 there were 9425 fire alarms, but only 5300 actual fires, a decrease of 286 over the preceding year.

Total estimated fire losses for the period were $2,080,725, or $731,235 over the fiscal 1947 figure. The per capita loss was $2.38, an increase of 78 cents.

There were 1287 false alarms, an increase of 69 over the previous year.

Other annual statistics of the Fire Department include the following:

One hundred thirty-two thousand three hundred forty-eight prevention inspections were made.

Notices to abate fire hazards were served in 14,769 cases.

Thirty-four suspicious and six incendiary fires occurred.

A total of 16,462 emergency ambulance calls were handled.

Hidden in the statistics were mentioned such spectacular blazes as the one which gutted the post exchange building of the Army Medical Center last March 31, endangering a wing of Walter Reed Hospital. Six firemen and a soldier were overcome by smoke in that fire, which caused $250,000 damage.

Another was the Potomac Hotel blaze of last January 14 in which two residents died and 60 others ran to the street in subfreezing temperatures clad only in sleeping garments.

Still another was a blaze in a commercial building at 710 11th st. nw., last January 4 in which four firemen were injured.

Mother of 4 Badly Burned While Asleep

Mrs. Doris Vogel, 25, Suitland (Md.) mother of four children, was seriously burned early yesterday when she fell asleep on a couch in her home while smoking a cigarette.

She was reported in serious condition at Casualty Hospital last night with first, second and third degree burns from her chest to her knees.

According to neighbors, Mrs. Vogel was lying on a couch in her home at Carry Houses, 4201 Suitland rd., Suitland, early Sunday morning smoking a cigarette, when she fell asleep.

The couch apparently caught fire from the cigarette. Neighbors, roused by Mrs. Vogel's screams, rushed into the house, and took out Mrs. Vogel and her four children, who had been sleeping in an adjoining room.

Mrs. Vogel was wrapped in a blanket and taken to Casualty Hospital. A neighbor who accompanied her in the ambulance said her legs were still smoldering after the journey to the hospital was started.

Chief Ralph Small of the Boulevard Heights Fire Department, one of four to respond to the emergency, said he thought Mrs. Vogel's body was "about 85 per cent burned." He estimated fire damage in the house at about $40.

Mrs. Vogel's husband, William Vogel, was not at home when the fire broke out. He returned yesterday and took the four children to the home of a relative in Alexandria. The children, none of whom was injured in the fire, are William, jr., 6; Carol, 5; Ernest, 4, and Wayne, 1 month.

Casualty Hospital officials said last night that while Mrs. Vogel's condition is serious, she has "a chance" to recover.

New Legion Post In Alexandria Signs 100 in Day

Formed in protest against alleged "minority rule" of existing Post No. 24, the new group signed up charter members Saturday night at a World War II veterans' jamboree at George Washington High School.

McBride, a linotype operator, said the new post had to send to State Legion headquarters for additional membership blanks. Officers will not be elected, he said, until interested veterans have had a chance to join as charter members.

Last week McBride announced organization of the new post as a protest against actions of what he called a minority at Post 24. The minority, according to an unsigned resolution, caused Post No. 24 to lose its beer license, tried to "involve" the post in politics and pushed through a post program without regard to legal" procedure.

Shoeless Man Beats Woman In Park House

Assailant in Comfort Station at 13th and K Is Captured by Sailor

Mrs. Evelyn Brooks, 50-year-old Army employe, was severely beaten yesterday by a male assailant when she stopped in a comfort station in Franklin Park.

According to Park Police Pvt. William I. Hayes, Mrs. Brooks was on her way to the Third Christian Science Church, 13th and L sts. nw., when she stopped in the comfort station to find both booths occupied.

Mrs. Brooks told police she saw a pair of bare feet in one booth. When the other booth became empty, she went inside. Shortly after, the doors on her booth swung in and a bare-footed man grabbed Mrs. Brooks and threw her to the floor.

Mrs. Brooks told Private Hayes she said to the man, "If you want my money, take it." The man beat her about the face and mouth and pulled at her clothing before she was able to free herself and run into the park at 13th and K st. nw.

Her assailant left the station a few minutes later. By that time, a crowd had gathered outside the comfort station, attracted by Mrs. Brooks' screams.

Private Hayes said when he arrived on the scene, about three minutes later, he found Mrs. Brooks' assailant cowering near the comfort station while a sailor, 21-year-old George E. Singster, Piney Point, Md., brandished a club over him.

The man was taken to park police headquarters for questioning. Mrs. Brooks was treated at Emergency Hospital.

Urban League Meets Today In Richmond

Richmond, Va., Sept. 5 (AP).—The National Urban League, an organization devoted to betterment of economic and social conditions of Negroes, moves into the Southland Monday for the first time in many years to hold its annual conference.

More than 350 delegates are expected at Virginia Union University for the opening day's session. Fifty-six local league groups will be represented at the five-day conference, at which the Richmond Urban League is host.

Several well known economic and educational leaders, as well as persons in other fields, are scheduled to address the conference.

On the speakers' list are Leon Keyserling, the vice chairman of the President's economic advisers; Oscar Ewing, National Administrator of the Federal Security Agency, and Charles K. Wesley, president of the College of Industrial Arts and Education at Wilberforce, Ohio.

Wesley and Edgar Ray, managing editor of the Tampa, Fla., Daily Times, will address the delegates Monday night, with the theme, "Race Relations—the Essential Spark of American Liberalism," setting the stage for a two-hour program.

Earlier, the group will listen to Nelson C. Jackson, the southern director of the Urban League, speak at an afternoon session.

A feature of the conference will be daily workshop discussions, at which local leaders will talk over their problems and make suggestions to each other.

The 38-year-old league maintains headquarters in New York City, with a professional staff working under an executive board of white and Negro leaders. Its 56 local outlets are located throughout the Nation.

The national headquarters, with its local affiliates, works continuously with Government, civic, industrial, social, welfare, business and labor groups to unravel snarled race relations, and promote greater cooperation between Negroes and whites.

Neighbors Search

Missing Boy Returns Home, Four Children Still Sought

A hungry and footsore 8-year-old boy, missing since Saturday, returned home yesterday, while police continued to search for four other children who had disappeared with him.

The lad, Richard Borley, 200 E st. nw., told his mother, Mrs. Viola Fink, that the others had sent him home in a cab after they had spent the night at a cousin's home and most of yesterday playing at Hains Point.

Still missing were George Fink, 15, of 417 3d st. nw., half-brother of Richard; Anna Mae Fink, 13, Richard's half-sister, of the E st. address; Barbara Ann Hunt, 12, of 109 E st. nw., and Frank Harrison, 11, of 503 3d st. nw.

The youngsters had been last seen playing in a park at 4th and E sts. nw. about 9 p. m. Saturday.

With the passing of midnight, their frantic parents, aided by some 30 neighbors started a search.

At this time, oblivious to the uproar caused by their disappearance the children, according to Richard, were sleeping peacefully at the home of an 18-year-old married cousin in 4th st. sw.

"We all slept in the same room," Richard explained as he gulped a huge glass of ice water, spilling some of it over his sunburned face. "I slept with Georgie and the other boy while the two girls slept together in another bed."

"Barbara wanted to go to Hains Point when we got up, so we all walked down there and hung around for a while. We walked some more and then the others got a cab and put me in it and told the man to take me home.

"I begged them to tell me where they were going but they wouldn't," he concluded.

"We hadn't anything to eat since we left," he added as an afterthought.

Of the children still missing, Barbara Ann Hunt is 5 feet, 7 inches tall, has reddish brown hair and dark eyes. She was garbed in a blue skirt, white blouse, tan sandals and blue socks.

George Fink is 5 feet, 3 inches, weighs 120 pounds, wore brown pants and tan shirt; Anna Mae Fink is 5 feet tall, has brown hair, hazel eyes, and was wearing a light pink dress with white shoes and socks; Frank Harrison is about 4 feet, 8 inches tall, has dark hair and eyes, and was wearing a pair of blue dungarees.

Misses Oklahoma and Texas Briefly Add to D. C.'s Charms

DONNA BRIGGS
"Miss Oklahoma"

BONNIE BLAND
"Miss Texas"

The famed structural beauties of the Nation's Capital were further enhanced last night with the arrival of Miss Oklahoma and Miss Texas en route to the Atlantic City pageant.

Lean (125 pounds), leggy (5 feet 7½ inches), and lovely (see picture), Miss Oklahoma or otherwise Donna Briggs, was first to arrive. She came in a plane piloted by Mrs. R. C. Banfield, her official chaperon, supplied by the Oklahoma Junior Chamber of Commerce.

Well-spoken and friendly, like perhaps the kid that lives next door, Miss Briggs unselfconsciously dabbed on a spot of lipstick, gave her shoulder-length brown hair a quick once-over with a comb and stood ready to face her charmed inquisitors.

Sadly enough, like the plumber who shows up without a monkey wrench, she had neglected to bring her bathing suit. Oh, well . . .

Miss Briggs, dressed in knitted beige boucle, if it must be told, was nevertheless poised.

"Don't you ever get weary of guys making with the eyes at you?" Miss Briggs was asked.

"I don't pay any attention," the Tulsa beauty said. Then, with engaging modesty, "anyway they might be looking at a girl sitting next to me . . ."

"How do you manage to stay in such good shape?" queried a reporter eyeing Miss Briggs' wasp-waist and mindful of his own increasing girth.

"Natural, I guess," she answered. "Of course, I do a lot of swimming and jitterbugging."

As for Miss Texas, who is 20 and named Bonnie Bland, she not only supplied her favorite picture delineating each anatomical curve but also statistics as well: 5 feet, 6½ inches, 10 pounds, bust 34, waist 24, hips 35. And from Orange, Tex.

Both are talented painters working in oils and water colors, both say they make their own clothes, and both assert their favorite beauty treatment consists of plain soap and water.

Miss Bland, who was accompanied by her mother, said she has no matrimonial plans at present, while Miss Briggs admitted she had but "he doesn't know about it yet."

That's how they were, like most other folk—they talk and walk and sleep and eat. So what's all this fuss about bathing beauties anyway?

Safe Balks 3 Yeggs in Five-Hour Assault

Watchman Tied Up, Robbed of Own $18 At Silver Spring Canada Dry Plant

Three yeggmen vainly labored nearly five hours to break open a safe in the Canada Dry bottling plant in Silver Spring early yesterday after first tying up an elderly watchman.

All they got for their pains, however, was $18 from the night watchman, Richard Oliver Lowe, 76, of 703 Thayer ave., Silver Spring.

In other bandit forays an unsuccessful purse snatcher shot a woman because she fought him, and two men and a woman took a man from the District into Prince Georges County, Md., to rob him of $300.

In the safe job, Lowe told police the three robbers came to the plant at 1201 East-West hwy. shortly after 10 o'clock Saturday night, tied him to a 50-gallon tank, took an acetylene torch from the plant toolbox and went to work on a safe.

Safe Contained No Cash

Before they tied Lowe, they took his wallet, containing $18. By 3 a. m., they abandoned their efforts. What they didn't know (and Lowe did) was that the safe is used to store records, not cash.

The pocketbook shooting victim was Mrs. Minnie Donoghue, 35, of 2712 6th st. ne., wife of Clarence F. Donoghue, Government Accounting Office employe.

Mrs. Donoghue said she alighted from a streetcar near her home at 12:15 a. m. She was walking on the east side of 4th st. ne., between Adams and Bryant sts. Suddenly a man loomed up on the dimly-lighted street and grabbed for her purse.

Mrs. Donoghue fought her attacker and managed to retain her purse, she told police. Frustrated, the man backed off, whipped a small caliber revolver from his pocket and shot the woman in the left hip. The bandit then ran across 4th st. and fled west on Bryant st.

Runs Home, Calls Police

Mrs. Donoghue ran to her home and called police. They took her to Sibley Hospital where she was treated for the gunshot wound and released.

Police described the gunman as a dark-skinned Negro, about 5 feet 10 or 5 feet 11, weighing between 180 and 190 pounds. They said he had short kinky hair and was hatless.

A sudden acquaintanceship struck up with three strangers, two men and a woman, in a restaurant near the Greyhound Terminal here cost Curtis W. Nicholson, 38, of Lexington Park, Md., a beating and about $300.

Nicholson said he accompanied the trio to Maryland where he was beaten and robbed. Nicholson was discovered dazed and bloodied early yesterday by Prince Georges County Police Superintendent Ralph W. Brown on University la., near Northwest Branch.

Woman Wore Eye Patch

Nicholson said both men were about 35, that one was about 5 feet 10, weighing 195 pounds, and with black hair. He wore a white shirt and gray trousers. The other man was described as about 5 feet 8, 165 pounds and with a thin face. He was wearing dark trousers. Nicholson told police the woman wore a patch over her right eye.

Joe E. Fleming, 26, of 417 Massachusetts ave. nw., was assaulted and robbed about 3:40 a. m. in front of his home. He told police his attacker struck him on the head with a bottle and cut his hand with a knife, then robbed him of $64.

Fleming refused hospital treatment. He told police the bandit ran east on Massachusetts ave. after the robbery. He described the man as a brown-skinned Negro of about 30, about 5 feet 7, wearing a brown hat, gray shirt and khaki trousers.

Area News In Brief

Cancer Clinic Fee Goes up to $15 Here

An increase from $10 to $15 in fees from persons examined in Washington-cancer detection clincies was announced yesterday by the District-Medical Society's Cancer Control Committee.

The raise, made at the request of the executive committee of the District Division, American Cancer Society, was necessitated by increased operating expenses, and wider use by the public of the detection facilities.

The $15 rate becomes effective immediately at Garfield, Doctors and George Washington University Hospitals. It also will be applied at a cancer detection clinic to be opened at Georgetown University. The Gallinger Hospital clinic, where the indigent may receive treatment, is not affected.

In announcing the boost, the Medical Society pointed out that the local unit of the American Cancer Society faces growing demands for financial support for education, research and service projects. Local clinics, now operating at a deficit, according to the Medical Society, have long waiting lists for appointments.

More Blood Donors Sought

The Red Cross Blood Bank, 1730 E st. nw., yesterday renewed its plea for blood donors. The bank, which supplies blood for 16 local hospitals, is particularly short of "O" negative blood. It will be open from 9 a. m. until 5 p. m. today to receive blood donations.

Garfield Hospital officials yesterday said that the response to an appeal for B and O negative blood for Aline Kathmeyer, 15, of Silver Spring, was "very good." The girl, who has been paralyzed for seven years, needs a pint of blood each day.

Dr. Ammon Honored

Dr. Harry Ammon, a history professor at George Washington University, yesterday was named librarian of the Maryland Historical Society by the society's president, former United States Senator George L. Radcliffe. Dr. Ammon lives in Baltimore.

Inquest Set Tuesday

An inquest into the death of Henry T. Horn, who died Saturday after being struck by an iron pipe during an altercation, will be held at 11:30 a. m. Tuesday at the District morgue.

Horn, 54, of 1625 Corcoran st. nw., died at Gallnger Hospital. Police are holding Clarence Montgomery, 40, of 1710 Corcoran st. nw., who, according to police, allegedly hit Horn after Horn had drawn a knife on him.

Charges against Montgomery await outcome of the inquest, police said.

In 'Good' Condition

Mrs. Arlene Elliott, 29, of 12 5th st. ne., was reported in "good" condition in Gallinger Hospital yesterday after she had been stabbed early Saturday.

According to police, she was stabbed while resisting the advances of a 22-year-old neighbor, Thomas James Burns, also of the 5th st. address. Burns is being held under $10,000 bond on charges of assault with intent to commit rape.

The case has been continued to October 4 in Municipal Court.

Woman Shot in Leg

A 60-year-old woman was shot in the lower left leg yesterday as she emptied trash in the back yard of her home.

Odessa Biggs, 2533 M st. nw., heard two men talking in the alley behind her house as she worked in the yard. A minute later she heard a shot that pierced a tin shed and struck her in the leg.

Police believe she was hit by a random shot since she could not be seen from the alley. She reported in "good" condition last night at Freedmen's Hospital.

Cororner's Verdict Due

Dr. Christopher J. Murphy, acting District coroner, is expected to issue a certificate today in the death of James Tang, about 35, whose bullet-ridden body was found fully clothed in his bed last Thursday.

According to police, a .32-caliber automatic pistol, with all seven bullets fired, was found beside Tang's body in his room at 518 I st. nw. All seven bullets had pierced Tang's stomach.

Washington Girl Has Own Dutch 'Foreign Correspondent'

The Washington Post

MARGARET RICHARDS

Holds Dutch shoes and bracelet sent to her from Amsterdam

Margaret Richards, 18, of 5505 13th st., has her own "foreign correspondent," a Dutch school girl, who keeps her informed on events in the Netherlands.

The correspondence began several years ago when Margaret was a student at the Piedmont (W. Va.) High School. Members of the Future Homemakers Club there sent a box of clothing and supplies to Holland and received letters of thanks from Dutch girls.

Margaret's friend, Yoke van den Boogaard, of Amsterdam, is also 18 and recently was graduated from high school. She writes in English, although she has studied it for only one semester. Since the beginning of the correspondence, Margaret noted, Yoke's English has improved greatly.

Most of the letters concern the daily activities of the two girls. Yoke seldom mentions the war or conditions in her homeland. Recently, however, Margaret sent a list of 20 specific questions on current events to Yoke.

To a question on communism, Yoke answered: "The Dutch people doesn't think much good about communism. We look out to America. We mean that the Marshall Plan is our only saving. And our biggest disaster is the communism."

A question about the free press in the Netherlands brought this reply: "Newspapers are allowed to criticize the Dutch government for we are democrats." She said that little foreign news is known in Amsterdam. She was unaware, for instance, of the Colombian revolt during the Bogota conference in April.

Everything is rationed in Holland, and food and clothing are scarce. Yoke says. Bread and potatoes are the main items in the Dutch diet, she added.

Margaret is looking forward to meeting her Dutch correspondent some day. Meanwhile, she plans to enter Maryland University next month to study home economics.

Pastor Urges Labor, Capital Cooperation

Capital and labor should cooperate in a spirit of sharing and brotherhood, the Rev. Henry W. Snyder, pastor of St. Paul's Lutheran Church, Connecticut ave. and Everett st. nw., asserted yesterday.

In a Labor Day Sunday sermon, Dr. Snyder called for a just American capitalist system as opposed to communism.

Communism as practiced in most nations, he stated, belies its own name, for it does not exist for the common good but for the few who control everything and everybody for their own advantage.

God Had Labor Troubles

Dr. Snyder told his congregation that God was the first and greatest capitalist. He had labor troubles in the Garden of Eden when Adam and Eve were not satisfied with what they got and asked for more, he said.

He pointed out that there are three kinds of workers. Most of them, he said, are "run-of-the-mill" cogs in a big wheel without any ambition or real interest in their work.

A second type, he said, are the "cellar workers" who rob human society and their own souls by their deficient work.

"No man," he declared, "can afford to give to human society less than his God-given ability."

The third type of man, he concluded, does his work with ambition and zeal, and is trying to give society the best he can. He earns his livelihood here and wins eternity hereafter. Dr. Snyder concluded.

Our emphasis has too long been on tangible things, the Rev. John W. Rustin, pastor of Mount Vernon Place Methodist Church, 900 Massachusetts ave. nw., said in his Labor Sunday message.

Dr. Rustin stated that every individual should have the opportunity to provide the basic necessities and certain comforts for himself and his family.

Jesus, he said, pointed out that creature comforts are not enough when he said, "Man cannot live by bread alone."

Only by placing the proper relationship on the intangibles of life—truth, courage, integrity, and right—can we find true happiness, Dr. Rustin concluded.

At Chevy Chase Presbyterian Church and the Washington Cathedral, special prayers were offered for retiring Queen Wilhelmina and Queen Juliana of The Netherlands.

The Rev. Franklin B. Gillespie, minister to youth, offered the prayer at the Chevy Chase church. He expressed thankfulness that Queen Wilhelmina had furthered Christianity in her land and asked God's blessing on the new Queen.

Similar prayers were given at the Washington Cathedral, where Dean John W. Suter preached at the morning service and the Rev. George J. Cleaveland at evensong. Col. and Mrs. R. Roos represented the Netherlands Embassy at the Chevy Chase church and Dr. and Mrs. N. A. O. Slotemaker de Bruine represented the embassy at the cathedral service.

Dr. Tolman, 67, Scientist, Dies After Pneumonia Attack

Pasadena, Calif., Sept. 5 (AP).—Dr. Richard Chace Tolman, 67, atomic scientist of the California Institute of Technology, died today. He suffered a stroke August 14 and was stricken with pneumonia last week.

Mr. Tolman

Dr. Tolman has been professor of physical chemistry and mathematical physics at Caltech since 1921. During World War II he was scientific adviser to Maj. Gen. Leslie R. Groves, who headed the Manhattan project which developed the atomic bomb.

Dr. Tolman also served as vice chairman of the National Defense Research Commission and after the war was adviser to the United States delegate to the United Nations Atomic Energy Commission. He was scientific adviser to Bernard M. Baruch in the advisory group for world control of atomic energy.

Born in West Newton, Mass., March 4, 1881, Dr. Tolman was educated at Massachusetts Institute of Technology, obtaining his B.S. degree in 1903 and his Ph.D. degree in 1910. He also studied at Charlottenburg and Crefeld, Germany. Princeton University conferred the honorary degree, doctor of science, upon him in 1942.

He was an instructor at M. I. T. from 1905 to 1910, taught physical chemistry at the University of Michigan, University of Cincinnati, University of California, Berkeley, from 1912 to 1916, and the University of Illinois from 1916 to 1918.

In World War I he was a major and chief of the dispersion section, chemical warfare service, and from 1919 to 1921 was director of the fixed nitrogen research laboratory, War Department.

Dr. Tolman received the Medal of Merit from the United States Government in 1946 for his war work and recently was made an honorary officer, Order of the British Empire.

Dr. Tolman is survived by his widow, Ruth Sherman Tolman; a brother, Edward C., professor of psychology at the University of California, Berkeley, and a sister, Mrs. Albert Carter, Boston, Mass.

Elder Michaux Warns Negroes Of Red Pitfalls

Elder Lightfoot Solomon Michaux last night warned fellow Negroes against falling for the Communist line.

Speaking at the weekly Griffith stadium revival, the Elder said, "The Negro leader who lines up with the Communists against this Government to overthrow it should be given a trip to the concentration camps of Siberia to see how citizens of Russia are treated."

"If Paul Robeson had picketed the Kremlin, as he did the White House, he would be singing "Swing Low, Sweet Chariot" in a concentration camp in Siberia instead of having the privilege of singing it in Carnegie Hall in New York," he continued.

God destined the Negro to settle in America to advance his standard of living through evolutionary and not revolutionary methods, Michaux, pastor of the Church of God, 2030 Georgia ave. nw., stated.

"To judge the blessing that his coming to America has been to him the Negro has only to measure between his brother in Africa and himself in America," he said.

"In America he has risen from the valley of ignorance, superstition and slaverey to the halls of Congress and is recognized in every field of endeavor that his white brother labors in."

"No one gets any place by revolution," the pastor told the approximately 5000 persons present, "you get there by evolution. No one gets any place because of color, you get there because of character."

The rally, third of a Sunday night series that concludes September 19, opened with an hour of music.

Mrs. Steinman Dead at 62; Rites Tuesday

Mrs. Bessie Hannah Steinman, 62, former volunteer teacher at the Webster Americanization School here and widow of David Louis Steinman, Washington clothier, died Saturday in Garfield Hospital after a two-year illness.

Mrs. Steinman, a native of Russia, came to America with her family in 1903 and settled first in New York City. She moved to Washington in 1921. A naturalized citizen, Mrs. Steinman retained sympathetic interest in immigrants to the United States, which accounted for the many years she spent teaching at the Webster School.

Mrs. Steinman and her husband, who died in 1931, were members of the Talmud Torah Synagogue. She was a member of the Synagogue's women's auxiliary.

She is survived by two sons, Dr. Erwin Steinman, physician of 3500 14th st. nw., Nathan Steinman, attorney, of 5610 Colorado ave. nw., and a daughter, Mrs. Saul Lichtenburg, 3627 Ingomar pl. nw.

Funeral services will be held Tuesday at noon at the Danzansky Funeral Home, 3501 14th st. nw. Burial will be in the cemetery of the Talmud Torah Congregation.

John A. Nicholson

John A. Nicholson, 58, World War I veteran and a member of the American Legion, died last Thursday at Mount Alto Veterans Hospital of cancer.

Requiem mass will be said at 9 a. m. Tuesday at St. Francis Xavier Church, with burial in Arlington National Cemetery.

Mr. Nicholson was a native of Denver, Colo. He lived in Washington at 3330 Ames st. ne. Prior to coming to Washington about 27 years ago, he had been in the theatrical business, and had been employed by the Metropolitan Opera House in New York and by the Barnum & Bailey circus.

While in Washington, he had been an ornamental iron worker, but had retired from business after he became ill.

Mr. Nicholson enlisted in World War I. He was an active member of Fort Stevens Post No. 32, American Legion.

Mr. Nicholson leaves his wife, Mrs. Anna C. Nicholson; a daughter, Mrs. Harvey Stommel, and two sons, Raymond and Albert, all of Washington.

H. P. Sanborn Dies, Former School Coach

Harlan Page Sanborn, 58, former teacher and athletic coach at McKinley Tech and Eastern High Schools and at Emerson Institute here, died Thursday in Montreal, Canada, after a heart attack.

Mr. Sanborn, who lived at 5027 41st st. nw., had been engaged in his own historic and educational tour enterprise here for several years. He was in Canada on a business trip.

Born in Wakefield, N. H., Mr. Sanborn attended Brewster Academy at Wolfeboro, N. H., and was graduated in 1911 from Dartmouth College.

At Private Schools

He also had taught romance languages and coached football, basketball and baseball for 13 years at Greenbriar Military Academy, Lewisbur, W. Va.; Virginia Polytechnic Institute, Blacksburg, Va.; Woodbury Forest School, for Boys, at Asheville, N. C.

In 1924, Mr. Sanborn came to the District where he coached and taught at McKinley Tech, Eastern High School, and Emerson Institute, with time out to coach a championship basketball team at the University of North Carolina one season.

In the late 1930s, Mr. Sanborn went into business for himself, organizing historical tours for educational groups.

A first lieutenant in France during World War I, Mr. Sanborn entered World War II in 1942 as a captain in the Army Ordnance Department, attached to the Air Corps. He retired in February, 1946, as a major, after service within the United States.

He was a Mason, a member of the Acca Temple Shrine in Richmond, Va., and a member of the Chevy Chase Presbyterian Church.

Funeral services will be held Wednesday at 2 p. m. in Fort Myer Chapel, Arlington Cemetery, with burial in Arlington.

Surviving are his wife, Mrs. Martha L. Sanborn; two daughters, Joan Lawton Sanborn of the 41st st. address, and Mrs. Marjorie D. Appel of 3365 Runnymede pl. nw., and a grandson.

Adelmo Sorivi

Funeral services for Adelmo Sorivi, 79, retired tilesetter, who died Friday at Georgetown Hospital, will be held at 8:30 a. m. today in Hysong's Funeral Home, 1300 N st. nw. Mass will be said at 9 a. m. in the Holy Rosary Catholic Church, 3d and F sts. nw., with interment in St. Mary's Cemetery.

He had been in the hospital since breaking a hip in a fall last Easter.

Mr. Sorivi, who was born in Italy, came to Washington about 1903, and was employed as a tilesetter here until his retirement about 1934. He worked on the Smithsonian Museum of Natural History building when it was first erected on Constitution ave., according to his family.

He was a member of the District Auxiliary of the Sons of Italy and the Holy Rosary Catholic Church.

Besides his wife, Mrs. Francesca Sorivi, 5109 Connecticut ave., nw., he leaves a son, Hugo, of the same address, and two daughters, Mrs. Mary Dewhirst of 3738 Veazey st. nw., and Mrs. Matilda Tonelli, 2909 Porter st. nw.

Col. O. M. Biggar

Ottawa, Sept. 5 (AP).—Col. O. M. Biggar, 71, former chairman of the Canadian section of the Joint Canadian-American Defense Board, died today. Colonel Biggar, a lawyer, served in the first war and later became judge advocate-general for Canada with the rank of colonel.

After the war, Col. Bigger was a member of the Canadian delegation to the peace conference, vice chairman of the Canadian air board, and chief electoral officer for Canada from 1920 to 1927. He was author of "Canadian Patent Law."

In the second World War, he was director of censorship and a member of the wartime information board.

September 16 by Edwin Bateman Morris, former assistant supervisor of architects in the supervising architect's office of the Public Buildings Administration. Morris will address the Montgomery County Historical Society at Bethesda Elementary School.

Girl, 2, Missing 35 Hours Found Safe Near Home

Stuart, Va., Sept. 5 (AP). — A searching party late last night found 2-year-old Madeline Cassell Sowders alive and well in a hayfield 2 miles from her home. The child had ben missing for almost 35 hours.

Sheriff Richard Fulcher said there was no indication of foul play. The little girl simply took a hike through rough wooded country. After examining her briar scratches Dr. D. L. Fleshman of Bassett said the baby was all right.

Madeline—one of 12 children—is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Edward P. Sowders, who live about 23 miles north of here in Patrick County. She was first missed about noon Friday when her mother returned after mailing a letter.

The child had been playing with her 3-year-old twin sisters, who could offer no hint where she had gone.

Louis Templar Titus

Leesburg, Va., Sept. 5 (Spl.)—Louis Templar Titus, 38, bank employe and a member of the Leesburg Town Council, died this morning at Doctors Hospital in Washington. He had been ill for eight weeks, since contracting pneumonia at Covington, Va., while on vacation.

He is survived by his wife, the former Margaret Florance of Herndon, Va., and two sons, Templar and Terry. Funeral arrangements have not been completed.

Pastor Sees World Facing A Showdown

The world faces a showdown between communism and Christianity, the Rev. Thomas E. Boorde, pastor, said last night at Anacostia Baptist Church, 13th and W sts. se.

Indications of this trend are the strained relations between "Godless Russia" and "Christian America," and the rejection by the World Council of Churches of the extremes of communism and capitalism, he said.

Secretary of State George C. Marshall was cited by Pastor Boorde as the spokesman for this Nation and for all nations whose faith is in God.

"In opposition to this stand and position in America as interpreted by General Marshall stands Russia, denying God and following the declaration of Karl Marx that 'religion is an opiate to dull the minds of the people.' Its main spokesman is Mr. Molotov," he said.

Mr. Boorde said he believes America faces a revival of religion and morality. He pointed out that atomic scientists have called upon religious leaders to discuss the moral and social implications of the atomic bomb.

He quoted Charles A Lindbergh as now urging a spiritual revival after believing for years that science was more important than man or God.

The timeliness of Saint Paul's admonition to "Bear ye one another's burdens" was emphasized by Dr. L. Ralph Tabor in his sermon at Luther Place Memorial Church, Thomas circle.

He called it a "clear call to a basic Christian philosophy of contributive living" which is "especially significant in these days of tension and misunderstanding."

Another requirement of the Christian faith is the demand that every man carry his own weight in the business of living. This inevitable daily burden, of which St. Paul spoke, is "the kind of burden which gives to a personality a sense of responsibility and dignity, whatever his work may be," he concluded.

DELICATE gray-beige silk taffeta is used by Jean Desses in this formal gown of great distinction. Deep ruffle of net below the knees is caught with silk flowers and winds up to the waistline in back. Stole is of matching net. All of the dresses shown here are on display at Woodward & Lothrop's this week

CHRISTIAN DIOR made news with the fabric employed in this cocktail-hour dress of black satin, embossed with velvet figures in red and green. Full skirt is gathered at the waistline, topped with black velvet strapless bodice. Bolero jacket is long-sleeved and has swing back.

Jacques Fath produces this "corkscrew" skirt of golden-toned taffeta which wraps around the figure in a multitude of drapes. Bodice is understated, made of black lace over silk, and a wide velvet belt circles the waistline

Originals by Famous French Designers on Display Here

Glamour Fashions—Straight From Paris

By Peggy Preston

WASHINGTON has just received its first shipment of this season's originals—glamour clouded fashions direct from the French capital.

You'll find them on display this week in the Walnut Room at Woodward & Lothrop's, and if you're in the mood to look at dreamy clothes, then you'll want to trot right down town tomorrow and make an afternoon of it. It might even (depending upon how much you care about looking at clothes that are away out of your reach financially) be worth the price of calling in your favorite baby-sitter.

Paris originals, as you probably know, cost a pretty penny. Custom made, with infinite care to detail and fabric, they are necessarily more expensive than our American-born machine-made garments, one model of which may be turned out in a thousand copies.

MISS PRESTON

But the fact that we may never hope to own one has little or nothing to do with the enjoyment a woman gets from looking at a French original. Maybe they're not for us—but a girl can dream—can't she?

Selected by Miss Edwards

THE COLLECTION now in Washington was selected by Miss Mary Jane Edwards after she had attended the opening showings of all the leading fashion houses in Paris.

"I had to literally push my way in," explains Miss Edwards. "The crowds of American buyers were so great that it was difficult to get in the doors, even harder to find a seat."

After thoroughly surveying the field, Miss Edwards purchased 13 dresses and suits, rushed them back to this country, fought a winning fight to get them through customs in time for a press showing here Friday morning. In the group are two from the relatively new house of Jean Desses, whose dramatic clothes caused considerable comment among buyers and critics during the openings; four from the top-flight house of Christian Dior; four more by the whimsical Jacques Fath, and one each by Balenciaga, Marcel Rochas and Jacques Griffe.

Miss Edwards explained at the press showing that the costumes were selected with an eye to the adaptability for duplication by American manufacturers. Certain style items of each dress, she predicted, will be picked up locally and reproduced in some form or another in American-made clothes next spring.

She pointed, for instance, to a junior frock by Marcel Rochas, made of a taffeta fabric which gives the effect of eyelet embroidery. This dress, in the opinion of Miss Edwards, will appear on the American market in the form of real eyelet cotton, worn over taffeta or velvet.

Fabulous Dior Model

ONE OF DIOR'S fabulous "cyclonic" skirts is in the collection. Daring, as are some of his gowns, this one was hopelessly slim at the ankles, darted up to the waistline with a startling spread of fan-like pleats at one side of the hipline. Magnificant—for the lucky gal with a figure!

Then there is a dinner dress by Fath, featuring a hobble skirt to end all hobble skirts. The taffeta skirt is draped so intricately that it is impossible to know where the fabric begins and ends—let alone figuring out how to get into it. The bodice is understated, of black lace, and a wide black velvet belt circles the waistline.

Balenciaga is represented with a somewhat mild gray wool suit, sporting a panel back; Jacques Griffe with a simple suit that might pass for an American garment, were it not for the careful cut of the skirt at the waistline and hips.

Only evening dress in the collection is by Jean Desses and it is a charmer. Made of gray-beige silk taffeta, it winds around the figure (of a tall, slim model, to be sure) like a graceful vine. Below the knees it splashes out in all directions over a cascade of net and is caught up at the waistline in back with a cluster of silk flowers. Shown with it is a matching silk net stole, meant to be worn caressingly around a necklace of diamonds and pearls.

Noteworthy Fabrics

BY AND LARGE, fabrics are the most interesting single feature in this collection. We seldom see such lush materials, nor such an extravagant use of them in this country. Noteworthy, in our opinion, was Dior's shimmering black satin, printed with a floral design in red and green velvet. Ingenious, these Parisians.

Women's City Club to Sponsor Fashion Show and Luncheon

Members of the Women's City Club will sponsor a fashion show and luncheon on October 2 for the benefit of the club's social service and welfare funds. The affair will take place at the Mayflower Hotel and fashions will be from Julius Garfinckel & Co.

Miss Sarah Carrick is general chairman of the fashion luncheon, with Mrs. Taibo Erickson as chairman of arrangements. Miss Marguerite Griffin is president of the club, and the other officers are Miss Marjorie Webster and Miss Louise Tomlin, first and second vice presidents; Miss Marjorie Harter, recording secretary; Miss Berniece Dircks, corresponding secretary, and Miss Hazel Hartman, treasurer.

An amazing story of accomplishment is the history of the Women's City Club. Organized in October, 1919, by some 50 women, the membership grew within the first year to 3253, and 2000 of this number voted in the first regular election. The late Ellen Spencer Mussey was the first chairman, serving until the election of Judge Mary O'Toole in December, 1919. It was Judge O'Toole, with the late Alida M. Henriques and the late Alice M. Heaven who issued the invitations to 56 women to meet and organize such a club.

Housing in that year of 1919 was a problem, and rents soared following the war of 1917-18. So these courageous women undertook to purchase the house at 22 Jackson pl., facing Lafayette Square. The price was $70,000. At the end of the first ten years $30,000 had been paid on the principal, $34,000 in interest, as well as $15,000 in taxes. Furnishings for the handsome residence also had to be supplied and some $30,000 was paid on this account.

Mrs. Franklin Delano Roosevelt became an active member of the club in its early years when the late President was Assistant Secretary of the Navy. She retained her membership and when she lived at 1600 Pennsylvania ave., just across Lafayette Square from the club, she frequently went there. The late Mrs. Herbert Hoover and the late Carrie Chapman Catt were honorary members.

Of course you can wear your hair SHORT!

Just be sure to have it cut the style that becomes you! Here are nine different types of hair cuts, each designed to suit a particular kind of hair and a particular type. Let us help you decide which is best for you! Our stylists will develop the cut and—if your hair is not naturally curly we'll suggest one of our short cut permanents for short, brushable curls.

Hair Cut, $1.50
Permanents, $10 to $25
Revlon Manicures, $1 and $1.25

Is your hair silvering at the temples? Then try this soft yet sophisticated styling.

Want your neckline to appear longer? The brush cut does the trick. Can be dressed to look like long hair too!

Thick, heavy-textured hair can be combed out in this flattering casual style because it holds its wave.

Fine hair looks more abundant when it's brushed back in a soft profusion of short curls.

Quite short and waved in sculptured perfection, this styling is best suited to fine hair.

The windblown bob is back, with the same careless grace of yesteryear . . . and isn't the '48 version lovely?

Strictly coed and casually perfect for back-to-school! Soft hairdo with a sweep of curls over the brow.

Diplomatic Circling

By Elizabeth Maguire

DIPLOMATS are returning from summer travels. Except for receptions at The Netherlands Embassy, however, there are few functions in the offing.

Last Tuesday the Netherlands Ambassador and Mme. Van Kleffens received members of the Dutch colony to celebrate the fiftieth anniversary of Queen Wilhelmina's reign and her birthday as well. At the entrance to the embassy, Mme. van Kleffens had branches of laurel wired to stand like trees and fastened with small oranges.

Orange trees will again grace the entrance on Friday, when hundreds will be received at the embassy to celebrate the accession to the throne of Princess Juliana of The Netherlands. Members of diplomatic and residential society will attend along with the Dutch colony.

THE British Ambassador, Sir Oliver Shewell Franks, returned from Nantucket Island on Thursday. Lady Franks and the two children will remain on the island another two weeks. Yesterday the Ambassador gave a cocktail party at the embassy in honor of Admiral Sir Henry and Lady Moore who are leaving Washington soon. The party was a small gathering of some of their more intimate friends here.

The Ambassador of Italy, Alberto Tarchiani, is expected back from Italy the end of the month.

There will be a reception at the Bulgarian Legation on Thursday in honor of Liberation Day of Bulgaria. A similar party was held at the Romanian Legation on August 23. It will be the first party held at the Bulgarian Legation since before the war, as the present government was not recognized until the latter part of 1947. The Minister of Bulgaria and Mme. Mevorah will receive.

Mme Bertelsen, wife of the Danish Counselor, is en route home after a summer in Denmark with her small daughter, Esther.

The birthday anniversary of Mme. Stam, wife of the Netherlands Naval Attache, was celebrated last evening at a Dutch after-dinner party. It is a custom in Holland to call in the evening on the birthday anniversary of a friend.

Two other travelers who have returned to Washington are Mrs. Andrews, wife of the South African Minister, and her pretty daughter, Miss Lydia Andrews. They have spent the summer at Wianno, Cape Cod.

Hostesses Named For Alexandria Production

Mrs. Omar Bradley, Mrs. Hugo Black and Mrs. Harry Vaughan will be among those serving as hostesses at the Little Theater of Alexandria's third annual Gadsby's Tavern production of an eighteenth century play, September 20-October 2.

This year's play will be "The Clandestine Marriage" by David Garrick and George Coleman, first produced in 1766.

Other hostesses will be Mrs. William Warne, Mrs. Eugene Zuckert, Mrs. Charles B. Rollins, Mrs. Louis Renfrow, Mrs. Robert Carney, Mrs. Atherton Macondray, Miss Mary Lindsay, Mrs. Harry Caton, Mrs. Marvin Parler, Mrs. Stanley King and Mrs. Ben McElhinney.

Costumed in colonial gowns, the ladies will greet guests at the inn, pour coffee and punch between acts of play and introduce guests to impersonators of George and Martha Washington in the receiving line.

For tickets to the performance call Mrs. Fred Todd, Alexandria 4344.

Attorney's Bride

MRS. F. JOSEPH DONOHUE, who, before her marriage August 30 in Alexandria, was Miss Martha Apperson, daughter of Mrs. John Henry Apperson, of Washington. Mr. Donohue, a Washington attorney, is a graduate of Catholic University, served with the Eighth Air Force in England during World War II. The couple is now on a wedding trip to Cape Cod and Canada. They will return September 15, and make their home at the Shoreham

Andersons Return

Mrs. James R. Anderson and her son, Jay, have returned to Washington after spending the summer at Fort Leavenworth, Kans., and in northern Wisconsin.

Mary Haworth's Mail

Married Three Years to Man Who Is Wonderful Person, Faithful Spouse and Very Good to Her, Wife Is Sickly Jealous of His Past Liaisons

DEAR MARY HAWORTH: Grant and I have been married three years and are deeply in love. I am 23 and he is 25. He is a wonderful person and very good to me.

I am attractive, have a good education and get on well with everyone, but I am letting "the green-eyed monster" make me miserable. Grant is a faithful husband and I am not jealous of the present; but I am thinking constantly of the girls he went with before marrying me.

Of course Grant told me all about his life before marriage, but not about his affairs with other women. I found out about these through well-meaning friends, who thought I also knew. When I asked Grant about this, he said he hadn't told me because it never mattered to him. The subject was dropped and he has forgotten it, but I haven't.

She Has Appealed to Doctor, Pastor

WE ARE well adjusted sexually, but I am so unhappy. I have tried to snap out of this; I tell myself I am foolish; but I love Grant so very much and think of everything to torture myself. What can I do to overcome this feeling?

I have talked things over with my doctor and the minister of our church, and they say these affairs are meaningless to a man, once they are done. Is this true? Is any wife ever first in her husband's life? I was brought up on a very strict sex education and Grant was the first man in my life. Is it wrong to expect a man to be continent until marriage? Please help me, as I trust your views. C. L.

Man's Past History Isn't the Problem

DEAR C. L.: One who would try to "talk sense" to you, in terms of the problem as you see it, would immediately get lost in the same woods with you.

You are sickminded to a degree, but Grant's affairs of yesteryear didn't occasion the illness, which has to do with incipient fear of failure or rejection in love-relationship, an anxiety neurosis already active in your unconscious when you married, and which the gossip about Grant's adolescent liaisons fanned into hysterical upheaval.

For proof that your distress is obsessional, sane reassurance fails to dispel it and the history of your marriage gives no warrant for it. Doctor and minister, as well as your husband, were telling the simple truth of male psychology, in saying that sex episodes seem meaningless, in retrospect, to a man, if other forms of affectional relatedness don't develop and endure.

In view of your morbid tension, you can't be a sexually well adjusted wife, though you think you are; and in all probability you attach undue importance to this aspect of marriage, assuming that it takes care of the sum total of a man's vital emotional hungers,—so that you are fervently anxious to please in this respect, yet ever fearful of not succeeding.

Wife Misjudges Man's Potentials

THIS unwholesome, soul-constricting bias is a typical by-product of "strict sex education" which stresses taboo—thus investing the subject with the fascination of mysterious forbidden rites,—instead of giving enlightenment: in the form of reasonable understanding of (1) the biological heritage of humanity, and (2) the constructive values implicit in rational self-control, values which improve the quality of personality, human relations and society in general.

Your fallacious over-emphasis on sexuality as the supposed archstone of affinity, when combined with your self-deprecating anxiety neurosis, would tend to constantly refuel a gloomy train of jealous worry about myriad charms possibly possessed by Grant's boyhood sweethearts, with which yours mayhap cannot compare, you think. Isn't that the gist of your self-torturing reveries?

Sexuality is an incidental part of love, in a mentally healthy man's emotional lexicon. When he marries for love, he is activated by the conviction that his wife is a superior being, whose fine influence will help him to realize his best potentials, too; and while a good sex adjustment enriches the relationship by that much, he is counting on spiritual sustenance even more (though perhaps unconsciously),—hoping that his wife, by her happy example and incorruptible faith in his better nature, will expedite his growth towards moral maturity: a goal towards which all rational men yearn instinctively. Keep an Eye On Calories To Stay Slim

By Ida Jean Kain

It happened three times in one day . . . "If you hadn't been with your daughter, I would never have known you! You've taken off weight. It's very becoming . . ."

"Twenty-six pounds," our happy reducer beamed, "and I never felt better. And I'm going to keep them off," she promised.

Taking it from there, let's plan an anchor to slimward for all those who took off weight this past summer. That's the beauty of eating to reduce—you feel fit, your friends tell you how well you look, and, glory be, it's easy to stay slim. The protective slimming diet changes food habits, and by exercising just a little calorie caution, you can keep slim by habit.

The safest plan for keeping weight normal is to stay fairly close to your new food habits. This does not mean to continue to diet. You need not count calories strictly. Ease them up gradually, and take about 500 a day above your reducing number. Later add a few hundred more.

Be Chary With Food

But for a time be chary in your choice of food. You know the calorie weaknesses. Slip back into all of them and the pounds will come back. Oh, not right away, but gradually the weight would creep back up.

Actually, the easiest way to curb extra calories is through the accessories and the trimmings. Now that you've broken the gravy habit, don't go back to it. And cream sauces on vegetables, the mayonnaise and the rich desserts—do you miss them so much? By leaving off these trimmings you can eat well and gain back nary a pound.

Maybe hot breads were your weakness. Or perhaps it was griddle cakes. Then have griddle cakes once a week, but never more often. When hot bread or biscuits are served, take two, but never reach for the third one. And let that be the main starch in the meal. A hardship? Only if you regard it as much. If you really want to stay slim and fit, you won't want to lapse back into habits of overeating.

How About Desserts

Can't we ever have rich desserts, many ask wistfully. Certainly. Once or twice a week, have a favorite dessert. But don't make it a double dessert—ice cream and cake, or pie and ice cream . . . It's daily desserts that pile on the pounds, and double desserts twice as fast. The less you eat sweets the less you'll crave them.

Keeping slim can be fun. Make a game of dodging the high-calorie foods that mean the least to your eating pleasure. You'll feel more fit by following the one-starch-with-a-meal plan, and that automatically curbs the calories.

What about exercise in a keeping svelte program? A few toner-uppers are all that is necessary, perhaps just a trio of stretch bends to maintain tone in the middle muscles. Keep that glad-to-be-alive feeling that is part of normal weight an dtoned muscles.

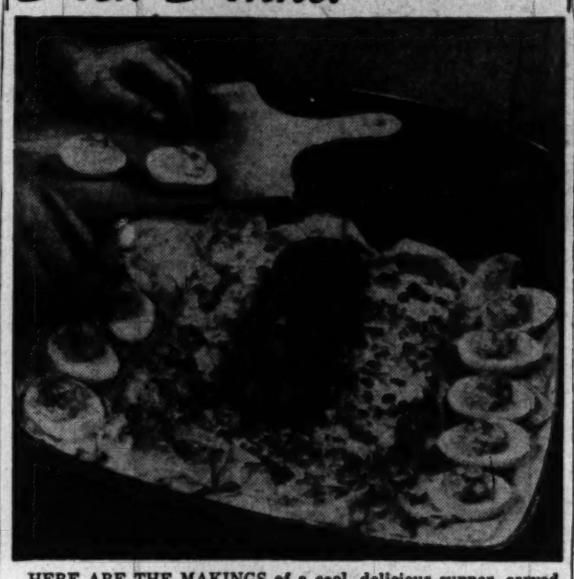
Dishwashing Score!

New York.—The average homemaker in her lifetime washes 2½ million dishes, or 72 stacks as high as the Empire State Building. In the normal household, the weight of washed dishes is more than that of coal shoveled into the furnace. In 30 years, 340 tons of dishes are washed by the average homemaker.

These statistics which appeared in Electrical Merchandising might be food for thought for the tired businessman who envies his wife's easy job.

Ask Anne:

Evening Gowns Can Be Rented



HERE ARE THE MAKINGS of a cool, delicious supper, served all on one big platter. It features chicken salad, but also includes lettuce, tomatoes and stuffed eggs. The salad has vegetables in it, too—peas, carrots and celery—which helps to balance the menu.

CHICKEN SALAD SUPPER

2 cups cooked chicken, diced
1 cup cooked carrots, diced
1 cup cooked peas
1 cup celery, diced
2 teaspoons onion, minced
¾ teaspoon salt
⅛ teaspoon pepper
¾ cup mayonnaise
12 deviled eggs
Sliced tomatoes
Lettuce

Combine chicken, carrots, peas, celery, onion, salt and pepper with mayonnaise. Press into 8-inch square pan lined with wax paper. Place in refrigerator until ready to serve. Unmold on plater. Garnish with deviled eggs, sliced tomatoes and lettuce. This recipe makes six servings.

I am in the need of several evening gowns and wonder if there is a place in Washington where they could be rented? I have always heard that in most large cities there are sometimes shops in which really nice used clothing may be bought. Is there such a shop here? P. R.

Listed under "Dress Suit Rental" in the Yellow Pages of the telephone book are several firms that rent evening dresses. Two shops here that sell used clothing are the Outgrown Shop, at 2001 Massachusetts ave. nw., operated by the Junior League for its welfare fund, and a private shop at 113 South Royal st., Alexandria. The telephone number of the latter is Alexandria 0649.

The white keys of our piano were lost in transit. Could you tell me where we could have them replaced? It is a Merrill piano, 55 inches tall. T. P. M.

Look under "Pianos" in the Yellow Pages of the telephone book and you will find the names of firms that repair pianos. Such firms can replace the keys, either with ivory or ivorene. The keys of pianos are standard so the make does not make any difference in replacing keys. However, you'll want to match the tone of the ivory—that is, unless you've lost all the keys. So take along one of the remaining ones when you go to see about replacements.

Can I do anything to prevent marks on wallpaper where a chair is occasionally pushed against the wall? W. F. S.

Clear, plastic "wall guards" are sold in a large local 10-cent store. If the wall is not too conspicious, you might put one of these at the place that gets bumped so often. Wallpaper lacquer is sometimes used, too, to protect wallpaper. However, it would probably be necessary to cover the whole wall with it to get a uniform appearance. Here is the method used:

First, clean wallpaper thoroughly with one of the dough types of cleaners. Second, apply two coats of gelatin-like wallpaper size, with a soft brush and as few strokes as possible. Allow time for thorough drying between coats. Third, apply one or two coats of wallpaper lacquer. (This lacquer is flammable, so keep it away from any open flame and keep can covered when not in use.)

Caution: Sometimes red and yellow colors "bleed" when lacquer is used. If either of these colors is present in the wallpaper, it is best to test the lacquer on an inconspicuous spot before going ahead.

These lacquers darken some papers slightly, but not enough to be objectionable. Once applied, marks and spots can be erased or wiped off without damage.

To L. A. D.: Several readers have called to say that the New Process Co., Warren, Pa., is probably the shirtmaking firm you have in mind. Thanks, readers, for this information.

I am planning to furnish our new home in Early American and am anxious to have braided rag rugs, which I understand are very expensive when purchased ready-made. Could you help me in my search for instructions on how to make these rugs? That is, just how to cut and prepare the strips, and how to proceed with the sewing together of the braids? Do you know of any booklet which contains this information or any place that I could obtain it. L. L. G.

Good Housekeeping's "Needlecraft Encyclopedia" edited by Alice Carroll (published by Rinehart & Co., Inc., New York) has a very helpful chapter on braided rugs. The chapter gives you the information you wish, together with illustrations to make the directions easy to follow.

I'm preparing various homemade pickles for the first time and I would appreciate knowing answers to the following questions:

1. Which is the bes. solution for crisping, the alum solution or the limewater?

You will find, I think, that most of the commercial chip pickles which are so delicious because of their unusual crispness, have had alum added to them for that purpose. On the other hand, some recipes for watermellon pickles call for limewater for crisping. If you are following a specific recipe I would suggest you use the solution suggested by the recipe. If your recipe calls for neither alum nor limewater, the alum seems to give a firmer, crisper pickle of the two.

2. Should the pickles be boiled in the above solutions or just allowed to stand?

Do not boil the pickles in the solution. Some recipes suggest you add the alum to boiling water and pour it hot over the pickles. That is fine because it hastens the absorption, but boiling the pickles for any length of time at any time during the process will lessen their crispness.

3. Is it necessary to use either solution if the pickles have been soaked overnight in a salt-water solution? S. G. S.

Soaking pickles in salt brine makes them firm, but does not give them that snapping crispness which you get by using alum. So if you want a really crisp pickle, use alum—otherwise if you start with fresh, crisp cucumbers the salt brine will give you a very acceptable product.

Can one treat the leather of chairs in some way so that one does not stick to the chairs in hot, damp weather? Embarrassed.

The leather sticks to the clothing because it has accumulated a film of polishes and soil. This can be removed by washing the leather with a good saddle soap or castile soap. Be sure to work quickly and keep the amount of water applied to a minimum. When washed and rinsed, polish dry with a soft dry cloth.

PETUNIA!

I blush and I wiggle,
I stammer and burn
When my friends call for books
I forgot to return!

For shame, Petunia! When you borrow a book, better make a brown paper cover for it . . . writing on it the title, owner's name, and date. That way it's not likely to be put back in your own shelves and forgotten.

Moonlight Cruises For Servicemen

New members of the nation's peacetime Army, stationed in the Washington area, will be guests on moonlight cruises on the SS Potomac tonight and Tuesday night. The cruises are sponsored by a committee of Washington teenage parents. Young ladies acting as dance partners will be on the boat at 7:30 p. m. tonight to welcome the servicemen, including a large group from the Third Cavalry at Fort Meade.

The committee, made up of representatives of Washington civic and religious organizations, includes Mrs. Louis Nock, Mrs. Walter S. Morgan, Dr. Arthur Begner, Mrs. Benjamin Silver, and Mrs. Benjamin Brotman. The committee in charge of escorting guests to the boat includes Miss Marie Frank, Miss Patricia Kelly, Miss Marcia Litman, and Miss Sylvia Hirschman.

Teen-agers who wish dance invitations may call Columbia 0735.

Laundry Lesson

The wrong way to tie up your soiled clothing and flatwork, according to the American Institute of Laundering, trade association for the laundry industry, is to use a knotted sheet. Laundry bags of heavy crash or other sturdy materials, tightly tied, have now replaced the much-abused sheet, never intended by the manufacturer to be used as a carry-all.

Pick pockets clean before putting garments in the laundry bag. Valuables of every size and description wind up in laundries throughout the country. And they say pockets aren't the only things to be checked. Men's dress shirts should be inspected, too, to see that shirt studs and cuff links have been removed.

THE DISTRICT LINE by Bill Gold

Poet Pop Grey Puts His Alibi in Rhyme

Poet Pop Grey became a summe bachelor about a month ago, when his missus went out to Iowa to help with the arrival of a new grandchild.

Mrs. Grey recently wrote Pop that she had hoped to keep track of him through the District Line, and was disappointed that she hadn't seen any of his verse here lately. To that, Pop replies:

I could not write a single line
Because of you, my own sunshine.
Your absence caused so many tears
I drowned them in too many beers.

The poet in me went to sleep
And passing thoughts were none too deep.
But since my head is getting clear
I'll try and do my best, my dear.

Good work, Pop. "A soft answer turneth away wrath." But nevertheless, you'd better write more often.

SAFETY FIRST LESSON

I was saying goodby Friday night to a friend who was flying up to Cleveland for the air races.

"You're not a dashing young Marine Corps flier any more," I said, "so take it easy and come home in one piece."

"It's obvious that you don't know much about Marine fliers," he replied. "We have bold ones and old ones, but no old bold ones."

THE EYES OF TEXAS ARE GLUED ON THE OUTCOME

That Texas primary election certainly was close. Every vote counted. But there seems to be some question about who counted 'em.

REFUGEE FROM ONE OF HERBLOCK'S CARTOONS?

If the Capitol's nude visitor had been wearing a barrel, she could have passed herself off as an overburdened taxpayer and nobody would have paid any attention.

PERSONAL NOTES

Sam Randall, Bluemont, Va.; E. Simpson, 5228 4th st. nw., and Mrs. W. H. Dehnhardt, 2423 Good Hope rd. se.: I don't know the rules of the D. A. V. contest, and didn't enter it. So I'm in no position to comment on one District Liner's opinion that the "winning" solution included the words fettle, fess, atta, esth and peth. The official rulings will have to be made by the D. A. V.

MAIL BAG

Dear Bill:

Is Henry Wallace the author of that best-seller "The Egg and I?" Bolton M. House, 4500 Edmunds st. nw.

Dear Bolton:

It seems that way. But to Henry, it's no yolk. Bill.

By THE WAY—

If you're one of the few who didn't leave town for the holiday, maybe you'd like to know about the Recreation Department's Labor Day celebration at the Palisades Field House.

Festivities begin with a softball game at 3 p. m. on the diamond at Edmonds and Sherrier pl. nw. Then you can open your picnic hamper and listen to the concert furnished by the Washington Gas Light Band, at 7 p. m.

And at 8 o'clock you can dance to the music of Charles Cliff's Orchestra—and feel sorry for the poor stiffs who are bucking all that holiday traffic on the highways.

PIED THEATER DEPT.

"Your magazine section, Parade, the other Sunday showed a woman looking at a movie poster which offered a rather unusual double feature," writes Jim Reid of 4819 North Capitol st.

"The poster advertised 'Cass Timberlane' plus 'Cass Timberlane.'

"This is quite an improvement over the usual double feature because at least if you don't like the first picture, you can save yourself the trouble of staying for the second one.

"Would you call this a single double-feature, or a double single-feature?"

Personally, Jim, I'd call it pretty monotonous.

NEW YORK.—Joseph P. Kennedy sold all his Argentine interests last week and bought a skyscraper now being constructed in Sao Paulo. It will be the tallest building in South America.

John Steinbeck leaves for California today to settle in Monterey again, and write his new novel there . . . Jim Farley, now in Frankfurt, will visit Czechoslovakia this week—his first peek at a Russian-occupied country. Farley returns to New York October 15 . . . Walter Wanger flew into New York with a print of the Ingrid Bergman movie, "Joan of Arc." He showed the movie to the New York bankers who have been financing the production, and then booked passage back to California . . . Bert Lahr's forthcoming television series may be sponsored by Buick.

Norman Thomas, who started his newspaper-columning for the Denver Post during the political conventions, will continue as a columnist after the elections are over . . . Harlem's Amsterdam News will have competition from a new Negro newspaper, starting this month. Borne Vanneck acquired title to the "New York Age," is renaming it the "New Age," and expects to start publication on September 17 . . . Andre Gide, the Nobel Prize-winner who refused film offers for 10 years, has become so fascinated with movie-making that he's gone to Italy to help in the film production of one of his novels. To Jean Delannoy, who directed his "Symphonie Pastorale," Gide inscribed a copy of his book, "This little volume was the pretext for the creation of a masterpiece in film-making."

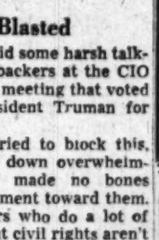
The Washington Merry-Go-Round

Lewis Considering Retirement

(While Drew Pearson is on vacation, the Washington Merry-Go-Round is being written by his old partner, Robert S. Allen.)

Washington.—John L. Lewis' intimates are whispering a startling report about him.

They say he is seriously considering retiring as president of the United Mine Workers at the union's October 2 convention in Cincinnati.



Lewis

Poor health is given as Lewis' reason.

The 68-year-old miner czar has had a number of sick spells in the last few years. He is suffering from a circulatory ailment that affects the heart. The past two months Lewis was in seclusion at a Montana health resort, on the advice of his doctors.

If Lewis does quit, his succesor will be UMW Vice President, Tom Kennedy. Short, quiet-mannered, soft-spoken and friendly, he is the direct antithesis to the turbulent and melodramatic Lewis. But the two men are very close. They grew up together in the union, and Kennedy always has been intensely loyal to Lewis.

When Phil Murray broke with Lewis and threw up the UMW vice presidency to become CIO boss, Murray asked Kennedy to come with him. Kennedy stayed with Lewis.

Lewis' retirement plan, according to intimates, does not include complete separation from the UMW. He will retain an active hold on its affairs. As a sort of president emeritus, drawing his $25,000 salary as a life pension, Lewis will continue a member of the union's multimillion-dollar welfare fund.

If Lewis steps down, he will do so at the peak of his power and with his union larger and more prosperous than at any time in its stormy history. Miners are drawing more pay than ever before, receive bigger pensions, and the UMW treasury bulges with over 10 million dollars in Government securities.

Wallaceites Blasted

Phil Murray did some harsh talking to Wallace backers at the CIO executive board meeting that voted to support President Truman for reelection.

The leftists tried to block this, but were voted down overwhelmingly. Murray made no bones about his resentment toward them.

"Union leaders who do a lot of yammering about civil rights aren't helping us very much in our own fight for civil rights in the South," he declared, "The CIO is the only organization which permits white men and black men to join the same union and to share equally in the benefits both are fighting for. Let those who clamor about the plight of the Negro and the labor in the South show whether they are doing as much as we are.

"Empty talk is one thing, and doing something is another. The CIO is really doing something about civil rights, and that's a lot more than can be said for certain elements doing a lot of loud bleating. The CIO is not going to permit itself to be stultified by any ideological splinter group."

Albert Fitzgerald, head of the leftist-controlled United Electrical Workers, had vigorously opposed the Truman indorsement. But after Murray's scorching blast, Fitzgerald kept silent.

Labor Activities

Walter Reuther is certain of overwhleming reelection as head of the powerful United Auto Workers. The attempt of Richard Leonard, former vice president, to stage a comeback against Reuther is getting nowhere. . . . One surprise at the CIO executive board meeting was the disclosure that Lee Pressman, former general counsel who was recently accused of being a Communist before the House Un-American Activities Committee, and an associate lawyer had charged the union $84,000 to fight a court case against the Taft-Hartley Act. . . . When George Meany, AFL secretary-treasurer, was asked if he would support Governor Dewey, the reply was, "I have never voted the Republican ticket in my life and I don't intend to do so this year." . . . Labor chiefs make no secret of their intention to seek a fourth round of pay increases if the labor market remains tight next spring and prices continue high.

Green to Run Again

William Green is not quitting his AFL presidency this year—as certain ambitious younger labor chiefs have been hoping he would.

Green, 75 years old, will run for another term at the AFL convention in Cincinnati, November 15. His reelection is certain. It will make his 25th consecutive term.

Not in the best of health, Green has been wavering on retiring for several years. There was considerable inner AFL talk about that last year. But with the stormy John L. Lewis then an AFL vice-president and presumably waiting for an opening to grab Green's place, the latter decided to stick. Subsequently, when Lewis "disaffiliated," talk again rose of the possibility of Green stepping out.

The two most likely prospects as his successor are George Meany, AFL secretary-treasurer, and George Harrison, head of the Railway Clerks Brotherhood.

Hutcheson Absent

There was a very good reason for the absence of "Big Bill" Hutcheson, long-time carpenter boss, at the AFL executive board meeting in Chicago that organized a special campaign committee to support President Truman. Hutcheson was not invited.

An ardent Republican, he headed the Labor Division of the Republican National Committee from 1932 to 1944. Hutcheson's opposition to the Taft-Hartley Act is credited as the reason for his not holding the same post this year.

Matter of Money

I can remember long ago . . . When I was still a boy . . . And just a nickel or a dime . . . Would fill my heart with joy . . . When all I ever wanted was . . . An ice cream cone or two . . . The circus or a movie or . . . A stick of gum to chew . . . But now it seems I have to have . . . A million bucks or more . . . To get the kind of happiness . . . That I am looking for . . . My family requires clothes . . . Potatoes, bread and meat . . . A car in which to get around . . . And now and then a treat . . . And so each time the mailman brings . . . Another batch of bills . . . I wish I had a doctor for . . . My economic ills

★ No. 22 IN A SERIES DEDICATED TO THE NATION'S CAPITAL, Washington ... ITS INSTITUTIONS AND ITS PEOPLE ★

THIS WEEK THE HECHT COMPANY SALUTES THE

and the men and women who safeguard our Nation in time of peace or war

● THE DEPARTMENT OF THE ARMY . . . has given a helping hand to the victims of many disasters . . . the great San Francisco fire and earthquake . . . the Johnstown flood of 1889 . . . the recent Texas City explosion, and the Maine forest fire. Flood relief has become an important function of the Army.

● THE DEPARTMENT OF THE ARMY . . . cooperates closely with leading educational institutions and industrial concerns on more than one hundred Signal Corps research projects. Among them are new lightweight telephone exchanges, adaptable to either freezing temperatures or tropical climate and climatic test chambers which simulate weather conditions found in every part of the world.

● THE DEPARTMENT OF THE ARMY . . . Medical Department . . . has revolutionized the practice of Army medicine and surgery. Close cooperation is carried on with Johns Hopkins University in the study of cancer.

● THE DEPARTMENT OF THE ARMY . . . Corps of Engineers . . . is engaged in the nation's greatest peacetime construction program . . . designed to provide Americans with the maximum possible utilization of our tremendous water resources and technological know-how. Flood control, road building, airfield construction, and the erection of hospitals are typical of the undertakings of the Corps of Engineers.

● THE DEPARTMENT OF THE ARMY . . . Army Map Service . . . whose motto is "We Map the World" . . . is deep in a peacetime project to provide essential information and knowledge of the topography of all the world.

All material contained herein has been secured from the Department of the Army and the United States Chamber of Commerce.

Since 1776 the United States Army has served as a mighty shield of our Nation in war . . . and a faithful protector of our people in time of peace. And since that same momentous year, there have been those who have served in civilian capacities . . . as executives . . . specialists . . . technicians . . . clerks . . . who have supported the Army in its every endeavor. Brought together in the Department of the Army . . . the nerve center of a vital activity . . . are all types of workers, with all types of skills, whose collective mission is the fulfillment of one objective . . . the maintenance of the security of our country.

In addition to safeguarding our Nation, the Department of the Army has pioneered in other fields, quite apart from military activity. Captains Lewis and Clark . . . the famous explorers . . . opened the great Northwest to American civilization as leaders of an Army expedition. The Panama Canal . . . a remarkable engineering feat . . . was dug under the supervision of the United States Army Engineers. The first weather bureau was organized by the Army . . . and important work has been done in the fields of communications . . . water purification . . . medicine.

Today, as we look into the future, the Army is again in the vanguard in conquering the frigid wastes of the polar regions . . . improving communications . . . making headway in healing the sick . . . helping, in countless ways, to make our civilization ever better and more productive. The Hecht Company takes pleasure in rendering this salute to the loyal patriots who help to carry out the many-sided activities of the Department of the Army.
